the "meat" of the proposals are as follows in full:

Article 4. Labor Code

2. No employee in the retail grocery industry, and no one seeking employment therein, shall be required as a condition of employment to join any company union or to refrain from joining a labor organization of his own choosing.

3. Employees of labor in the retail grocery industry agree to comply with the maximum hours of labor, minimum rates of pay, and other working conditions approved or prescribed by the president.

3. While it shall be the spirit and intent of this agreement that the stores shall close their doors promptly on the hours indicated above, it shall be the meaning of this agreement that all customers in the stores shall be completely and satisfactorily served.

4. The minimum hours of any store of service operation shall be 63 hours per week, providing, however, that where store or service operations were less than 63 hours per week before July 1, 1933 this minimum requirement shall not apply nor shall such hours be reduced.

Article 6. Wages

1. The following scale of wages will be paid by the stores in the central shopping district of Eugene proper, and in other stores of Lane county insofar as they wish to follow them, to be effective not later than September 15, 1933:

(c) For inexperienced male or female help for a period of six months the wage shall be $13.00 per week; for male or female employees under the age of 16 years there shall be a wage of 25c per hour and the hours for such employees shall be between 8 a. m. and 7 p. m. and shall not interfere with day school hours.

Article 7. Trade Practices

1. The making, causing or permitting to be made or publishing of any false, untrue, misleading or deceptive statement, by way of advertising or otherwise, or failing to make true representation, concerning the grade, quality, quantity, character, nature, origin, preparation, or use of any goods, is an unfair practice.

2. The sale of any article or articles at a price which is contingent upon the concurrent purchase and sale of another article or articles, or the selling of different articles in group or combination at a single or group price which does not also specify the selling price of each separate article constituting the group or combination of articles sold, is an unfair trade practice.

The regulations governing the sale and disposal of merchandise at sale shall be those set up in the general code for the grocery industry, which when adopted by the NRA will be automatically subscribed to by members agreeing to this code.

This code is attached:

Recognizing that the policy of selling, offering for sale or advertising merchandise for less than replacement cost, plus 5 per cent, is a destructive trade practice, we the undersigned merchants of Eugene, Oregon, hereby agree, one with the other, to cease such practice immediately upon signing this agreement.

It is further agreed that in case of any complaint that one of the signatory parties has violated the agreement as expressed in the above paragraph, that a meeting of all those whose signatures appearing below will be called and a committee of three be selected to investigate the complaint. At least one member of this committee may be selected by the person complained against. This committee will then proceed to investigate the matter and its findings will be considered final.

In case the committee report shall find the charges true and substantiated, they shall assess a fine of at least $100 upon the offending member. We agree, one with the other, in case such fine is levied against any one of us to pay it within 30 days.

Quarrel Followed By Triple Tragedy

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 26.—(AP)—Ed Morrill, 40, basement excavator, enraged by an argument with his wife at their small farm home on the outskirts of Portland late this afternoon, shot and killed Della Stitt, 45, wounded his wife, probably fatally, and then took his own life with a charge of dynamite. Officers called to the scene of the tragedy, said they believed Morrill first fired five shots at the two women, as they were walking down a road near the farm, killing Miss Stitt instantly, and then went to a nearby rock-quarry, obtained dynamite upon which he reclined, and then set off the charge blowing him self to bits.

fire-pit from which the Wilson flames originated, was being pushed slowly southward by the northwest wind and was sweeping along toward Hebo.

Farther north the new Clatsop fire was heading violently toward the sea, apparently in the direction of the town of Wheeler. The community of Jewell, which for a time was believed in the path of the flame-storm, apparently was safe for the time being, although the town of Jewell was reported surrounded on three sides by fire which late today was within two miles of the C. C. C. camp near that place.

Hundreds of residents of farms and valley homes fled for safety today as the great smoke clouds burst

NEBO FIRE CONTROLLED

After burning over three or four thousand acres, the Mt. Nebo fire raging between Wendling and Leaburg was thought under control Saturday night. M. J. Skinner, fire warden, said that reports from the fire front indicated the flames were being controlled to the lines made by the 100 C. C. C. men battling the fire.

