New Millinery's Formal Opening To Be On Friday

Formal opening of Reeds Millinery at 955 Willamette street, will be held Friday morning, according to Sam Miller, who is supervising the store's opening here.
The local Reeds store is one of a large chain of individual millinery shops located in principal cities all over the country. The only other one in the state is in Portland, but there are many in Washington and California cities.
Because of the large organization the shops have a big buying power, which enables them to offer high class merchandise at low prices, according to Mr. Miller. Latest styles and materials are always to be found in the Reeds stores, he added.
The site now occupied by the new business was formerly the location for the Cos Stationery company, which has moved to East Broadway. The Reeds company completely remodeled the location, employing only local labor for this work. A permanent manager and two salesgirls will also be chosen from Eugene residents.
The Reeds concern has established a store in Eugene because of its confidence in the business future of this region, which it feels is very good, according to Mr. Miller.

County Lawyers To Meet Friday

The Lane county bar group is to have its regular meeting Friday evening, starting with a dinner at 6:15 o'clock at Lee Duke cafe.
Judge James T. Brand of Marshfield is to address the group on "Administrative Law and Judicial Power." There will be other entertainment also.
All lawyers of the county are invited to the meeting.
