Sports World Split By Mrs. Moody's Default

TENNIS FOLLOWERS CRITICIZE FAMOUS STAR FOR QUITTING

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Aug. 28—(U.P.)—Helen Wills Moody's default to Helen Jacobs in the final of the National Women's tennis tournament split the sports world today. Mrs. Moody returned under care of a nurse to her California home and Miss Jacobs left for a vacation at Marblehead, Mass.

Miss Jacobs

One large group of sports followers insisted Mrs. Moody should have played through the final set, even at the risk of fainting from the numbness and pain caused by a previous spine injury.

Mrs. Moody was accused of being particularly unfair to Miss Jacobs by "quitting cold" and depriving her of the chance of winning an out-and-out, rather than a hollow default victory.

Bad Feeling Present

Mrs. Moody was able to walk off the court, these critics pointed out. Miss Jacobs probably needed a doctor worse than did Mrs. Moody. She used restoratives repeatedly during the match.

There had been bad feeling between the two Berkeley, Cal., Helens since both came into national prominence.

A smaller group of admirers rallied to Mrs. Moody's defense. These included not only some of the tennis writers, but officials of the tennis association and Miss Jacobs herself.

Mrs. Moody for years has given her best to tennis, meeting all comers from all countries with a gameness and ability never surpassed in the 40-year history of the national title, they said.

Spine Injured

Her physical condition was such that she would not have entered the national tourney were it not for her loyalty to the game and to the tennis association. She complained constantly during practice sessions preceding the match—her spine hurt and her legs weren't right.

Mrs. Moody felt she was under no obligation to treat the 7,000 spectators to a dramatic, fluttering tail spin, they believed.

Her defenders criticized the gallery members who jeered and catcalled Mrs. Moody.

Miss Jacobs said: "If Helen felt that her physical condition justified her withdrawal, then we should feel that way, too. She alone knew her condition."

RISKS TITLE!

Barney Ross, Chicago lightweight who will put his world lightweight crown on the block against Tony Canzoneri in early September. Ross won the title from Canzoneri a few months ago, and granted the little Italian a return go. The first fight was so close that experts differed as to fairness of the decision, with Ross getting the nod.

LEAGUE LEADERS WIN SUNDAY TILTS IN DOUBLEHEADERS

BY UNITED PRESS

Los Angeles, Hollywood and Portland remained bunched in that order in the tight race for Coast league leadership today after each club had won a double-header.

Henry Oana
Prince Oana

Missions set the Sacramento club back in its aspirations by winning both ends of a double bill and taking the series five games to two. The Senators now are 6 1-2 games behind the leader.

Hollywood is a game behind Los Angeles and Portland is two games from the Angels.

The Angels amassed a grand total of 45 hits in twice defeating Seattle by scores of 17 to 3 and 18 to 4. Gudat allowed the Indians only six hits in the opener, while the Angels were touching Caster and Sewell for 21. Heavy scoring attacks included nine runs in the fourth inning. In the nightcap, Buck Newson, Los Angeles, was hit nine times while the Angels were collecting 24 blows off Ulrich, Page and Walters.

Stars Win Two

Hollywood was pushed to the limit in defeating Oakland 6 to 5 in the 10-inning opener, but breezed through the second tilt, 12 to 6, in seven innings. Vince DeMaggio's three hits, including a homer that scored two ahead of him in the fourth, aided the Stars in the first game. Shellenback and Wetzell granted 10 hits to the Oaks while Ray Joiner was holding the Stars to six. The Stars went on a batting spree in the second tilt, hammering five Oakland moundsmen for 13 hits and scoring six runs in the six inning. Miljus started and Wetzell again finished for the Stars.

Close Call For Beavers

Portland needed 10 innings to nose out San Francisco 7 to 6 in the opener, and the margin was just as narrow in the seven inning nightcap which the Beavers won 8 to 7. Both clubs hit freely, and the smoke from forest fires was so bad that some pop flies went for singles, doubles and even a triple. After the Seals had tied the score in the seventh inning of the second game on homers hit by Garibaldi and Ostenberg, the Beavers pushed across a run, The Beavers won the series 5 to 2.

Missions trimmed Sacramento 8 to 5 and 6 tto 5. Dutch Lieber relieved Bert Cole in the ninth for the Missions, who were leading by three runs but with two Senators on bases. Lieber did his stuff and Cole got credit for the win.

The Townies sent Mr. Beck to the shower in the sixth inning, scoring 3 runs on a single by Wirth, sacrifice by Greene, single by Hoag, triple by Bishop and a single by Van Duyn.

HIGHCLIMBER talks 'em over

When Joe Heim, S-C enrollee assigned to a side-camp on Bohemia mountain, awoke one night and saw a "bear" shuffling towards him in the darkness, he did not jump up and attack it with his bare hands.

On the contrary, Joe did what you and I would have done under the circumstances, and remained very quiet. The "bear," as Joe later learned, was one of his forest service friends attired in the skin of a bear already killed.