The fire is blazing on the Mowhawk side of the ridge, the blaze having not reached the McKenzie side, according to Skinner. The flames pointed the eastern skies a fiery red Saturday night after having covered the valley with a haze of smoke Friday and Saturday.

Friday night the flames leaped out of control and efforts of the firefighters were doubled to bring the blaze under control. The fire is in out-over lands of the Booth-Kelly holdings.

Washington Fires Gain ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 26.—

(AP)—Fires sweeping through large areas of Grays Harbor county forest, as well as over logged-off land, were checked momentarily late today by shifting winds, but the situation remained "acute."

The most serious fire, in the North river district, which had threatened the little logging town of Brooklyn, was isolated late today. President A. J. Morley of the Saginaw Logging company reported. Two hundred men had been fighting it.

full year there appears to be no other way out.

The first schools to open are Mapleton, Westlake and Walton which will begin fall classes on Monday, September 4. From that time on they will be opening every Monday until October 3, which is the date of the beginning of the Springfield schools.

Springfield will have only eight months' term in the grades and nine months in the high school. Most of the rural schools will have but an eight months' term, the superintendent said, whereas they have had in the past a term of eight and a half or nine months.

It is believed by Superintendent Moffitt that all the districts except the three which plan a curtailed term will pull through the year by careful handling of finances but the fact remains that the warrant indebtedness of practically all the districts is increasing steadily and it is possible that some of the schools may have to end their terms earlier than at present planned.

No action will be taken by the boundary board on the petitions of the three districts for a short term until it is seen how the fall taxes come in.

fixing in the oil industry's code flashed up again meantime with the recovery administration's chief economist under attack for permitting publicity on his statement to Johnson that the price control provisions constituted "a serious blunder."

The memorandum, which again recalled the differences over price-fixing between Johnson, the NRA chief, and Secretary Ickes of the interior department, was signed by Dr. Alexander Sachs, chief of administrator's research board, and Joseph E. Pogue, economic adviser to the administrator for oil.

WALLAMET COUNCIL TO CONTINUE PLAN FOR SCOUT GROWTH

Plans for continuation of the Wallamet scout council's participation in the president's national Ten Year plan for the development of the Boy Scout movement are being prepared and will be submitted to the executive board of the council at a meeting Friday, Sept. 1, it was announced Saturday by Dr. O. F. Stafford, president of the scout council.

The purpose of the national Ten Year plan, objectives of which were subscribed to by the local council last October, are to make one out of every four new male citizens a four-year scout-trained man.

In order to reach the standard set by the president in this plan, it will be necessary for the local council to increase its program by strengthening the troop program, adding new troops, conducting more courses for scoutmasters and assistants, troop committeemen and merit badge examiners, organize troops for outlying districts and hold more courts of honor for merit badge advancement.

Details of the plan are being worked out by L. A. Payne, scout commissioner, in collaboration with H. B. Salles, scout executive.

"Our program must be enlarged in order to adequately cover the existing demand for scouting," Dr. Stafford pointed out. "The last camp, with an increase of 40 per cent over previous camps, indicates the increased demand for scout activities which we are already planning a larger camp next year. There are at present six outlying districts which wish troops organized to provide scouting facilities for the boys of those communities and we need more troops in Eugene to care for the boys who now wish to become scouts."

The president of the council pointed out that there are 737 new boys of the scout age, 12 years, in the territory of this council each year and in order to reach the standard of the Ten Year plan it will be necessary to enroll at least 300 of these boys each year.

Churches Take Part

Mrs. Edmanson and Mrs. Turnipseed are to be heard over the radio each morning during the week.

The churches are to swing into the campaign next Sunday, when several of the Eugene pastors will devote some time to discussion of the aims and purposes of the N. R. A. This morning each Sunday school superintendent will make pertinent announcements concerning the movement.

The NRA quartet, made up of Dean Beistel, Rob Rodding, Dale Cooley, and Leland Rofe, has been enlisted to sing at the several service club meetings during the week and to take part in the radio program. The quartet will sing the national air of the Blue Eagle movement. It's a new song.

All speakers in the campaign are asked to meet with the local directing committee headed by George H. McMorran at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the chamber of commerce.

