

WILCOX INQUEST IS HELD TUESDAY; KLEPPEY WITNESS

Wilcox jumped out and was followed by Kleppey who shot Wilcox in the back, Wilcox dying several hours later at the Pacific hospital.

Dr. G. I. Hurley, who attended Wilcox at the hospital, said that Wilcox was unconscious when he reached the hospital but later, after treatment, he regained consciousness and talked about the shooting. The doctor said the bullet entered the body about the middle of the back to the left of the spinal column and came out above the stomach, running slightly upward. He testified that Wilcox admitted that Kleppey was justified in shooting at him and that he said "I had it coming to me."

Eye Witnesses Testify

Louis (Red) Hartley testified as to Kleppey's boarding their car and directing them to drive to the county jail and told of Wilcox's jumping out and running when the car stopped at Fourth and Lincoln. He said he did not see the shooting.

Mrs. Ada Switzer, in whose back yard the shooting occurred, said she saw the two men running and heard the shots. Hilda Jesse, living next to the Switzer house, also heard the shots and saw the men running. One with a gun in his hand, Russell Myers of Springfield, said he was in the doorway of the Zellbach paper warehouse across the street when he saw the men running and heard the shots. Eugene Brown, another eye-witness, said that Kleppey called to Wilcox to stop or he would shoot. Testimony showed that two or three shots struck the ground behind Wilcox.

Bullet Introduced

Bert Lamb, a boy living nearby, produced a bullet which he said another boy had dug out of the window casing on a house across the street from the shooting. The boy had been asked by the coroner to bring the bullet to the inquest. Testimony indicated that the bullet had embedded itself into the casing between 8 and 10 feet above the ground and as it was flattened on one side, it was thought it may have struck the pavement after being fired by Kleppey and glanced upwards.

Troy Ross, state police officer, testified that he heard the statements of Wilcox at the hospital that he "got what was coming to him" and that he did not want to get anybody into trouble over the affair.

Ray Wilcox, city police sergeant, who is a relative of the victim of the shooting, said that he arrived on the scene of the shooting a few minutes after it took place and when Kleppey told him that he had done the shooting the police officer said "I thought so." That the officer thought Kleppey was careless with his gun was brought out in the questioning that followed.

Kleppey Takes Stand
When Kleppey was asked if he desired to make a voluntary statement, he said he was glad to do so and took the stand without being sworn. He told of how Wilcox and Hartley had driven into the yard of a neighbor where Kleppey resided then and after some parleying they started the car toward the jail. He testified that he had shown the two men his commission as deputy sheriff, also that he told Wilcox that he was under arrest. Wilcox insisted that his name was Rydon and when they stopped at Fourth and Lincoln he was looking in his pockets apparently trying to find something to substantiate his claim. Wilcox suddenly jumped out of the car, Kleppey testified, and he gave chase.

Just as Wilcox jumped the officer testified, Wilcox said "I'm Blackie, all right," and ran into the Switzer yard. Kleppey testified that he called to him to stop or he would shoot. He said he shot four times, each time at Wilcox's feet. Just before the last shot he said, Wilcox seemed to slip or fall into a hole and his body was lowered. He said that he was still shooting at Wilcox's feet but due to the position of his body the bullet struck him in the back. Kleppey further testified that he approached Wilcox from the rear and that Wilcox called him a dirty name. He unfurled Wilcox's clothing and found where the bullet had come out above his stomach.

service since the local manager took charge. When Mr. McKevitt came to Eugene there was one clerk-operator and one messenger. Later the office force grew to 14 employees. At the present time depression has reduced the force to nine, but business is improving and more help will be added soon.

Mr. McKevitt says he is so grateful to the public of Eugene and vicinity for the success they have assisted him in making of the office, by their friendship and patronage, that he has not words to express his gratitude. His acquaintance throughout the entire county is so great that he knows almost immediately the quickest and proper way to route out a telegram and especially he is thankful to the rural communities for the assistance they have given in helping to deliver telegrams to their neighbors.

