pointment of his successor is expected to await the return of Mayor Elsha Large from Chicago.

Further discussion of installing a reservoir and mains to serve houses in the College Crest district with city water will come up at the meeting of the water board in the water office at 7:30 o'clock. The project involves spending approximately $35,000 to make the necessary extensions and representatives of the district will meet with the board to discuss the matter.

The election of teachers for the city schools is expected to attract much interest since the board's policy on this matter has been undetermined this year. Earlier in the spring, re-trenchments, including abandonment of the Geary school, were made with the expectation of eliminating eleven teachers. So far, eight have resigned. The recent developments under the NIA, however, have changed the situation somewhat and the board probably will consider a proposition of retaining all the teachers rather than eliminating the other three of the original 11. Action on this phase of the matter, however, is problematical.

The problem of salaries also is scheduled to be considered, the board being faced with the question of further salary cuts or retaining the basis established last year.

It was understood Monday Mr. Scober had handed his resignation into the city recorder, to be submitted to the council Monday night. Arthur Henderson, councilman from the same ward and upon whom falls the duty of recommending a successor from this ward, said Monday he would not make any recommendation Monday night.

The matter of sewage disposal here is expected to be considered by the council with Dr. Frederick Stricker, state health officer, attending the meeting of the council to discuss the matter with the city fathers. He will confer with them on the point of disposing sewage under the state law.

could see new and jagged contours on the vast peak.

Streams Turn Blood-Red

When the inhabitants of the McKenzie valley awoke Sunday morning they were amazed to find that the blue and crystal waters of that beautiful stream had turned to blood red. Fishing was almost impossible. Drinking water had to be settled.

They called Smith Taylor at the Willamette forest ranger station at McKenzie bridge and he investigated and found what had happened.

A flood of water dammed up for centuries under Lost Creek glacier appears to have been released.

It has swept out through the meadows adjoining Separation creek picking up thousands of tons of red lava silt. Separation creek, Horse creek and the McKenzie from the mouth of Horse creek (near McKenzie bridge) were soon impregnated with the red ash. Some of it also believed to have found its way into Linton creek.

The McKenzie and the tributary stream were clearing Monday and it is believed the phenomenon will soon be a memory. Only occasionally in the course of centuries could such a thing happen. In the opinion of those who know mountain formations.

Water Supply is Clear

There is no danger that the Eugene water supply which comes from the McKenzie near Wallowville will be affected. The city's filtration plant and settling basins will take care of that. Nor is a little clean lava dust in any way harmful to human life or fish life.

The phenomenon is a variation on the usually slow and undramatic processes of erosion.

Some years ago, Dr. Edwin T. Hodge, University geologist wrote a book on the geology on the Sisters area which is still used as the chief text on the region.

Remains of Mt. Mazama

He holds the belief that the North, Middle and South Sisters and Broken Top mark the remains of an enormous volcanic cone which he designated "Mount Mazama." It may have been 20,000 or 30,000 feet in height. At some time thousands of years ago it blew up. North Sister and Broken Top are believed to be part of the original Mount Mazama structure. Middle and South are newer cones which pushed out through the remains. South Sister is supposed to be the youngest of the mountains, geologically, and its red lava of recent date is supposed to account for this. In the top of South Sister there is still a huge crater and a miniature, deep blue crater lake.

All the peaks, however, have been inactive for many centuries. As a rule weathering is a slow and almost imperceptible process. The various forests and promontories and the vast glaciers have gone without perceptible change for centuries.

The perennial snows and the intense cold throughout most of the year account for this. In mid-summer, however, some active erosion occurs. Under the hot mid-day suns, torrents of water pour down from the snowfields and glaciers, but as a rule this process is checked by the freezing temperatures at night.

"Dot" Dotson's Films

Among the treasures of the Obsidian club is a motion picture made by "Dot" Dotson about five years ago which shows how Linton creek does not begin to flow till the summer sun approaches its zenith.

It is a fairly well established fact that on all the peaks, vast accumulations of rock and debris are held in place by the nightly freezing process. The unusually hot weather the last few days and perhaps an unusually

3-C MEN HELP GUARD FORESTS FROM FIRE!

