

CREAMERY FIRE LOSS DECLARED NEARLY $25,000

his way here Friday to appraise the loss.

Dull Noise Heard

The blaze was discovered around 11 o'clock, just after C. Leslie, night watchman, had made his rounds and found nothing wrong. Leslie was downstairs wrapping butter when he heard a dull noise, which might have been an explosion or something heavy falling, he said.

He dashed upstairs to find the entire rear section of the upper story a mass of flames. He called the fire department and when firemen arrived the entire second story was aflame.

Gas Bothers Firemen

Escaping ammonia gas and the fumes from several burning automobiles stored in the building handicapped the work of firemen. Resorting to masks, they were unable to see through the thick black smoke and were forced to battle the flames without protection from the ammonia and burning rubber fumes.

Several lines of hose were carried through the windows of the second floor and firemen battled the fire through the windows.

The flames were confined to the top part of the building and by midnight the fire was extinguished.

Fire department officials were uncertain about the origin of the fire, but expressed doubt that it was caused by defective wiring because the flames spread over a large area too quickly. Officials of the plant said it was not likely that the explosions heard caused the fire as they were thought to be paint cans or fly-spray containers which exploded when struck by the heat.

Other Creameries Aid

Workmen were busy cleaning up the building Friday and milk and cream was being received from farmers as usual, Harnden said. The Medio-Land and Reid creameries were aiding in bottling milk Friday and the Eugene Fruit Growers association offered assistance in the ice cream department. The ice cream plant was not damaged by the fire, but it will be a little time before operations can be resumed, it was said.

"While our service will naturally be hampered for a day or two, we wish to assure everyone that it will be maintained as well as possible and will be placed in normal operation within a day or two," Mr. Harnden said.

Mr. Harnden was attending a meeting of the Lane county cream quality improvement committee at Pleasant Hill when the fire started and did not reach the scene till shortly after 11 o'clock, he said.

Disaster Narrowly Averted

Fire trucks had just reached the station shortly after 3 a. m. after cleaning up at the creamery fire and getting equipment back into the rig and the motor of one truck was still running when the alarm sounded, calling the department to Villard street between Nineteenth and Twentieth where an old house was ablaze.

When firemen reached the scene the old house, which had been occupied by transients, was a mass of flames and houses on each side of the burning structure had caught fire. Firemen turned their attention to saving the houses on each side as the old building was beyond hope.

It was believed that had this fire started a few minutes sooner, before the fire equipment had been gathered up and placed in the trucks, six or seven houses might have burned as the flames were spreading rapidly.

The house which burned was owned by I. J. Estes, who lives at 1392 Olive; the house on the north side, 1947 Villard, is owned by Bertha Furrow while the house on the south side is owned by A. J. Tabor, Portland, and was occupied by G. Bartell. Both these houses were badly scorched.

Earlier in the evening, at 7 o'clock, the fire department made a run to Fourth and Washington to extinguish a sawdust fire and 15 minutes later another truck went to 2005 Franklin boulevard where another sawdust fire had been reported.

At 8:30 o'clock a truck was sent to 1071 Seventh avenue west for a grass fire.

of labor, which in some of the building industries, especially lumber, has risen from 50 to as high as 400 per cent.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief chief, is expected to take charge of the housing program unless he personally signifies a contrary preference to the president. This he may do, in view of his liking for present duties.

Plans are being made to dramatize the program with celebrations, similar to those under which NRA was launched with huge parades throughout the country, the informant said.

The building materials industry will be among the first to "get on the band wagon," it was added, with their announcement of price slashes. The lowered prices will have the complete sanction of the government.

When the plan was first broached, the informant said there was some discussion with labor leaders about a method of reducing labor costs, but no agreement was reached.

Lumbermen and other building material manufacturers today said the housing program is the most important plan so far advanced by the administration toward increased use of such products and betterment of the industrial outlook.

FRIDAY PROGRAMS

HEILIG—Double bill, "Wild Boys of the Road," with Frankie Darro, Dorothy Copman, plus "Honor of the Range," with Ken Maynard. Ends Saturday.

STATE—Double bill, "All Men Are Enemies," with Hugh Williams, Helen Twelvetrees, plus "Son of Kong," with Robert Armstrong. Ends Saturday.

REX—Double bill, "Hell Fire Austin," plus "Man Called Back," with Conrad Nagel. Ends Sunday.

COLONIAL—Double bill, "Tonight Is Ours," with Freddie March, Claudette Colbert, plus "Savage Gold," headhunter thriller. Ends Saturday.

MCDONALD—Double bill, "Tarzan and His Mate," with Johnny Weissmuller, Maureen O'Sullivan, plus "He Was Her Man," with Joaquin Blondell, Jimmy Cagney. Ends Saturday.

"Tarzan and His Mate" now showing at the McDonald theater, is full of primitive love, primitive hate, primitive murder, primitive what-have-you? Jane Austen has stripped the veneer of civilization (and starchy articles of attire) to live with Tarzan, and to share the dangers of the forest. Johnny Weissmuller is excellent and is convincing in the difficult characterization of Tarzan. Joan Hardcastle's "Kiddie's Review," consisting of dance numbers by children, is beautifully done, and very entertaining. It runs at the McDonald through Friday and Saturday.

Heilig offers a new double bill today, "Wild Boys of the Road," plus a western, "Honor of the Range." First named is a dramatic, rather heavy picture telling of the trials and difficulties faced by runaway kids, venturing their way about the country. Second good old hell-for-leather western, with Ken Maynard hell-for-leathering.

State offers "All Men Are Enemies," with Hugh Williams, plus "Son of Kong," the sequel to "King Kong." Two more different pictures could not be found. First is quiet, well done love story, second wild action picture, featuring little Kong, and turning into a hilarious comedy mid-way through. Both entertaining, if not taken too seriously.

"Tonight Is Ours," at the Colonial is one of those delightful, just a trifle risqué, sophisticated comedies, and we urge all patrons of this type of art to drop in. On the same bill is "Savage Gold," which is a thrilling narrative, so they tell us, of the head hunters. And by the way, don't forget Fay Baker and her world's fair fan dance Sunday. Come early if you want a front seat.

Rex has a pair of old-timers, "Man Called Back," with Conrad Nagel, and "Hellfire Austin," which is by way of being a western. Saw the first one some time ago, but can't remember a great deal about it. And since there are no press sheets available, you'll have to take a chance.

TALK IS SCHEDULED

Rev. Martin P. Simon, pastor of the Grace Lutheran church, will discuss the topic, "Does it pay to pray for rain?" over KORE Sunday at 1 o'clock.

Work on every phase of the Oregon Trail is going ahead rapidly, and already is far advanced over this time of any previous event, it is declared.
