and they totaled 20 policemen and 16 civilians.

Viera told newspapermen that reports to the effect that government forces had surrounded Captain Blas were merely propaganda.

Answer Ready

The student directory, the principal support of the Grau government, completed its answer to the opposition demand that the president withdraw. This answer was to be submitted to Havana Rotarians who are acting as intermediaries between the director and the opposition.

Shortly before destroyer number 240 entered the harbor another American ship of war, destroyer No. 151, sailed away.

SHIPS REINFORCED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Naval vessels hovering off Cuba's shores today were reinforced at trouble zones for the greater protection of any Americans needing armed shelter.

The state department emphasized there was no present intention of landing marines or bluejackets in Cuba. Instead, Secretary Hull said nations endangered by interior difficulties should move toward the warships.

Violence Spreads

But the navy's sudden orders speeding four destroyers from the Guantanamo base in Cuba, to various troubled spots were interpreted by observers as indicating a serious situation on the island. Some Americans were known to be moving within the gun range of their country's warships.

Consular advisers meanwhile reported communist demonstrations, mob violence and spreading strikes east of Havana. Hull disclosed that in the interior, some Americans were virtually prisoners.

The shifted navy cordon put two vessels off Anilla, two more off Santiago and an equal number near the Isle of Pines. Only two destroyers remained in Guantanamo bay where eight were a few days ago.

No Alarm Is Felt For Missing Pair

Forest officials were not worried Thursday over the absence of Mr. and Mrs. Art Pierce of Portland from their camp on the south fork of the McKenzie seven miles up from Belknap bridge. P. A. Thompson, supervisor of the Willamette forest, said Mr. and Mrs. Pierce had been at the camp since Thursday and were last seen Friday. Wednesday Smith Taylor, ranger at McKenzie Bridge, found the camp in good order and their car there but the couple was nowhere to be seen. Mr. Thompson said that it is quite likely Mr. and Mrs. Pierce have gone to another camp. Their neighbors in Portland said that they had often left their main camp and taken trips into the mountains for several days at a time.

If Mr. and Mrs. Pierce remain away a few days longer a search will be made for them, Mr. Thompson said.

The ancient Incas of Bolivia refused to be parted from their loved ones after death; the living and dead remained together in dark, windowless dwellings.

The winter of 1929 was the most severe in 103 years in Poland; 90 per cent of the fruit trees and nursery stock of that country perished.

PEER VISITS!

Prince Iyasato Tokugawa, above, who is known as Japan's "prince of peace," is shown here on his arrival in San Francisco for a two months' goodwill tour of this country, after which he will go to London on an unofficial visit. Prince Tokugawa retired as president of Japan's House of Peers after 30 years' service.

and Butte, Mont., Dr. Gilbert said, and officials urged all possible speed in preparing applications for projects to relieve this situation.

The delegates from four states stopped on their return at Pendleton to attend a hearing on the upper Columbia and Snake river development, especially as affecting the Umatilla Rapids.

Representatives from four states were enthusiastic for the development of water transportation as a means of lowering rates on produce from farms and mills and mines.

On the return trip the advisory boards held an extended round table discussion on a regional plan for the Pacific northwest, including development of transportation agencies, development of power, irrigation, city planning and a variety of social problems.

MEETING PLANNED

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 21.—(Special)—Rev. Deau C. Poindexter plans to go to Coburg Friday evening to show pictures of the uprising in Mexico at a special meeting in the Methodist church of that community. The pictures were taken by Methodist missionaries in Mexico.

U. S.-RUSSIA STORY

is now so deeply in the president's debt for his strong stand on collective bargaining in the National Recovery Act that it would not be expected to fight the president at this time on the Russian issue.

2. Opposition of certain religious groups, which at one time was regarded as important, is now felt to be waning; world events, it is felt, have radically changed the position of many leaders, in regard to the issue, in recent months.

3. Large trade credit extensions to the Soviet, involving upwards of $50,000,000, it is felt, could not be negotiated successfully without political recognition; such as extension of credits, however, would be expected to have a profound and immediate effect upon the activity of the so-called "heavy industries" — railroad equipment, machinery, fabricated steel — as well as providing a market for cotton and food stuffs.

4. Although domestic economic considerations are impelling factors in any final conclusion that may be reached, the president, it is asserted, recognizes that Soviet recognition would have a powerful effect towards arriving at an amicable solution of the strained Russo-Japanese situation. Observers have noted a marked lessening of the tension between the two nations within the last six months, and American recognition might be a strong factor towards a sound understanding.

KIDNAP TRIAL STORY

unscheduled drama created a furor for a time.

The defense indicated it will seek to show that Harvey Bailey, whose capture on the Texas farm of R. G. Shannon was a highpoint of Jones' narrative, knew nothing of the kidnaping until after it was all over.

Ben Laska, attorney for Albert Bates, accused of being one of the actual kidnapers, said he had not decided what defense he will make.

"The state of Oklahoma blew up my intention of pleading Bates guilty," he said, "by announcing it will charge him with robbery with firearms, which carries a death penalty."

Carnivorous animals lap up water with their tongues; herbivorous animals, as the horse and ox, suck it up.

WIERD CASE!

Dr. W. H. Hegberg, St. Paul chiropractor, is shown as he was arraigned at St. Paul on charges of assault and intent to kill in connection with the recent wierd kidnaping of Dr. E. J. Enberg, St. Paul surgeon. Lured from his home, Dr. Enberg was drugged and left in an auto on a railroad track when he refused to perform an illegal operation.

High Water Forces Out Gravel Crew

The county gravel crew at work resurfacing portions of the Mohawk highway below Marcola was compelled to shift its base of operations Thursday on account of a rise in the stream, due to recent rains. Gravel was being obtained from a bar below the Stafford bridge but the water began to cover it and the crew moved to the Culver place where the gravel is higher out of the water.

The road is being resurfaced where it had become rough from freezing weather last year. These sections will be oiled next year.
