

YOUTH ACCUSED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN DEATH OF JACKSON

In the Eugene hospital, the injured officer greeted him by saying "Why didn't you fellows stop that night?" Willis, officers said, broke down and admitted he was in the car.

Later, at the Eugene police station, he voluntarily wrote out a statement to officers, outlining in detail the actions of himself and Clyde Fisher, but indicated neither of them realized a police car was following them and couldn't understand how the accident had happened.

Driver Recognized
Foster, officers said, had been questioned Monday as his car answered the description of the pursued machine, but at the time Officer Quinn was unable to identify either Foster or the car and he was allowed to go. State police, however, kept track of his actions and he left for Salem where he was picked up by state police Wednesday following Willis' statement implicating him as the driver.

Simultaneously Tuesday evening, officers received two tips on the occupants of the West Springfield, went to Sheriff C. A. Swartz and told him he and three other youths, Blaine Fisher, Kenneth Cox and Bruce Squires, had been driving east on Broadway and had been passed by the fleeing machine and the police car. Later, after the accident, the boys stopped at the scene of the tragedy while Jackson's body was being taken from the water.

Schantal told the sheriff he had recognized the car and the driver. Pair Act Nervous
At about the same time, A. J. Cowart, night officer at Springfield, informed Chief of Police Carl Bergman that he had seen the Foster car and the two occupants come in to Springfield shortly after midnight and drive up to a beer parlor. He was attracted by what he termed the "unusual actions" of the pair and got near enough to them to see they "acted in a nervous manner."

Cowart told Chief Bergman he heard one of them say "I thought he was going to arrest us." It was brought to the station and held for investigation. No decision as to the disposal of the reward offered for information leading to the arrest of the two men has been reached yet, it was announced. F. L. Beard, who started the fund, contributed $25 and the East Side Cleaners contributed $5. It is likely the reward will be divided among those considered responsible for important information.

The car is a large touring car, with the top down and was of blue-gray color, officers said. Heroic Work Praised High praise for the heroic work of Langley, Ralph and Charles Young, the three young men who stopped and recovered Jackson's body from the police machine as it lay on its top in the mill race Saturday night, was voiced by county and city officials Wednesday.

"I wish personally to extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to the three Young brothers for their courage in diving into the water to extricate Officer Jackson from the submerged car," said Chief Bergman. "They cannot receive too high praise for their action that night."

Mayor Elisha Large also expressed his personal commendation to the three men and announced that the matter would be placed before the city council meeting next Monday night at which time it is expected the council will extend the official thanks of the city to the three men.

Pending action of the city police committee and Chief Bergman in filling the vacancy on the force, Harry Hoare and Charles Blasco have been engaged in the capacity of special officers.

Stabbing Damage Case On Trial in Circuit Court

The case of Flem Henderer, as guardian of Merrill Henderer, minor, against Merle Nighswander, in which damages are sought for the stabbing of Merrill Henderer by Nighswander several months ago, came up for trial in circuit court Wednesday afternoon.

Nighswander injured Henderer with a steel chisel during an altercation on the road in the vicinity of Hadleyville. Nighswander was subsequently arrested on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon but the grand jury exonerated him and now he is being sued for damages on account of the injuries inflicted upon Henderer. General damages of $1500 and special damages of $170.70 are being asked for.

The case of Jane B. Tanner against the World Attractions company, in which damages in the sum of $2525 are sought because of injuries alleged to have been sustained when she fell into the orchestra pit of the Hellig theatre, went to the jury about noon Wednesday. The personnel of this jury follows: Mira Caley, Asher M. Veach, Ora Reed Hemenway, William Maddaugh, V. E. Grousebeck, Leathie Rychard, V. C. Chase, Daniel Spores, Samuel J. Renshaw, Fred W. Bloomfield, Bertha Dorris and Effie Knapp.

Peddlers' Act Is Violated By Two
Lane county producers have evinced great interest in the conviction in Marion county last week of W. S. Hurst and W. Reginald Hurst under the produce dealers and peddlers' act passed by the state legislature in 1933. Lane county was one of the principal backers of the bill.

The two Hursts, who are officials of the Oregon Potato and Onion Exchange of Portland, were convicted on a charge of representing themselves as cash buyers when they were not. The 1933 act makes this a criminal offense, with sentence and fine not to exceed $5000, one year imprisonment, or both. Sentence in the case has not been given yet.

The case resulted after the two Hursts bought a large quantity of onions from Ginn and Oscar Malter of Brooks, and failed to pay cash for them, although the two men are registered with the state department of agriculture as cash buyers.

