

TWO BOYS DROWNED IN WOAHINK LAKE; BODIES RECOVERED

Stewart Gorski of Florence, age 13, and Dean Colter of Glenada, 11 years old, were drowned about 8 p. m. Tuesday in Woahink lake. Both bodies have been recovered.

The fact that the boys were drowned was not known definitely until 9 p. m. Tuesday when Bobby Lund, a playmate of the two, finally told Grant Treat, deputy sheriff, that the boys did not come up after they had jumped into the lake.

The three walked to the lake and took off their clothes and jumped in. When the two did not show up again, the Lund boy thought they apparently had swum away, and he came on home, he told authorities.

The Colter boy's body was found shortly after the search began Tuesday evening, but the Gorski lad was not found until 10 a. m. Wednesday. Three from the coast guard stayed on the job all night searching for the second boy, Alfred Anderson finding the body.

Harold Poole, deputy coroner, was at Florence Wednesday making an investigation and arranging for the funerals.

Stewart Gorski is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Gorski of Florence. He is survived by three brothers and one sister, a brother having been born at 2 a. m. Wednesday.

Dean Colter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Colter of Glenada and is survived by one brother and one sister.

TOWNSEND PLAN STORY

many who wanted to hear the speakers were turned away. Meetings this week are scheduled at Crow and Noti Friday night. B. T. Merrill, Mrs. William Gresham and Mrs. Mary Cox will be the speakers at Noti, where the meeting will be held in the school building, and Mr. Payne and J. W. Piskley will speak in the grange hall at Crow.

All petitions circulated in Lane county are being held until called for by the national headquarters at Long Beach, Cal., and when congress meets next January those in circulation all over the United States will be sent to Washington. The movement is under way in 40 states of the union and it is expected that petitions will be placed in circulation in the other states before congress meets, the local secretary said.

The Townsend plan for granting pensions of $200 a month to all persons who have reached the age of 60 years attracts attention wherever presented and the movement appears to be spreading rapidly. When the petitions containing ten million or more signatures are presented to congress, members of that body cannot help but be impressed, leaders in the movement declare.

The Oregon members of congress and a number of well known politicians in the state have already expressed an interest in the matter, Mr. Payne said. Joe Dunne, republican candidate for governor, a few days ago asked to be informed on the measure.

The Townsend plan, if it becomes a law, will provide that persons over 60 receiving the pension shall refrain from work, thereby creating jobs for younger people, and that they shall spend the entire sum in the month they receive it. The money is to be raised by a gross sales tax.

Norkenzie Grange Will Picnic Sunday

The annual picnic of the Norkenzie grange will be held all day Sunday, Aug. 19, in the Armistage woods near the Coburg bridge. The picnic will be a community affair and grangers are urged to invite neighborhood families to attend.

The home economics committee will be in charge of the dinner. Frank Harlow, Victor Hoare and William Michaels are on the grounds committee and Frank Rutherford and Wayne Walls on the sports committee.

Thomas Waits For Federal Officers

Bert Henry Thomas, Portland, charged with concealing untaxed liquor, waived hearing Wednesday afternoon and is in the county jail waiting the arrival of federal officers to take him to Portland. Federal Commissioner E. O. Immel set bond at $1000.

Thomas was arrested Tuesday afternoon when excessive sleepiness caused him to drive his car in a manner of one seemingly drunk. Officers who stopped him found 51 gallons of moonshine whiskey in his car.

Enormous Onion Sent to Editors

A mammoth onion weighing 20 ounces and grown by Elmer Anderson on the F route, was sent to the Register-Guard office by Billy Mad-daugh of Veneta Wednesday.

The opinion of the office force was that this "Irish Apple" was of the Yellow Danvers variety.

Tomato Cups

4 large ripe firm tomatoes
1 pk. lemon jello
1 med. sized onion (if preferred)
1 large cucumber
1 bell pepper
1/2 cup diced celery
Peel tomatoes and cut off top, scoop out inside and place in ice box to cool. Prepare and dice other vegetable, add firm part of the center of tomatoes and chill in ice box.

Use one cup boiling water to dissolve jello and add one cup cold or ice water. Add diced and chilled vegetables to jello. Fill tomato cup with jello mixture. Place in ice box until jello has set. Serve on crisp lettuce leaves with either mayonnaise or thousand island dressing. Very good for a luncheon dish.—Mrs. M. W. Heath, R. 3, Box 134, Eugene.

