The North Sister, one of the most difficult peaks to climb in this region was visited by a party of 38 Obsidians led by Ray Sims, Sunday. This party of 38 is the largest to have climbed the North Sister and makes a total of 147 people the Obsidians have taken up the three mountains this summer, 71 on the Middle Sister on July 1 and 38 on the South Sister on July 22. Raleigh Wildman and Paul Lafferty were assistant leaders on the climb.

The party left Sunshine camp at 4:45 and crossed over Renfro and Collier glaciers and arrived at the summit at 11:45, making the climb in seven hours.

Paul and Bud Lafferty climbed the Middle Sister and met the large party on Collier glacier where the party was divided, Paul leading half and Ray Sims the other group.

With all snow in the North gone, the problem of the ice field beneath the pinnacles was not encountered, Mr. Sims reported, but possibly a more difficult problem was had, as the steep shale slope where the ice had melted, presented many falling rocks. One rock slide was seen by the party near Cirque rock.

The group reports that the new bridge is in at White Branch crossing and the shelter cabin completed at Sunshine camp.

Those who made the climb are Ray Sims, Howard Ragan, Ruth E. Hopson, Robert H. Lemon, Priscilla Walsh, Philip B. Park, Wm. Hood, Ed. Dawson, Blanche Johnson, Hoot Kilpatrick, Dr. Charles E. Hunt, Mary Ellen Foley, Walter Weber, Nellie V. Moore, Ralph Lafferty, Richard Franklin Barlo, Eleanor Dietrich, Robert Dietrich, Helen K. Kilpatrick, Howard Miles, Pat Hubbard, Thelma Watson, Raleigh Wildman, Raymond Walsh, Jr., Norman L. Lee, Alfred Taylor, Wallace Anderson, Bud Lafferty, P. R. Lafferty, Harriet Plotts, Marie O'Neill, Robert W. Wilson, Virgil H. Hicks, Eleanor M. Hicks, L. C. Moffitt, Clayton Berbon, Walter Gosler, Henry Bower.

Carl Young went as far as Collier glacier but did not climb the mountain.

Dr. Davis Funeral Held Monday With Burial at Corvallis

Last rites for Dr. M. M. Davis, well known Lane county pioneer, were held Monday afternoon at the Branstetter-Bimom chapel, Rev. Milton S. Weber of Central Presbyterian church officiating. Mrs. E. E. Wyatt and Mrs. Edna V. Pearson sang selections for the services.

Honorary pallbearers were the members of the Knights Templar of which Dr. Davis was an active member.

The active pallbearers included E. R. Bryson, R. S. Bryson, Darwin Bristow, F. M. Wilkins, Judge Lawrence T. Harris, and John W. Hobbs. Rev. Mr. Weber took as his text: Romans, 8:14, 15. He read the twenty-third Psalm, and read a tribute to the physicians from Ecclesiastes and then gave the closing prayer, which was as follows:

"Thanksgiving Prayer"
"I am thankful dear Lord for my health and for my strength."
"I am thankful for the blessings which have come to us and for the promise which the future holds."
"I am thankful for that faith which has sustained us in the shadows."
"Grant us the wisdom to know the false from the true, that we may bear our burdens bravely."
"Teach us O Lord to find pleasure in service, hope in sorrow, and peace when the day is done."
"Amen."

Interment was in the Corvallis Masonic cemetery, Monday afternoon, Dr. Davis being laid to rest beside his wife, who passed away nearly five years ago, and their eldest son, who died several years ago.

Home Loan Meeting Is Set For Tuesday

A meeting will be held Tuesday evening at 7:45 at the chamber of commerce for all building supply dealers, contractors and mechanics interested in the business and work to be secured through the home modernizing loans authorized by the government.

This meeting will be under the auspices of the Eugene building congress and Graham Smith, acting president, will preside. It is not necessary to be a member to attend this meeting, Mr. Smith said.

The publicity committee, consisting of Tracy Stocker, Chas. Tillman, Howard Hall, John J. Rogers, and Louis Waldor, chairman, met Monday noon and discussed publicity to be used and laid plans for the Tuesday evening meeting. A number of interesting features are planned. These will be explained by the committee chairman; and the keynote of the campaign will be sounded by Chas. Tillman by pointing out the benefits to the home owner and to those who co-operate with the program.