But when Joe wrote home about it, he elaborated somewhat on the tale. So much so, in fact, that Joe's mother took the letter to the Horton (Neb.) Headlight, the home-town weekly. The Horton Headlight, with justifiable pride, published the story. And so it found its way back to the Brice Creek camp where Joe's friends read it and gave the young man a loud and cheerful "bird." It must be said for Joe that he took his beating in good spirit. Here is part of the letter as it appeared in the Headlight:

"Am going to tell you something which you probably won't believe but it is the truth. We went to bed last night at 8:30, and as I told you before our beds are made right on the ground with nothing about us except the coal blackness of the night. Every night we can hear the terrorizing scream of the cougar, or the nerve-racking moan of a timber wolf. But we pay no attention to that.

"My bed, as it happens, is about 30 yards from the others, as being the cook I have to sleep close to the kitchen. I was lying on my back looking into the black night and thinking of home, when all of a sudden I heard something coming towards me. Too frightened to move or holler I just laid there motionless, and all the time my heart was beating hard against my pillow. It was the funniest feeling I ever had.

"The prowler came closer and closer and with every step it took the ground would shake. And by that time I was shaking, too, I don't mind telling you. About a minute later I could feel its breath on my face—so I decided it was time to move! When I moved it growled and struck me on the shoulder with its paw; and then I knew it was a bear.

"There's an 8-pound sledge by the side of my bed, so I picked it up and swung it towards the bear. In the meantime I hollered for the boss to bring his gun. He came running just in time, because when he flashed his light the bear was standing in front of me on his hind legs. He must have been eight feet tall and weighed 600 pounds.

"We've got his hide hanging from a tree to dry right now, because the boss took one shot and put a hole in him six inches in diameter close to the heart."

Leave it to Herb Owen to bring in the wrestling material! With his promotions in Portland, Eugene and West Salem all clicking, Owen is able to summon the best talent in the world here, and this when most other wrestling centers are starving to death.

Owen has a real find in Herb Park, the Canadian ace, who is to meet Clingman here Thursday night. Park is to Vancouver, B. C., what Clingman is to Eugene—anything he says is okay with the fans. Clingman's sensational string of victories here and Park's equally sensational string in Vancouver made it inevitable that they should meet. But where, was the question? The Canadian promoters have been out after Clingman hot and heavy but Otis stuck with Owen and finally, Owen has succeeded in bringing Park here.

This boy is no ordinary Canadian "champ," most of whom are fizzles. Park has been beating all of the middleweights in the business up there and seems headed for world championship honors—unless, of course, Clingman is as good as we in Eugene think he is.

BRAVES CLIP HALF GAME MORE FROM NEW YORK MARGIN

By HERBERT W. BARKER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Despite the snapping of their eight game winning streak, the Boston Braves, sensations of the National league had clipped another half-game off the New York Giants' lead today and found themselves six games out of first place.

Dizzy Dean

With a crowd of 40,000 urging them on, the Braves hung up their eighth successive win as Tom Zachary pitched a 7-0 shutout over the Cinninnati Reds in the first game of a double-header yesterday but the Reds came back to snare the second, 5-3.

Their even split still enabled the Braves to pick up a half a game on the Giants who dropped the first gabe on a twin bill to Dizzy Dean and the St. Louis Cardinals, 7-1, and then were lucky enough to get a 5-3 draw in the second battle, halted by darkness after eight innings.

The veteran Zachary turned in one of his most impressive performances as he blanked the Reds with four hits while his teammates clubbed Paul Derringer out of the box with a six-run attack in the fifth, Pinky Whitney's double being the big blow. Fred Frankhouse was wild and ineffective in the second game and the Reds won fairly easily behind a 16-hit attack in which Ernie Lombardi and Chick Hafey contributed four safeties each.

Dean stopped the Giants with six hits and fanned six in the opening game while his mates bombarded Hal Schumacher and Glenn Spencer for 12 safeties, one a homer by George Watkins. The Cards apparently had the second game won with a four-run rally in the eighth but Fred Fitzsimmons parked a homer in the left field stands in the last half of the same frame to give the leaders a tie. A crowd of 50,000, biggest of the National league season, saw the double bill.

Dodgers Split

Brooklyn divided a doubleheader with the Chicago Cubs, bowing 2-0 to the two-hit pitching of Guy Bush in the opener but winning the second, 5-2 on a 12-hit attack on Bud Tinning and LeRoy Herrmann. Benge held the Cubs in check with eight hits, well-spaced. Pittsburgh and Philadelphia enjoyed an open date.

The American league situation remained unchanged as both the Washington Senators and New York Yankees split double-headers, leaving the Senators still eight games in front.

A crowd of 60,000 saw the Senators bunch 13 hits with nine Cleveland errors to win the first game 14-1 as Earl Whitehill scattered nine Indian hits. Cleveland drove Alvin Crowder to cover with a six run outburst in the sixth inning to take the second game, 6-3.

Detroit Divides With Yanks

Tom Bridges held the Yankees to four hits as Detroit won the opener, 4-3, but the champions smashed out 22 hits, including nine doubles, a triple and a home run to take the second, 12-2 before a crowd of 30,000. Red Ruffing pitched six-hit ball for the Yankees.