Steamed Stuffed Cabbage

1 solid head of cabbage
1 lb. leftover meat
1 cup bread crumbs
Salt and pepper to suit taste
1/2 cup milk
1 egg
Cut a slice off the top of the cabbage and hollow out, leaving a shell. Make a stuffing of the other ingredients and pack into the cabbage. Fill only three-fourths full, tie in a cheese cloth to preserve shape. Place cabbage in steamer and steam one hour. Serve hot with tomato sauce.—Mrs. R. M. Mitchell, 1489 Pearl St., Eugene.

Stuffed Green Peppers

2 cups cold meat, ground medium fine
2 cups cooked rice
1/2 cup diced tomato
1/2 cup celery cut fine
1 tablespoon minced onion
Season to taste with salt, pepper, and paprika, and moisten to the right consistency with leftover meat gravy. Cut 4 large peppers in half, remove seeds and cores, and parboil in slightly salted water, about 5 minutes.

Place peppers in baking pan, stuff with above mixture; cover with bread or cracker crumbs, dot with butter, and bake in a moderate oven until nicely browned, 20-25 minutes.—Florence Kibelbeck, Cottage Grove.

HINDENBURG WILL STORY

again on that rock to which the hopes of our fathers once clung, and on which for almost half a century the faith of our fathers was based: The German Kaiserdom.

The testament recalled Hindenburg's retirement after the war, adding: "Only firm confidence in Germany's inexhaustible strength gave me courage to accept the first and second elections to the presidency. . . . may in these troubled times, not understood by me and not comprehended, my one concern be to bring a disrupted and discouraged people back to unity."

CAMPAIGN STARTS

By A. D. STEFFERUD
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)
BERLIN, Aug. 15.—(AP)—The German nation embarked today on a 100 day campaign to pull itself out of a morass of economic ills.

The purpose of the campaign is the reduction in the amount of imports needed and in its success or failure lies largely the success or failure of Germany's pressing trade and foreign exchange problems. Trade figures for the first six months of 1932 show that imports increased 10 per cent over the same period last year while exports have dropped 12 per cent.

With the start of the campaign there became effective also a decree lifting prohibitive tariffs on grain imports, following a costly drought.

Germans are asked as a patriotic duty to save all they can—to watch lest they use unwisely pieces of rubber, paper, grain, foodstuffs and metals; to conserve such things as bristles and to seek substitutes for articles not produced in Germany.

These little articles, the people are reminded, when put together form big problems standing in the way of Germany's becoming a self-sufficient nation. This is a Nazi ideal born of dwindling financial reserves.

MEIER PLANS STORY

the paper said, "Governor Meier commented on the major accomplishments of his administration, citing the vast strides taken in developing the water power program of the late Senator Joseph. He pointed to the 'divorcement' of our state institutions and departments from politics." He called attention to the virtual "wiping out" of the state deficit which he inherited from previous administrations. He cited his broad program of relief for the men and women out of employment on account of the world-wide economic depressions.

The Statesman quoted the governor further as follows: "While to the best of my ability I have conscientiously endeavored to carry out these objectives, many of the problems involved still remain with us, and the work must go on if they are to be met and permanently solved."

Problem of Rates Lingers
"In connection with our water power development, there still remains the problem of obtaining from the federal government, rates sufficiently low at Bonneville to attract industries to Oregon."

"In connection with the administration of our state institutions and departments, and the economies in state affairs, the battle is still before us, if the taxpayers are to be given adequate relief."

In connection with unemployment relief, the situation still continues grave despite the recovery legislation enacted by the national administration and in meeting this issue the state of Oregon must do its part.

"The governor concluded the interview with this significant statement: 'I would like very much to see all these objectives inaugurated under my administration carried to a successful consummation.'"

The Statesman quoted the governor as listing four major objectives in mind when he assumed the governorship three and one-half years ago.

Joseph Ghost Invoking Again
"One was the carrying out of the water power policy of my life-long friend, the late Senator George W. Joseph, and which policies are being consummated through water power legislation written into the statute books during my administration, and the development of the Bonneville dam project by the federal government, largely through the influence and prestige of Senator Charles L. McNary at our national capital."

"The second was the divorcement of our state institutions and departments from politics, and the introduction and application of business principles in the administration of their affairs."