Mr. McMorran, general in charge of the local campaign, expressed his satisfaction with the interest taken in NRA in Eugene. "There are still a good many people who do not understand the movement," he said "but we are hoping to add largely to Eugene's understanding of NRA during the week, and the Blue Eagle will be a household word before very long."

Mayer's Proclamation

Following is Mayor Large's proclamation: "As mayor of Eugene I hereby proclaim this week N. R. A. week in this city. It is to be Blue Eagle week all over the United States. Eugene is always to the fore on national projects. This time the call is not only national; it is decidedly local. The welfare of Eugene's people is tied up with the success of the National Recovery movement.

"The time has gone by when we can sit and wonder whether something else would better have been tried; it is a condition, and not a theory, that confronts us. The cooperation of us all will be needed. It is needed, not at any vague future time, but right now.

"Industry, commerce, labor, the well-to-do, the poor—all are in the same boat, which has been wallowing in the trough of depression. The N. R. A. represents the first mighty concerted effort to get the boat into more friendly waters. This whole movement has two main objects—one to raise the general level of prosperity, the other to make it unnecessary for so many of our worthy people to depend on a flow of charity whose source is none too safe.

"If this plan of the national administration does not produce the needed result, no doubt something more drastic, less agreeable to many individuals, will have to be undertaken. It is therefore the part of wisdom for all of us to help put over this great national movement. Locally we should give hearty support to Mr. McMorran and his fellow-workers; we should cooperate with the members of the local committee to ask for help or information. Let us all do what we can to do, so far as lies in our power, to help put ourselves back on the high road to prosperity and to maintain Eugene's reputation for an intelligent attitude in all worthwhile movements.

"I am very happy to proclaim this week National Recovery week in Eugene and to urge that we clear up this work so that Blue Eagles will be flying from all Eugene mastheads by Labor day."

Auto Men to Meet

A special meeting of the Lane County Automotive Trade association has been called for Monday evening at the chamber of commerce rooms at 8:30 o'clock to perfect the group's code for the NRA.

The group is made up of all gasoline and oil dealers, tire dealers, garage men, repair men, and others in the automotive trades. W. H. Adrian of Springfield is president of the group.

Truck drivers will meet at the Labor hall Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock to organize under the NRA. The Industrial Union also will meet Wednesday at Labor hall at 8 o'clock to adopt a constitution and by-laws.

Retail clerks are meeting at the Labor hall Thursday and egg candlers will meet Friday to consider their code.

Conditions Better Here

The Blue Eagle is proving a popular bird around such public-spirited institutions as the Red Cross and the United States employment office, officials of the campaign say. Both these agencies are close to the problem of unemployment, and both recognize the help that such a movement as the N. R. A. will be to their work.

Said F. L. Armitage, manager of the United States employment office in Eugene: "Conditions are definitely improving here, as we see them. We have placed many more men this year than last, and there is no doubt in my mind that with the cooperation of the consumer in the present campaign conditions will continue to improve."

The general improvement in the local economic situation has been directly reflected in the activity of the Red Cross. Miss Mary H. Annin, head of the Red Cross in Lane county, said: "Oh, yes, conditions are noticeably better here. What does support of the N. R. A. mean to the Red Cross? It means a lessening of the burden, as every new job helps, directly, one of our families, and so lightens our load. The continued success of the N. R. A. movement will be a great satisfaction to all relief workers."

LANE GRAIN YIELD TURNS OUT WELL, FARMERS REPORT

Grain in Lane county is turning out better as a rule than was expected, according to farmers in Eugene Saturday.

All of the grain was spring sown, due to the freeze of last December, which killed all that was sown in the fall and as spring grain usually is not as heavy as fall grain the farmers were not expecting a heavy crop, but they have been agreeably disappointed.

The late rains in May and June, which were disagreeable to the average farmer, caused a splendid growth of all kinds of grain and appeared to be making up for the damage done by the freeze. Some of the farmers declared that their spring wheat and oats this year yielded heavier than their fall sown grain usually does.

County Commissioner Cal M. Young reports that his barley ran 35 bushels to the acre, which is not a very heavy yield, but his wheat made better than 35 bushels, which is heavier than the average. His oats went 65 bushels to the acre. This is also heavy.