Al Simmons collected five hits and drove in six runs as the Chicago Whitesox took both games from the Philadelphia Athletics, 5-3, and 9-8. His double in the fifth inning of the opener drove in two runs and gave the Pale Hose a lead they never relinquished despite a pair of home runs by Mickey Cochrane. He drove in the winning run in the second game with a single in the ninth.

The Boston Red Sox and St. Louis Browns split a double bill, the Red Sox taking the first game, 7-5, and St. Louis the nightcap, 5-3.

Two of Broadway's ace song writers were imported from New York to do the songs and lyrics for "42nd Street," Warner Bros. mammoth musical dealing with the backstage life of the theater, which closes Wednesday at the Rex theater. They are Al Dubin, who writes the lyrics, and Harry Warren, who composes the music. Dubin has been writing his lyrics for fifteen years. Warren his songs for twelve. Both believe their songs for "42nd Street" the best they've yet done and both appear in the picture as song writers. The entire score for "42nd Street" includes "You're Getting To Be a Habit With Me," "I'm Young and Healthy," "Shuffle Off To Buffalo," and the title piece, "42nd Street." The cast includes Ruby Keeler, who is a show in herself, Bebe Daniels, George Brent, Ned Sparks, Guy Kibbee, Una Merkel, Dick Powell, Ginger Rogers, and Allen Jenkins.

* * *

Luis Trenker, internationally known as a sterling actor, an expert mountain-guide and skiier, but above all for his deeds of daring and valor as commander of the Austrian Kaiserjaeger during the World War, is now appearing at the Colonial theater in "The Rebel," a Universal special production in which he assumes the role of a zealous, impassioned patriot during the Napoleonic era. Trenker, with Edwin Knopf, wrote the story and directed "The Rebel." He is thoroughly familiar with the locale of the play, for he was born and brought up in the Tyrol in the little village of Ulrich. Vilma Banky makes her re-entry into pictures in the feminine lead in "The Rebel," and Victor Varconi is also prominent in the cast.

* * *

A mother who uses her apron strings to their fullest length to retain her sons in a sort of slavery called mother love, is defeated by Irene Dunne as the star of Sidney Howard's vital drama, "The Silver Cord," which closes Monday at the Heilig. This picture invades sacred territory because of the general concept of sanctified mother love; but it reveals the subconscious evil behind that very tradition. Irene Dunne scores a peak dramatic triumph in her characterization of the young wife, and she is ably assisted by the featured group of prominent players. Laura Hope Crews created the mother role on the stage, and again plays it in the picturization. Joel McCrea portrays Miss Dunne's husband, and Eric Linden and Frances Dee complete the cast.

* * *

Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery in "Tugboat Annie," their first appearance since "Min and Bill, are the attraction, sometimes hilariously funny, sometimes tensely dramatic, but always entertaining, at the McDonald theater, where the long-awaited filmization of the Norman Reilly Raine Saturday Evening Post story is now playing. The public has long clamored for another Dressler-Beery picture, and in the present story Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has provided an ideal one. There are hilarious quarrels between the redoubtable feminine tugboat captain and her shiftless, good-natured husband; mother-love furnishes a poignant heart interest, and there is a tremendous dramatic climax in the amazing episode in the engine room. Miss Dressler plays Annie, Beery, her husband Terry, Robert Young as Alec, the son, and Maureen O'Sullivan the sons fiancee.

* * *

Give Marie Dressler and Polly Moran something to fight about — and watch the laughs roll up. They're at it again—this time as mothers-in-law battling over the lives of their married children, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Prosperity," which closes Monday at the State theater. The story deals with two widows, who are friends, in a small town, until their children get married. Each starts in to regulate the new family—and for flies, Anita Page and Norman Foster are ideally cast as the young couple, and the children are played by little Jacquie Lyn and Jerry Tucker. Charles Giblyn, Frank Darien and Henry Armetta contribute clever comedy.

Grain Prices Sag As Exchange Drops

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Grains sagged wearily today, hauled downward by a sharp drop in exchange rates on the British pound sterling. Trading was exceptionally narrow and quiet. Fairly liberal rains over parts of the wheat and corn belts were discouraging.

Liverpool wheat prices were relatively steady, in terms of [illegible] money, but were 1 3-8 to 1 3-4 lower in dollars because of the [illegible] rate for sterling. Millers were good buyers of cash wheat. Some liquidation in corn held that down.

Wheat closed weak, [illegible] the day's lowest levels, and 1 1-4 to 1 3-4 cents below Saturday's [illegible]. Corn weak and 3-8 to 1-4 cent lower. Oats 3-8@3-4 off, and provisions 38 cents lower.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Wheat: No. 1 hard 88, Corn No. 1 yellow [illegible] No. 1 white 51, Oats No. 2 white [illegible] 1-4@38 1-4. Rye, no sales. Barley 43-73. Timothy seed 4.50-4.75. Clover seed 10.00-12.75. Lard 8.40. Bellies 6.25.