"The third was the wiping out of the state deficit, which I inherited from previous administrations under more prosperous eras."

"The fourth was relief for the men and women out of employment on account of the world-wide economic depression."

"So far as our institutions and state departments are concerned, I feel that every one will agree with me when I state that they have been operated efficiently and economically, and free from even a whisper of scandal."

"The state deficit, which at one time approximated $4,500,000, has been reduced to $1,675,000, and can be completely eliminated and the state's financial affairs be placed on a sound basis, provided the forthcoming state budget is adopted by the next legislature."

"By reason of economies achieved under my administration in state affairs, the taxpayers have been relieved of more than $4,000,000 in tax burdens which they had theretofore carried."

"When I assumed office, the total property tax in the state was a little more than $50,000,000 annually and it has been reduced to approximately $42,000,000, representing a saving of more than $8,000,000."

"So far as unemployment relief is concerned, I feel satisfied that everyone will also agree with me that under my administration the problem has been met effectively as it has been in any other state in the union."

rolls and let them stagnate is a tragedy of deepest consequence. When better times return, these people whose mentality has been neglected will find themselves unfit to re-adjust themselves to useful endeavor."

Deterioration Grave Danger

Examples of deterioration of human ability due to enforced idleness were cited by the director, and in contrast he described adult education work in Delaware, where a program has been under way for 17 years. Delaware has not had to ask for relief funds, he pointed out, and the people there, besides maintaining economic security, have developed a rich and enjoyable life.

The program to be administered under the direction of the government calls for state organizations, under the direction of regular school authorities. Functioning under these will be emergency education supervisors, on whom the success of the venture depends, Mr. Alderman pointed out.

Skilled Teaching is Needed

These supervisors must possess the qualities of good teachers, and should engage instructors who are also so qualified, he pointed out. Qualifications deemed essential were given as ability to give out information, power to vivify and make live the various subjects, ability to "put yourself in the other fellow's place," and a willingness to put service before self.

The federal adult emergency education project, which hurriedly got under way a few months ago, has met with amazing success, and now that it is fully organized, will go ahead even faster. He is now on a tour of the entire country, and is enthusiastic over the work being done in every section of the United States.

Preceding the director's address a resume of subjects and classes on last year's program was given by R. J. Manake, director of emergency education for Oregon. During the afternoon the supervisors continued technical discussions of various phases of their work.

Sam Jones Escapes Whole in Accident

Sam Jones of the Camas Swale question committee proved beyond question that he could "take it" Tuesday when the motorcycle he was riding skidded into a logging truck and trailer, near Creswell, throwing him on the highway. The trailer ran completely over him without breaking a bone. The accident occurred a 5 p. m.

He is at the Eugene hospital today with numerous bruises but no serious hurt.

On the motorcycle with him was a brother, Fred Jones, who also had bruises and scratches, but no serious injury. Both boys are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones of the Camas Swale region. First aid was given them by Glen Martin, Springfield Boy Scout leader.

drought relief would be sufficient to meet needs, but he added all of this certainly would be spent.

He expressed no concern over an excessive rise in food prices and said latest reports showed an increase of about six per cent in the last year.

He is confident of adequate authority under existing law to treat with "chiselers" and speculators on the grain market.

He is particularly intent upon blocking an excessive swing in prices on the exchanges which would react harmfully.

The president is considering additional legislation which may be necessary to deal with the idea he expressed for maintenance of a normal and reasonable surplus in crops.

M'KENZIE FOREST FIRE CONTROLLED

CAMP BELKNAP, Aug. 15.—(Special).—Company 927, CCC, responded to their second fire call of the season, when a blaze was reported at 4 o'clock Sunday morning, as being about 30 miles south of the main camp, and which burned over an area of about two acres before being brought under control by men and equipment rushed from Camp Belknapp, and South Fork side camp.

The blaze started from the campfire of fishermen, built at the end of a rotten log which spanned the river. The fire ate through the length of the log, igniting the undergrowth on both sides of the river. Due to the fact that the fire would have been very difficult to combat, many acres of valuable timber was undoubtedly saved, due to the training that these boys have received since entering the CCC's.

As part of the educational program, four reels of educational pictures were shown through the 16mm. moving picture projector recently purchased by the company. The subjects were "Highway Beautification," a picture graphically portraying the methods best adapted to promoting safety and beautifying our public highways; and "Wild Life Resources." The show ended with four reels of comedy.
