Medical-Dental Co. Not in Litigation

Suit filed in Portland Tuesday against the North Willamette Association by C. A. Houghtaling Inc., architects, will not affect members of the Medical-Dental building corporation which was formed in 1923 to carry on the plans started through the North Willamette group, according to B. B. Brundage.

Settlements by the Medical-Dental group have completely covered claims arising from the abandoned building project itself, he says, and the new suit grows out of preliminary plans which were made at the outset of the discussions. The North Willamette Association preceded the group which actually undertook the building, at 8th and Willamette.