At this time a successor has not been named, but as the office is on a bulletin basis, it will be taken care of shortly.

Mr. McKevitt has always, until recent changes in the force made it impossible, taken his part in community affairs, clubs and lodges and he says that the opening of the fishing season Thursday has no bearing on his acceptance of his position. He has his own home here and intends to remain in Eugene, and still devote part of his time to community affairs.

combine with 1 cup of chopped celery, 1 medium sized onion, chopped, 1 cup of soft bread crumbs, 1/2 lb. bulk pork sausage, 1 egg, 1 teaspoon salt, and 1-8 teaspoon pepper. Form into a loaf and place in a casserole and sprinkle 1/4 cup American cheese, grated, over the top. Bake for 40 minutes in a moderately hot oven—Mrs. C. L. Haffner, 1819 Fairmount, Eugene.

My Favorite Dressing for Lettuce
To 1/2 cup thick sour cream add about 1/2 spoon salt and enough lemon juice to give it the desired "tang," a dash of paprika and beat well. Pour over lettuce.—Mrs. Robert McCulloch, 1376 Alder St., Eugene.

Lettuce Salad With Cream Dressing
Prepare as much lettuce as you will need for your meal, and have it very crisp. Either head or leaf lettuce may be used. Mix together heavy cream (sour or sweet) sugar and vinegar in proportions to suit the taste. Cover the lettuce with this dressing. Mix lightly and serve at once. I like to add red radishes, and sliced hard-boiled eggs. This makes a very pretty salad. Onion or chopped nuts may be added.

I think this a very handy dressing if one has extra cream. I like to put my meal on to cook then like to the garden for my lettuce. The dressing is mixed in a jiffy and your salad is very fresh. Radishes and eggs take more time so should be prepared before.

Different Spinach
Wash 2 pounds spinach through 6 waters. Put in a little boiling water as possible and cook. While cooking simmer an onion in butter until tender but not brown. Add two cups of cream milk. Pour cold water over spinach. Squeeze all water out of it and chop fine. Add milk and onion liquid and heat but do not boil. When prepared in this way spinach reheated the next day tastes like fresh.—Mrs. L. G. Klueckert, R. S. Eugene.

precincts. Names also may be written in if voters desire.

In the G. O. P. ranks in Lane county there is a mild flurry occasioned by the choice of a committee chairman this year as Dr. Harris is expected to withdraw from the picture. He made no formal announcement as yet, but it is considered certain he will not be interested in the position he has held for several years.

With the matter of selecting a chairman before them, various factions of the republican party are casting about in an attempt to select a man satisfactory to their interests. Two names are being discussed at present in this connection. Many members of the younger republicans are favorable to the selection of Don Husband, local attorney, who has been active in republican activities for several years and who served as secretary of the central committee during the last term.

Other members of the party, particularly those of the old-line group, are said to favor the selection of Fred Sichel as chairman. Sichel also has the support of some of the younger group, it is said.

Heffron States Stand
Following the May primaries, precinct committeemen of each party will be called together to elect their chairman and at that time the matter will be settled.

F. C. Heffron, who filed for the republican nomination as representative to the lower house Monday, Tuesday announced his platform in the following statement:

"Will oppose further bonded indebtedness, and levying taxes for unnecessary matters, and for things ordinarily necessary which we can get along without until financial conditions improve. Will advocate reform of laws of evidence in criminal prosecutions to prevent those prosecuted from missing good laws. Will advocate the repeal of the horsecar legislation passed by the legislature, and oppose all other laws seeking to legalize gambling. Will also advocate the enactment of an adequate local option law, and a law preventing saloons near schools, and a law prohibiting girl bartenders in saloons."

Howard's Hat In
Emmett Howard, who also seeks the republican nomination, Tuesday issued the following statement:

"As a candidate for the republican nomination of state representative for Lane county, I served you in this capacity during the sessions of 1925, 1927, 1929, and 1931. During those eight years of service I held some of the most important committee assignments in the lower house. For the sessions of 1927 and 1929 I was chairman of the roads and highway committee, conceded to be one of the most important committees of the house."

