

Some Eggs Up Here; Stocks Yield Ground

OTHER MARKETS ALL STEADY IN LOCAL REPORT SATURDAY

The major change reported for the local markets, Saturday, was a boost on the New York grades of eggs. Swift and company reported N. Y. extra up to 30 cents, the first medium to 27 cents, crack up to 17 cents, and pullets up to 18 cents.

All other egg lists were unchanged for the day here.

Butterfat, butter, and poultry all remained steady.

In the vegetable list, green onions were reported in new, listed at 40 cents a dozen bunches, buying price. Tomatoes, outdoor grown, are quoted only by the flat now, 50 cents, buying price. Local eggplant and green peppers are practically off the market, so few coming in that they are not even quoted.

In the fruit list, excellent quality apples are seen now. Strawberries are scarce but they were.

Following was the report for the day here:

SLIGHT RECESSION FOLLOWS DROP IN TALK OF INFLATION

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The inflationary balloon appeared to have been at least partially deflated today and stocks and staples yielded some of their recent gains under speculative week-end profit taking. Equity trading, however, dwindled appreciably on the decline, transfers in the brief session approximating only 385,000 shares. The close was easy.

With the administration at Washington indicating that no monetary move was being contemplated at this time, despite murmurings from the capital on Thursday, scattered realigning on equities bought under the revival of inflationary psychology was the rule. Most stocks were resistant, though, and others did not give a great deal of ground. Aside from the waning of inflationary sentiment, most market commentators had been predicting a temporary technical reaction.