Yields of 40 bushels of wheat to the acre have been reported and oats have run as high as 75 bushels.

the farmer. It will bring property taxes down in the long run.

L. E. Parks, farmer of the Cloverdale district—Personally, I am against a sales tax, but under present conditions I cannot see any other way to get relief.

W. O. Cook, farmer of the Bailey Hill district—I am and have always been in favor of a sales tax. I hope the legislature will enact such a law.

Walter Edmiston, farmer of Thurston—Something has to be done, but whether it is the sales tax or not I have not yet decided in my own mind.

George Watson, farmer and road patrolman of the Bailey Hill district—A sales tax will cause a lot of confusion and will simply be a means of spending a lot more of the taxpayers' money. I am not entirely in favor of it.

Charles Sovereign, dairyman of the Crow stage route—I worked for the sales tax prior to the last election and I am in favor of some such law at this time. We've got to have relief of some kind or we will be wiped out.

War is a terrible thing, and war in China is still more terrible with so many Chinese to be killed off, and war between China and Japan, at least in the eyes of the average American, is very terrible, what with the Japanese forcing the residents of the new Manchukuo state into such subjugation and cutting off American exports in Japan. However, have a look at the situation through the eyes of a Eugenean, recently returned from the Orient.

All Have Jobs, Taxes Lower In Manchukuo, Says Pfaff

"Summarizing the situation, it is rapidly becoming evident that every thing the Lytton commission predicted has been reversed in connection with Japan's occupation of Manchukuo."

Mr. Pfaff spent several months touring the United States as manager of the group of Japanese debaters who came to this country. With them he returned to Japan last April, remaining till June, during which time he spent more than a month observing conditions in Manchukuo, going as far north as Harbin. Things are very quiet there now, he says, the average citizen living in contentment and fair means.

Leaving Japan, the Eugene man went to China, India, Arabia, Egypt, Italy, Switzerland, Germany, France, and England enroute to his home here. In London he attended the world economic conference and in Germany he observed the results of the Hitler regime.

"Today, there is a celebration of some sort in some German city every day, thus keeping the Germans interested in Hitlerism, but soon that will wear off and then Hitler will have to find something else to appeal to the German mind and keep himself popular," Pfaff said. "What Hitler will hit upon, no one seems to know now."

Speaking again of the recent war in Manchukuo, Pfaff pointed to the Chinese generals who had retired in wealth following their vigorous fighting in "defense" of the Chinese.

"Vast sums of money were raised by Chinese in America and sent to General Feng for conducting the war," Pfaff said. "General Feng managed to conduct the war and still have enough to retire in wealth. Another prominent Chinese general ordered many of the famous treasures of the Chinese sent out of Peking when it was reported the Japanese might occupy the city. The treasures he shipped to Shanghai where he sold it to rich American collectors and now he is retired."

Mr. Pfaff plans to enter the University of Washington law school this fall. He graduated from the University of Oregon last year and was a member of the university debate team which recently toured the Pacific basin.

PARK PROJECT STORY

other Oregon cities have greatly enhanced the beauty of parks in their centers by giving special attention to beautifying natural parks already in existence, through special planning and landscaping.

The local plan is already meeting with response, although it has not come up for final approval as yet. Already, one club has suggested helping by putting in a fountain; another a plan to put in a Shakespeare garden; a third to help with the club center.

The butte park, taking in the whole north side of Skinner butte and a large piece of land along the Willamette river, is one of the most popular gathering places of the city. Scores of large and small picnics are held there throughout the summer season. Playground equipment and swimming facilities have also added to the appeal of the place.

With the trees and many trees and shrubs natural to the site already, the park can be improved to be one of the most beautiful in Oregon.

In progressing with its plans, the club will honor the memory of Eugene Skinner, founder of the city, by insisting that the park be named

For several years there have been plans to build up the park, the city planning commission some time ago having plans drawn for the work. Lack of money, however, has held back such a program.

"We feel that no time should be lost in starting the work to preserve and build up the park. While only a little can be done at a time, nevertheless, work can be started and public interest maintained in the project," Dr. Smith said.

There is some talk that some of the relief work directed by the city during the fall and winter months can be turned over for the park project, although this matter would have to be decided by the city council and other city officials.