"I am not going to make any campaign, for I believe in the principle of the voter exercising his or her franchise of citizenship in voting for whom and what they please. If eight years of experience as your representative is of any value in this time of emergency, and you are satisfied with my past record, and you desire that I again represent you, go to the polls and cast your vote in my behalf. If my past record is not satisfactory, I should not be nominated and elected."

"I am not a member, nor in any way connected with the following organizations: Spring Hardmen Hats $4.00 Byrom and Hoselton 32 East 10th"

Mr. McKevitt says he is so grateful to the public of Eugene and vicinity for the success they have assisted him in making of the office, by their friendship and patronage, that he has not words to express his gratitude. His acquaintance throughout the entire county is so great that he knows almost immediately the quickest and proper way to route out a telegram and especially he is thankful to the rural communities for the assistance they have given in helping to deliver telegrams to their neighbors.

MASS SLAYING STORY

der one of the victims of the Bremerton mass-murders became a leading clue today in efforts to track the slayers.

Authorities discovered the hat under the battered body of Frank Flieder, retired Bremerton grocer, and owner of the beach house where six persons were killed last Thursday night apparently during a drunken brawl.

A piece of paper, found in the sweat band of the hat, bore the name "Martin Zeller." It was learned that the hat did not belong to any of the four men victims—Flieder, Eugene Chenevert, "Singing bartender" Magnus Jordan, beach colony caretaker, or Fred Balcom, Bremerton and Seattle beer parlor bartender.

Authorities have been unable to establish ownership of the hat in Bremerton and Seattle. They extended their investigation to other parts of the northwest.

NEGRO HUNTED

PORTLAND, Ore., April 3.—(AP)—Portland police today took up the almost hopeless task of attempting to find a nervous negro who may have had some knowledge of the Bremerton mass-murders.

Albert Wilson, newsboy, reported to police that the negro approached him Saturday night and tried to buy a Seattle paper. He said the negro appeared extremely nervous and displayed unfamiliarity with the city when the boy attempted to direct him to a large news stand where Seattle papers are sold.

MAY TRACE CAR

OAKLAND, Cal., April 3.—(AP)—Authorities of El Cerrito, Alameda county, today sought to connect an automobile stolen here with one found near the scene of the wholesale slayings at Bremerton, Wash. Description of the automobile stolen from A. M. Bateman, El Cerrito, was sent to the Washington authorities. The car was taken from a garage last Tuesday.

Tickets will be on sale at McMorran and Washburne's, the University Co-Op, by individuals and at the door of the playhouse on E. 13th street the evening of each performance beginning Monday.

An unusually striking set is being built by Lance Hart, of the University art faculty, and Kenneth Shumaker and Wallace Beebe are engineering elaborate sound and light effects. In the building of a floor for the setting, there will be an interesting experiment in the use of new materials.

Howard Hall, of the Eugene Concrete Pipe company, agents for Durath, a new material for interior decoration, has offered to build the floors out of this material.

"Though intended for wall coverings," said Mr. Hall, "it is hard enough to resist all kinds of wear, and I feel sure we can build a floor out of it which will not only be resistant to wear but have unusual color effects."

Entries in the Oregon Coast legend and true story contest must be sent to the Coast Story Editor of The Register-Guard by not later than 6 p. m. Saturday night. Each story must not exceed 400 words in length. It must be plainly typed or written. It must be historical fact or otherwise legend—not pure fiction. Winners will be announced in Monday's papers.

day, April 22, when the rhododendrons are in full bloom. People will be urged to drive to Mapleton where boats will be on hand to transport them free of charge to Florence. A sea food dinner will be prepared and visitors will be shown the advantages and developments of the port.

It also was decided to appoint a committee to publicize the coast section of the county.