Forest fires, the dreaded scourge of the national forests, which take a toll of millions of dollars worth of trees each year at about this time . . . should be less destructive than usual in 1933 with a quarter of a million Conservation Corps foresters to supplement the usual force. . . . warm night on the South Sister may have released the avalanche above Separation creek.

Small avalanches are common in the high mountains. They make a noise like thunder and quite often they leave a trail of dust clouds which is difficult to distinguish from "a smoke" (forest fire). Big avalanches, however, are quite uncommon.

So far as is known, no person was on the South Sister or anywhere within danger from Friday's avalanche. Complete reports are expected as soon as the Observers are able to venture across the area. Pictures of the slide and of the damage on Lost Creek glacier are being taken.

It is considered improbable that the slide will make any permanent changes in Lost Creek glacier because it is too huge to be altered materially by any quick change, but the breaking away at the glacier mouth will be accelerated by the lowering of the dam, or moraine which holds it back.

Family Spends 4 Days On Desert Minus Food, Water

BURNS, Ore., Aug. 14. — (AP) — Without food or water for four days under a blistering sun on the desert was the experience of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Baty and their 10-month-old baby, of Lakeview.

Temperatures ranged over 100 degrees as they became stranded in the waste-land — unable to continue because of flat tires and rime which cracked and warped under the heat.

State Trooper W. A. Foster found them 90 miles south of here, near Rome, after a stage driver met Baty, who had walked 20 miles for a bucket of water.

The Batys were penniless and en route from Boise, Ida., when their car broke down.

Moody to Continue In State Position

SALEM, Aug. 14. — (AP) — Ralph H. Moody of Medford will continue as assistant attorney general in place of the late William S. Levens of Salem. Attorney General L. H. Van Winkle announced late Saturday following a conference with Moody.

Moody was placed in charge of the state's prosecution in the murder trial of L. A. Banks of Medford, after Levens died suddenly. Subsequently Moody handled the prosecution of a number of Jackson county persons who were charged with theft of ballots.

BAKER MAN KILLED

BAKER, Aug. 14. — (AP) — Carbon Drury of Baker, 39, was killed Sunday afternoon when crushed beneath his overturned automobile on the Old Oregon Trail near Dixie in Baker county. Drury, who was riding alone, was badly mangled. Tracks indicated that one of the front tires on the automobile blew out and the car plunged over a 20 foot embankment.

The indications are that radical remedies must be resorted to to safeguard the business of the nation and the happiness of the people against foolish and unrestrained transactions on the market.—Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas.

Young married couples who find themselves smothered by in-laws will have sympathy for the characters played by Helen Hayes and Robert Montgomery in "Another Language," which closes Tuesday at the McDonald theater. In the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer feature, filmed from the famous Iose Frankenstein hit, the "henry" is the husband's mother whose devotion to his interests become a selfish rivalry against the young wife's love. Included in the cast of the film are John Beal, Henry Travers, Margaret Hamilton, Willard Robertson, Irene Cattell, Minor Watson, Hal Dawson and Mabel Turner.

John Beal, who is starred with Nancy Carroll in "Child of Manhattan," story of a taxi-dancer, which closes Monday at the Hellig theater.

One of the most imposing casts assembled by Columbia in months appears in "Child of Manhattan," which closes Monday at the Hellig theater. Directed by Eddie Buzzell, the film stars Nancy Carroll as a taxi-dancer in a New York dance hall, John Beal is her leading man, Charles "Rock" Jones, Columbia's western star, plays a diamond in the rough role, Clara Blandick, Nat Pendleton, Matthew Betz, Jessie Ralph, Luis Alberni and Warburton Gamble complete the lineup.

"Gambling Ship," a melodrama whose action is set on a vessel anchored outside the three-mile limit, beyond reach of the arm of the law, closes Monday at the Rex theater. Cary Grant, Benita Hume, Jack LaRue, Glenda Farrell and Roscoe Karns play the leading roles in the film. "Gambling Ship" brings to the screen for the first time the story of events on board the luxurious floating casinos which are moored off both east and west coasts of the United States near large cities from which they can draw a wealthy clientele.