The produce dealers' and peddlers' act calls for the licensing of all dealers in farm produce other than the grower himself.

Where they will be associated with the "Omaha college," maintained by the University of Wichita, during the summer.

STRIKERS ATTACK LAUNCH OPERATORS AT SOUND, FRISCO

had previously claimed another victim.

The government's proposal to "supervise" the hiring halls—a moot point in the strike—was up to the strikers themselves for consideration. The shippers already had accepted it, provided the strike was ended.

Launch Pilot Shot
But while messages were being exchanged regarding the government plan, a swift launch overhauled a tug carrying non-union longshoremen across San Francisco bay last night and opened fire, pirate fashion. The master of the tug, Captain Reese Pomeroy, 31, of Long Beach, Calif., was seriously wounded. The 29 others aboard were not hit.

The bullet was said by doctors to have narrowly missed Pomeroy's heart. He had been working for the San Francisco-Oakland bridge builders, and was making extra money transporting waterfront workers from the San Francisco centers to the east bay. Despite his wound, he maneuvered his boat to the Berkeley pier before collapsing.

WILLING TO CONSIDER
In Seattle, representatives of Pacific Northwest ports gathered to consider peace proposals and the conditions under which ships bound for Alaska with necessary foodstuffs would be released for loading and dispatch.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association, flew there for the conference. He told inquirers the I. L. A. had no fear of "government participation" through the federal employment service in management of the longshore-hiring halls. He said he believed the strikers would be willing to "consider" the proposal, which was put forth from Washington, D. C., by Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward P. McGrady.

MISS PERKINS HOPEFUL
WASHINGTON, June 6.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins of the labor department expressed the hope today that the longshoremen's strike on the west coast will be reached within a few days.

Growers-Grocers Committee Formed

Preliminary organization of a growers-grocerymen's committee for the discussion and solution of mutual problems was effected at a meeting Tuesday evening of representatives of growers, Lane county Pomona grange, and the local grocerymen.

The organization followed upon a recommendation by the grange recently that such a group be formed. Another meeting will probably be called next week.

In the group are William James and E. C. Hart representing the vegetable growers, F. E. Chambers and Elmo Chase representing the grange, and Otto Schmidt and Ben Perlich for the grocers.

The committee is planned as a clearing house for all problems which the growers and grocerymen of the vicinity may have in common.

of thousands of families affected by the drought. There need be no fear of food shortage, however, he emphasized.

To the meeting at the capitol, Hopkins said his relief agency would be caring for 300,000 families in drought territory by the end of the week and that 150,000 of these were already deriving a living from work projects. It was explained earlier that the program would include work on roads, conservation of water supplies, soil erosion and similar projects.

He estimated more than a million persons were receiving government benefits as the result of the drought. In reply to a suggestion that the relief administration should not pay too high a wage level in farm areas, Hopkins said he had no intention of setting up a big public works program "at miserably low wage rates" as long as he was "running the show." He added there would be no "exploitation of the people" because of the situation.

Under the work program, he said, farmers will be paid a minimum wage of 30 cents an hour, the scale above that to be determined by the states on the basis of existing schedules.

The committee's statement, drafted as a platform for its campaign to win back congressional seats in the fall, was issued as the party leaders went into the second day's session here.

A charge that a "small group in Washington" sought "complete government control of agricultural production and all business activities" was in the statement, along with one that the administration was guilty of reckless spending.

"The administration has committed the country to a program which unless checked will lead to the chaos of unlimited inflation," the G. O. P. leaders said.

Eugene Post of V. of F. W. Given Convention Cup
Eugene post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was awarded the silver cup at the annual state convention of the order at Medford this week for having the largest numerical gain in membership during the past year. At the time of the last convention the Eugene post had but 65 members but at the present time there are on the rolls 205 men, although there are some who have not yet been initiated. This news was brought back to Eugene by Bayard Welch, commander of the local post, who attended the meeting.

Mr. Welch said Wednesday that the veterans had a very successful convention and many of them are staying over for the Diamond Jubilee which is now in full swing. He said that the city is elaborately decorated for the affair and that arrangements have been made to furnish rooms for everybody.

FRANKLY, one of the chief reasons why I enjoy Chesterfield is the fact that I don't get little crumbs of tobacco in my mouth.

Rarely ever do I find a Chesterfield that isn't well filled. The tobacco in them seems to be of the right length, and they must be the right size because they burn right and smoke right. I like them also because they are milder.
