

OREGON WORKMEN COMPENSATION IS ON SOUND BASIS

SALEM, July 10.—(AP)—The number of appeals from the decisions of the state industrial accident commission on workmen's compensation has been reduced more than 50 per cent the past year, and places the state among the lowest in appeals of 44 states which have such acts. It was reported today by members of the Oregon commission. It holds the low record on the Pacific coast.

Out of about 20,000 claims during the year ending July 1, 1933, there have been but 49 appeals to the courts, Albert Hunter, chairman, stated.

The industrial accident department is supported entirely from private funds of employers and employees and does not require legislative appropriations, and is the only one in which workers pay a share, or about 13.1 per cent. Since the commission is allowed 10 per cent for administration, the workers pay more than costs of the enactment of the law.

Further, Hunter declared, the commission the past few years has operated below the 10 per cent, as low as seven and a half, due to economical administration and low salaries being paid to the department.

The commission received from contributions under the workmen's act more than $2,800,000 the past year, of which more than $2,250,000 has been paid out in claims and about $200,000 added to the reserve fund.

No Stops Scheduled For Trail Caravan

plans and completion of various union representatives.

Harry Bridges, a member of the international longshoremen's association strike committee, presented two letters in support of his argument that city officials "have consistently been on the side of the shipowners to the extent that they have created a reign of terror in San Francisco."

He also declared that for one union to return to work pending settlement of grievances presented by the 10 maritime organizations "would be tantamount to strike-breaking."

Discrimination, he charged, was the real reason why labor wanted to run its own hiring halls.

Strategy Board Is Heard

After Bridges had concluded, the labor disputes board went into private session with the San Francisco labor council's strike "strategy" committee of seven members. The purpose of the meeting was not announced.

The battle scarred San Francisco waterfront remained outwardly quiet under the watchful eyes of 2,000 national guardsmen who were fired by the militiamen late last night and early this morning.

PERKINS SPEAKS

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(AP)—Secretary Perkins indicated today she felt the San Francisco maritime strike could be settled if the sympathy strikes of nine other unions could be submitted to arbitration.

The labor secretary said she believed the longshoremen and their employers would agree to the three-point settlement program proposed by mediators several weeks ago.

That proposal provided for recognition of the union, submission of all questions of hours and wages to arbitration, and joint control of hiring halls by employers and employees.

The union rejected the settlement at that time because it wanted exclusive control of the hiring halls.

"I have some belief that if all the grievances of the unions on sympathy strike could be submitted to arbitration," Miss Perkins said, "they would be settled."

SPORTS

POLO GROUNDS, New York, July 10.—(AP)—Deadly slugging of the American league's most famous baseball players brought them from behind in a barrage of slugging hits today to capture the major league all-star game, 9 to 7. The victory made it two straight for the American league over the National league stars in games played in 1933 and today.

power and will if necessary, to re-evaluate their decisions.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(AP)—For the third time since repeal, the federal alcohol control administration announced today that unlimited importations of liquor would be permitted for two months beginning September 1, in an effort to combat bootlegging and bring down domestic prices.

STATE

MEDEFORD, July 10.—(AP)—Mrs. E. A. Lampman, 70, a resident of the Beagle district this county, lies in a precarious condition at a local hospital, as the result of an auto collision early this afternoon, with a logging truck, at Azate junction on the Crater Lake highway. Her husband, 73, driver of the auto also sustained serious injuries about the head and face.

KLAMATH FALLS, July 10.—(AP)—Mrs. E. S. Stanner was in a Klamath hospital today with dangerous head injuries caused by an automobile. Her husband has been detained at the county jail and officers said charges would be filed against him this afternoon.

SALEM, July 10.—(AP)—J. W. Shaw of Corvallis was elected president of the Oregon branch of the Pacific Northwest veterinary medical association at the close of the first of its annual three-day session here. R. J. Nichol, Hillsboro, was elected first vice-president; T. R. Phelps, Oregon City, second vice-president; Elwyn Conn, Forest Grove, third vice-president, and R. T. Skams, Corvallis, re-elected secretary-treasurer.

SALEM, July 10.—(AP)—Investigators for the state liquor control commission, with the aid of the state police, were to concentrate their efforts the next few weeks against so-called clubs which were without beer and wine licenses.

Other Estimates Made

Production of other important crops for the current year, also as indicated July 1, were estimated:

Winter wheat, 394,000,000 bushels, compared with 400,537,000 a month ago.

as much next year as this. The AAA doesn't want the reserve supply to dwindle below 200,000,000 bushels. If other wheat countries repudiate their agreements to limit production, domestic growers will be asked to plant more, Wallace said.

The existing wheat processing tax of 30 cents a bushel will remain in effect at least until next July 1, it was announced. Resultant revenues, officials said, will provide $102,000,000 for benefit payments to farmers who "go along" with the campaign, name now changed from "reduction" to "adjustment." Payment number one—20 cents a bushel—is due in October and another 9 cents a bushel when contract compliance is proven.

It is virtually certain that no livestock production control program will be adopted. Drought has curtailed feed supplies to such an extent that cattle production regulates itself.

The 1934 cotton crop is limited by law to 10,499,251 bales. On the basis of present indications production will come within that limit. Next year the AAA probably will seek a larger (CQ) crop, possibly 12,500,000 to 13,000,000 bales.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—(AP)—Conditions on July 1 indicated wheat production this year would aggregate 483,062,000 bushels and corn 2,113,000,000 bushels.

This estimate, for the United States only, was made today by the department of agriculture.

Drought Causes Big Drop

The devastating drought had intensified interest in the report.

The corn figure compared with 2,339,257,000 bushels in 1933 and the 1927-31 average of 2,516,000,000.

Wheat averaged 586,000,000 bushels in the 1927-31 period and was 527,413,000 last year.

Dual Alignment (Gem's great patented feature) guarantees the first rasple, non-scuffing, skin-safe shave. The blade can't creep or wobble. Dual Alignment permits the use of either single or double edge blades and Gem makes both to fit the same holder.
