WOOL VERY LOW

BOSTON, Aug. 13.—(U. S.
 Dept. Agr.)—Demand for wool was very light. While there has been some slight improvement in the call for spot western grown wools since the downward revision in asking prices, mills were apparently doing no more than covering near future requirements. Most sales were very moderate in volume although buyers occasionally looked over large lines.

Estimated receipts of domestic wool here reported to the Boston grain and flour exchange during the week ending August 11 amounted to 4,500,000

RESEARCH BUREAU STUDIES OREGON'S COUNTY SITUATION

The bureau of municipal research of the University of Oregon has completed a study of selected physical, financial and relief characteristics of Oregon counties, a project that is expected to be of great value to state relief officials and others. It was announced here today by Herman Kehrl, director of the bureau. The study was made possible by allocation of CWA funds to the bureau.

The work done is divided into three sections as follows:

First—Transferability of general fund warrants of each county.
 Second—Tables showing the trend during recent years of six important factors: Population, valuation of taxable property, tax levy for county government, total average tax levy for all purposes, general fund warrant debt and total welfare expenditure.

Third—Tabulated information on 31 physical, financial and relief characteristics.

Copies of the project have been sent to the state relief committee, the American Public Welfare Association and the Federal Emergency Relief administration in Washington. A copy is also on file at the bureau's office at the university and is available to any one interested.

Old Mine To Be Re-opened Soon

BEND, Ore., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Lease of the Oregon King mine, noted for its gold and silver production in the boom days of the Ashwood country more than 30 years ago, was announced by the Alaska Juneau Gold Mining Company in Madras today. Livington Werneke will be general manager. The mine, overlooking Trout creek in central Jefferson county, is owned by J. G. Edwards, of Portland, and associates.

The old plant will be razed and a new shaft sunk, the Alaska company announced. Modern machinery will be installed.

The company expects to locate its main camp in the little town of Ash-wood, rather than in the canyon below Skull Hollow, site of the camp when the mine was shut down by litigation in 1903. Some exploration work was done in the mine in 1929.

Thirty-five years ago, Ashwood was one of the most active mining camps in Oregon, but it has been a "ghost town" for many years.

"Vitamin D" Bread

What a pleasant source of Vitamin D!

MOTHERS have come to know that growing children should receive an additional daily supply of Vitamin D... because this important, anti-rickets vitamin is almost entirely lacking in ordinary foods.

"Oh dear," you've probably said,
 "that means more purchases, more trouble!"
 Here's news for you! A process has been developed for taking the Vitamin D out of cod liver oil (leaving the disagreeable oil behind), for incorporation in a regular, daily food you serve—bread.

We have secured the exclusive license to incorporate this concentrated Vitamin D in bread in this community. How easy to give your children—and the grown-up members of your family too—more Vitamin D this way!