Several members of the Eugene chamber attended the meeting. Walter Ransom gave a short talk on the progress of highway plans including the short route project. Fay Bennett acted as official greeter of the Eugene chamber and welcomed the newly formed Mapleton chamber into the ranks of chambers of commerce of the county. H. E. Cully discussed the proposed traffic survey of the county and V. H. Todd outlined engineering features of the proposed short route.

O-C FUNDS STORY

wired the committee that the secretary of the interior will approve companion bills introduced in the house by himself and the senate by Charles L. McNary for the return of O and C funds to the counties if the bills receive the recommendation of the director of the budget.

Ruling Hite Hard

The bills are necessitated by a ruling by Comptroller John R. McCarl of last year, which interpreted the 1926 law as meaning that the counties were to be paid the equivalent of taxes as the timber on the land taken over by the government was sold, and not regardless of whether timber sales brought in an equal amount. The opinion held by the counties, which argues that within several years the timber sales income and the government advances would be equalized.

McCarl's ruling has taken between $400,000 and $450,000 from the income of the 18 land grant counties annually, forcing a higher tax rate, according to members of the executive committee in attendance Tuesday morning, and requiring a stringent cut in county expenses.

Flood Control Talked

The Oregon congressmen have complete documentary record of the case of the land grant counties, from the time the O and C lands were taken over by the government, through the hearings on the 1926 law and on McCarl's ruling last year.

During the afternoon session, which was attended by several other representatives as well as the executive committee, the cost and feasibility of an aerial picture, made in strip form, of the Willamette valley from Eugene to Portland, showing the river and its tributaries, was discussed. This picture would be for the use of C. C. Hooley, state PWA engineer, in securing government assistance for a flood control survey of the area.

The county commissioners and judges will also discuss methods of approaching the proper authorities in Washington to secure funds for a control project. "This is the biggest thing we've ever tried in the Willamette valley," declared Judge D. O. Woodworth of Lane county, chairman of the afternoon session. "Upwards of $2,000,000 is the cost of floods in the Willamette valley annually."

Many Attend Meet

Here as members of the O and C executive committee were County Commissioner B. S. Nichols and District Attorney Guy Gordon of Douglas county, Judge Woodworth of Lane, Commissioner W. S. Allen of Yamhill, Commissioner J. E. Smith of Marion, Commissioner O. E. Crowe, of Lane, Commissioner Ralph Billings of Jackson county, Judge Victor Moses of Benton, chairman of the committee. The only absent member was Judge D. E. Thompson of Coos county. Judge Fred E. Eick and Commissioner Cal Young of Lane were invited to sit in on the meetings during the morning.

strength for a finish fight in Insull's behalf, Greek lawyers rushed here from Athens. Others were retained in Istanbul.

Despite the apparently insurmountable odds, they had prepared to battle to the last ditch against both the arrest of the weeping Chicagoan, held today in the hospital room of the house of detention under what is called "house arrest," and his actual extradition.

Turkey considers the Insull case closed. After authorities had said Insull would be denied the right of appeal, the court of session made it final by definitely ruling against any new move.

It was not known what arrangements the American government was making to speed Insull's return. American Ambassador Robert P. Skinner has requested instructions from Washington concerning sending Insull to America.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—(AP)—The state department today instructed Robert P. Skinner, American ambassador to Ankara, to convey to the Turkish government the American government's appreciation of Turkey's prompt action in arresting and extraditing Samuel Insull.

Turkish police have been requested to hold Insull until the necessary arrangements for his return to Chicago have been made.

These are the Center Leaves—the Mildest
Leaves—the heart of Lucky Strike

As you can see from this picture—Luckies' fine, smooth quality doesn't just happen—for we use only the center leaves! Not the top leaves because those are under-developed—not ripe. Not the bottom leaves because those are inferior in quality—they grow close to the ground and are dirt-covered, coarse, sandy. We select only the center leaves—for which farmers are paid higher prices—for the center leaves are the mildest leaves—they taste better—then—"It's toasted"—for throat protection. And every Lucky is fully packed with these choice tobaccos—made round and firm—free from loose ends—that's why Luckies do not dry out. Luckies are all-ways kind to your throat.
