

MARKET BERRIES MORE PLENTIFUL

More strawberries were in the market Monday morning than at any time in the past several weeks. Several crates were on the market. The price is two boxes for $1.00. The berries are very good, and the price accordingly is up. Prices for Monday were as follows:

Little Strawberry Sprouts Topknot, Gains Immortality

Luther Burbank achieved some wonders in his time, but one little strawberry, growing near Goshen, got ideas this spring and set out to rival the great man's work. Not content with being an ordinary strawberry, this little strawberry still had an urge to go places and do things after it reached its normal growth. Being a wild strawberry, it let no conventions interfere. Several days later its fellow strawberries noted queer goings on. The little strawberry was sprouting a "topknot." It wasn't long before the topknot had become a young strawberry plant, growing right out of the top of the little strawberry. "Ah!" said the little strawberry, "I am no longer just a strawberry; I shall be famous for acres around!"

The little strawberry dithered how famous. Even as he thought of his achievement, Mrs. W. T. Cornelius, who lives near Goshen, happened by, and noting the little strawberry's "topknot," thought it should be immortalized in print. She gently plucked him and brought him, wondering, no doubt, to the Register-Guard office. Even now, he lies, slightly wilted, but confident, nonetheless, on the writer's desk. As the typewriter keys click, he spruces slightly. He seems to know that by Sunday evening half of Lane county will have heard of him.

MINSTREL SHOW IS WELL RECEIVED HERE

A capacity crowd of more than 600 enthusiastically received the minstrel show sponsored by the Knights of Columbus Friday evening at St. Mary's hall.

One of those expressing his thorough enjoyment of the show was John Stark Evans, popular Gleeman director, who declared the show was excellently done, cleverly presented, and displaying lots of talent. The voices were fine, he said, and he commended the good continuity of the show.

Soloists starring in the program were Alvin Karpis, John McMillan, Charles Moore, Austin Frey, William Dion, two numbers that "brought the house down" especially were Mr. Frey's rendition of "The Man on the Flying Trapeze," and Mr. Moore's singing of "Old Black Joe."

The quartet, made up of Dale Cooley, Dean Beistel, Leland Rohe, and Albert Freese, sang two numbers.

The operetta, "King of Cannibal Isle," was well received, too, and another popular feature was the dancing.

George H. Miller was general chairman for the show. Miss Cora Moore directed the music. Hugh Byran was minstrel director and Dale Cooley was assistant director.