American Legion To Meet Tuesday

The Eugene post of the American Legion is to meet at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the armory.

The convention ended Saturday and most of the local delegation were home Sunday, reporting a very successful meeting and enjoyable time. About 1500 were registered for the convention. The Dalles gets the 1935 soukave.

NRA BREACH STORY

ter from General Johnson, delivered by messenger. It covered three typewritten pages. It recalled Johnson's labors for NRA, paid his respects to his enemies, stated directly his determination to quit, and ended with one of Mr. Roosevelt's own favorite Latin phrases meaning, in free translation, "the situation speaks for itself."

The president, replied at once. Writing in long-hand, he reiterated his regard and appreciation, asked that the resignation be withdrawn, and returning proverb for proverb, said he liked that old saying that friends always must be friends.

So matters stood when the president left on Tuesday for Illinois, to attend the funeral of Speaker Rainey. It was because of this undetermined situation that he changed an already announced plan and returned from Illinois to Washington instead of going straight to Hyde Park.

He saw Johnson again and the break was healed. He did insist, however, that the general take two weeks rest, and Johnson consented and departed for the beach. At the end of the two weeks he will see the president at Hyde Park, and they will settle details of the new NRA set-up. And in it the fiery soldier will have first rank.

This does not mean a break between Richberg and the president, or between Miss Perkins and the president. In her own field, Mr. Roosevelt highly regards the secretary of labor. He greatly admires Richberg, and will have other work for him should he retire from NRA. He even is said to have him in mind for elevation, some day, to the supreme court.

For Johnson it means he will be staying on when he had been planning for months to get out. Because of the demands of his private business, and because he has completed the particular phase of NRA which led him to take the job, he has been asking for release. The president, apparently, was ready to agree.

But neither liked the manner of his going, as it shaped up during the past week. So he stays.

Kiwanis Club's Program Varied
Walter S. Garrett, delegate from the local Kiwanis club to the Pacific northwest district meeting at Wenatchee, Wash., last week, gave the report of the conference for the regular weekly luncheon of the Eugene club Monday noon at the Osburn hotel. He said the keynote of the meeting had been citizenship, and then dwelled in detail the various activities of the conference.

Miss Eva Richmond, who sang in the role of Sacajawea in the 1929 pioneer pageant in Eugene, gave four numbers at the luncheon, accompanied by George Hopkins. Miss Richmond has been visiting from Wooster, Ohio, with Eugene relatives.

W. P. Walter, Y. M. C. A. secretary, was welcomed back into the club. He is a former Kiwanian and served the Ashland club as president. Following the luncheon, group pictures were taken of the club.

No more meetings will be held until September 10, due to Labor day coming on next Monday.

SCHOOL AUDIT STORY

paid on warrants issued thusly has amounted to $1,300 during the period under consideration.

The audit states "It is obvious that it is very much to the advantage of the district to receive these funds as soon as possible after they are collected from the taxpayers."

L. C. Moffitt, county school superintendent, when asked regarding the audit statement, declared that apportionments were being made by his office as rapidly as was consistent with good management.

"During the last year we made six apportionments, the money being turned over to the districts the same day the apportionment was made," he stated. "In some instances, we held funds in order to make as large an apportionment as possible. It is true that sometimes we could turn over the money sooner than we do, this practice would cost the county as much and probably more than the districts would save in interest on warrants. The additional work and postage required to send out money more often would more than equal what the districts pay in interest."

Treasurer Has Record
The audit states that the county school superintendent's records do not include controlling accounts of the funds in his charge, the only account maintained being in the office of the county treasurer. This practice, according to the audit, is similar to the case of an individual who keeps no record of his bank account other than to list checks drawn, whose only knowledge of his bank account is secured by occasional inquiries at the statement department, and who never asks for his bank statement and cancelled checks.

"This procedure," the audit continues, "does not, in our opinion, comply with the requirements of the school laws which provide in part at paragraph 35-1509, the county school superintendent shall keep a book in which he shall open an account with the treasury of his county; also, with the several districts."

In answer to this statement, Superintendent Moffitt stated that his office kept a record of expenditures, but not of receipts which is kept by the county treasurer.