Couple Wander 3 Days in Fog

SEASIDE, Ore., Aug. 14. — (AP) — Naomi Sweet Commers, Portland artist, and Benjamin Medofsky of that city, who had been missing since Friday on Tillamook Head, returned to Seaside today.

Parties had sought them since Friday evening when they did not return from a hiking trip on the head.

Anchored beyond the three-mile limit, out of the jurisdiction of both local and federal authorities, they operate under their own rules, subject only to the control of the under-world element.

A new contribution to the list of imposing screen achievements came to State theater Sunday in the presentation of "The White Sister," with Helen Hayes and Clark Gable in the principal roles. In its poignant, touching narrative, its beautiful direction, its effective camera work and in the brilliant performances of its two well known stars, this picture stands out forcibly as an example of the best in cinema art. Included in the cast with the stars are Lewis Stone, Louise Closser Hale, May Robson, Edward Arnold and Alan Edwards. It closes Monday.

"Gold Diggers of 1933," Warner Bros.' super musical hit, which has been breaking all attendance records at the Colonial theater since it opened there last week, is being held over till Tuesday in order to afford the hundreds who have been unable to get away during the past week an opportunity to see it. The picture features five, song hits, a chorus of 200 beauties, and a great cast of stars which includes Warren William, Joan Blondell, Ruby Keeler, Dick Powell, Aline MacMahon, Guy Kibbee, Ginger Rogers and Ned Sparks.

"I'M 'SPOILED' NOW FOR ANY CAR BUT Plymouth"

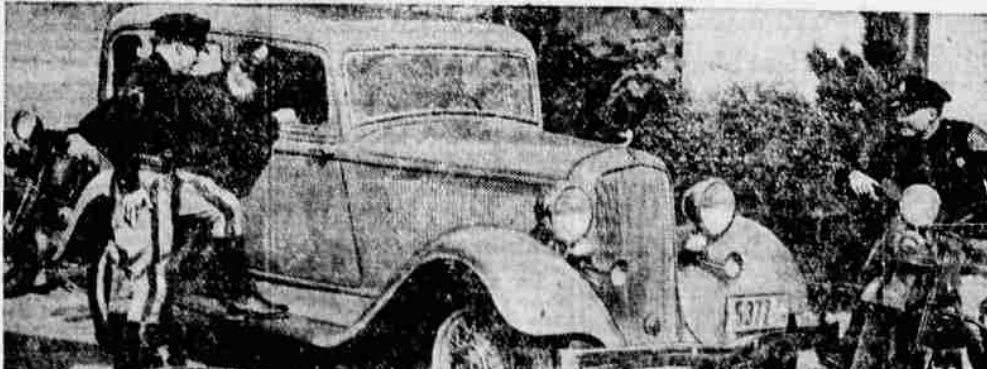

A CERTIFIED INTERVIEW WITH OFFICER HARVEY HAYES, DELAWARE STATE POLICE STATION No. 2, WILMINGTON, DELAWARE

"I had one of the boys clock me. She's good for 60 in second—85 in high!"

"Most cars eat oil at that speed—but after a run—my gauge reads 'full'!"

"Some power plant there, boy! And it doesn't keep you broke running it."

$445 AND UP FOR FACTORY, DETROIT

"How do the boys like it? Well, six of us at this station have Plymouths of our own! And we get plenty of chance to judge cars on this job."

"I Couldn't Stand My Old Car after Driving a Plymouth on Duty"

THEY'VE had three Plymouths at Station No. 2. Harvey Hayes drives one of them. And pushing his own "old crate" home (in his words) didn't thrill him any after riding behind Floating Power from noon till midnight. Now he has his own Plymouth. So have five others out of the eleven men at his station. As Officer Hayes put it, they're all "spoiled" for anything else now—after learning first hand how Plymouth flashes away on pick-up slips in and out of traffic, and brakes to smooth, quick, even stops in the tight spots. You can see for yourself how smooth Plymouth is—how easily it handles—how quickly it responds to the accelerator. You can sample Floating Power engine mountings—hydraulic brakes—rigid-X double-drop frame. Just "look at all three" low-priced cars—ride in them and compare them.