"It is my belief the law does not require my office to keep any further record," Moffitt stated. "We keep a record of all apportionments, as required by law, but I know of no other county in the state which keeps a record of both expenditures and receipts, that county being Klamath."

SCHOOL FINANCES STORY

1932, $723.33; 1933, $127.55; 1934, $85.

In view of the fact that an examination of enrollment records from the city schools revealed several students not charged tuition who should have been so charged, the audit report suggested that in the future "principals should be directed to send their enrollment records to the office of the district clerk for verification of residence at regular intervals during the year, and that all doubtful cases be referred to the superintendent for a decision and a record of the circumstances."

The board will consider recommendations and suggestions of the audit at the special meeting, Mr. Gould said.

Fixed capital assets of the district total $801,061.18, the report shows. These assets include land, buildings, equipment and libraries. Long term bonds total $323,000 while the total bonds outstanding total $389,000.

Skipper Thompson Puts Shot Across Vincent's Course
Taking a shot at the publicity methods of Fred Vincent, Portland advertising man in charge of the anti-drug campaign in Lane county, Capt. Robert D. Thompson who loaned a few things about "public psychology" while navigating Indian ocean liners, urges Vincent to "keep it up." Says the captain in reply to Vincent's Sunday statement:

"In Eugene and Lane county the drys predominate. They have nothing to fear from the wets. It will be surprising the number of people who are classed as wets but who will vote dry. Keep the stuff out of the county. Any one who will go to the county line to get liquor may have it but let us keep our own county from selling it. Once the measure is on the ballot, the rest will be easy."

"The danger the drys have to contend with is the apathy of many of their members. They underestimate the strength of the liquor interests. The attitude of the newspapers will make no difference. Paid specialists who come from outside the county have no interest in us or our welfare but want to use us to enrich the brewers somewhere else. Keep the controversy before the public and the drys will win in a walk."

Sixty or more complaints of tax assessments were taken up Monday by the county board of equalization and after hearing more of them Tuesday will take all of them under consideration and act upon them later. Monday and Tuesday are the last days on which the complaints can be heard.

Inasmuch as the function of the county board of equalization is only to equalize the assessments and adjust such inequalities that may occur, it cannot lower taxes on any property, it was pointed out. Many of those complaining have no statement to make except that they think their taxes are too high, it was stated.

RAIL RATES STORY

posal being to raise intrastate rates also. An early hearing is asked.

Wage Restoration Cited
The roads ask an increase of 8 cents per 100 pounds on grain and grain products except in the east where there would be no raise; 3 to 30 cents a ton on coal and 3 to 45 cents on coke; 10 per cent on cotton with a maximum of 5 cents per 100 pounds; 10 per cent on tobacco with a maximum of 4 cents, and other products in proportion. There are some exceptions in the far west and in sections where truck competition is keen. Some rates which were raised August 20 are exempted.

The action is prompted, says the petition, by the restoration of the 10 per cent cut in railroad wages in 1932 and increasing costs of materials. The wage restoration is estimated to add $100,000,000 to costs this year, increasing to $185,000,000 in 1935, and material costs are expected to add $137,000,000 in 1935.

Pension Plan Bothers
It is known that the carriers also are thinking of the $60,000,000 a year they say will be added to costs by the railroad retirement act should it be declared constitutional. This item, however, was omitted from the petition because court action is pending.

"In 1933," said the executives association, "railroad operating expenses were only one-half of what they were in 1920 and yet the railroads of the country as a whole failed to take in enough money to cover their operating expenses, taxes, and interest charges without any allowance for dividends. In the face of this situation, the necessity for the steps which are being taken toward meeting rising costs of operation is obvious."

"It is generally conceded," it declared, "that nothing is more essential to business recovery than the prompt restoration of the purchasing and employing capacity of the railroads. The money derived from the proposed increases will speedily find its way back to the channels of trade. The railroads hope that the reasonableness of their request will appeal to their patrons and the public generally and justify their support."

The petition took a shot at the railroad coordinator law. It referred to a statement by the commission on July 31, 1933 that the carriers must make economies.

"Petitioners are of the opinion," said the petition, "that they cannot, by increased savings, in view of the various restrictions imposed upon them, effect economies, in addition to those heretofore effected, that will materially offset the increase in their operating expenses."
