WEATHER "ROTTEN"

By FRANCISCO, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Fighting through "rotten weather," squalls and no visibility, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, famous Australian aviator, hoped to reach Fiji from Brisbane, Australia, today.

Following from his plane at 9:48 a. m. Saturday EST, Sir Charles still is in the air.

"Still rotten weather. Rain squalls and no visibility. Hard to find Suva, night to be there in three hours," he said previously, the aviator circled Noumea, New Caledonia, and then turned to retrace their course, and obtain new directions.

Headwinds, rain and clouds were slowing the progress of the plane flying Southern Cross on its 7300 mile flight from Brisbane to Oakland, Calif., via Suva and Honolulu.

CLOSE STUDY NEED FOR TAX QUESTIONS

McArthur Says Limitation Bill Drawn Without Proper Thought

Making such a complex matter as the 20-mill tax limitation the subject of a constitutional amendment is unwise, J. W. McArthur, Eugene engineer, emphasized in an interview Saturday.

Department of justice agents in Washington said they expected to capture young Robinson within a few hours.

Following announcement of the chart's discovery, the senior Robinson issued, through his attorney in Nashville, a statement declaring the chart had been drawn when he was considering delivering the ransom money himself, and when he did not know Mrs. Stoll was held there.

"We are putting too many and too intricate questions of public administration directly to the people, so many of whom have neither the time to study nor the training to understand fully their implications and ultimate effect."

"Something of this kind in the legislature would be subjected to the severest scrutiny by experts, who would have a fair chance of eliminating its imperfections before it came to a vote in the houses or before it was submitted finally to the people. Nothing of the sort, apparently, has been done in this case, and we have a measure which seems to provide fairly well for some school districts, for example, and to leave others gasping for support."

"No effort has been made, apparently, to frame a measure which would take into consideration the difference between a city and county, and county, and school district and school district. For instance, while Multnomah county would under the new bill be $448,350 under in 1936 for operation under the new system (exclusive of the county school tax) or about $130 per capita, Josephine county would have $8,055 less than nothing for operating expense, Klamath county $22,247 less than nothing, and Lincoln county minus $14,610.

All But 700 Feet Of Clear Lake Road Has Been Finished

The north and south sections of the new Clear Lake road being built by CCC crews lack only 700 feet of being connected and this intervening section is expected to be completed before snow falls, according to Peter Brude, superintendent of the Cascadia CCC camp, who was in Eugene Saturday, conferring with Willamette national forest officials.

One crew started at Bellnap Springs and the other on the upper section, working towards each other. The weather through the past summer and fall has been excellent and better headway has been made on both ends of the route than was expected this year, according to Mr. Brude.

ROBINSON DEN PLANS FOUND BY OFFICIALS

Federal Agents Say Capture Of A Kidnaper In Hours

DEATH TO BE ASKED

Father And Wife May Face Same Demand From Prosecution

By RICHARD RENDELL (Associated Press Staff Writer) LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 20.—(AP)—New evidence the government may use in asking the death penalty for Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., his wife and father, was disclosed by the government tonight in announcing a chart of the kidnaper's den had been found in Nashville.

The three were indicted by a special grand jury in federal court today, U. S. District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks said he would ask death for young Robinson, and that punishment asked for the other two would depend upon "proof."

Capture Expected Soon The Indianapolis apartment where Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll was held captive for six terrifying days meanwhile was described to the grand jury by Mrs. Stoll herself.

Young Robinson, a fugitive who was still a jump ahead of police tonight, his wife, Frances, and his father, Thomas H. Robinson Sr., were jointly accused of taking part in the $50,000 ransom abduction.

Department of justice agents in Washington said they expected to capture young Robinson within a few hours.

Following announcement of the chart's discovery, the senior Robinson issued, through his attorney in Nashville, a statement declaring the chart had been drawn when he was considering delivering the ransom money himself, and when he did not know Mrs. Stoll was held there.

Martin, Dunne, or Zimmerman? Records and Personal History Briefly Given Here; Characteristics Are Described

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of three articles appraising the situation in the Oregon gubernatorial race and endeavoring to set forth a factual comparison of the principal candidates.

By W. M. TUGMAN Managing Editor, Register-Guard. More important than party labels, often in the selection of public officials is a knowledge of who they are, what they have done, what kind of people they have gathered around them as advisers and councilors, and what they propose.

The three leading candidates in this year's race for governor of Oregon are:

Charles H. Martin, Democrat—Born in Illinois, educated at West Point, until his retirement in 1927 with the rank of major general, on continuous duty with the United States army. Commanded the 8th Division overseas in the World war, also served on Pershing's general staff. After the war was for several years commander of the Panama canal zone, a position including civilian administrative duties comparable to those of governor of a state. Since retirement has served two terms as member of congress from the Portland district. Has had his legal residence in Oregon 47 years. Has long been property owner and taxpayer in this state.

Joe E. Dunne, Republican—Portland business man, present line is insurance, formerly in ice creams and dairy products. Born in Iowa, lived in Chicago as a boy, has been a resident of Oregon and the Northwest since early youth, is now 53. Has served for many years as joint senator from the Multnomah-Clackamas district. Has been prolific as the author or sponsor of bill in the state legislature. Claims $5 auto license fee as an outstanding accomplishment.

Peter Zimmerman, Independent—Hitherto known as a Republican, Zimmerman is the candidate of the so-called "strange group." Born in Yamhill county, graduate of Oregon State College, claiming degrees as both mechanic and several years for railroads during the war was in shipbuilding at Astoria. Present occupation that of farmer in Yamhill county. Has served as state senator since 1922. Is on state executive committee of both Grange and Farmers' Union.

In every political enterprise and behind every prominent candidate, you will find various people acting as sponsors and advisers and their influence is often as significant as that of the candidate himself.

Who's Behind the Scenes? Foremost of Zimmerman's advisers is Roy Gill, state master of the grange. Other important figures in the picture are Albert Tompkins, of Yamhill county, who have been active in promoting public power projects which Zimmerman advocates. L. H. Meier of the Farmers' Union, Roy R. Hillewit, former candidate for governor, Portland labor leader and numerous others identified with farm and labor movements.

Powers of influence behind Joe Dunne are to be found in such men as Willard Marks, Albany lawyer, president of the state board of higher education; Robert W. Sawyer, Bend editor and former state highway commissioner; Edward E. Brodie, Oregon City publisher, now chairman of the state liquor commission, Paul Kilby, editor of the Oregonian.

SEC Planning for Relentless Drive on Stock Fakers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A relentless campaign to curb stock swindlers and their worthless securities has been initiated by the securities and exchange commission.

A successful issue to the campaign will mean the elimination of valueless and fraudulent stocks from exchanges. Further, it was revealed today, the drive in some instances will eliminate or drastically remodel the exchanges themselves.

Some of the SEC commissioners are so angry at the situations disclosed to them that they had pledged a continuous, and, in so far as possible, an irresistible clean-up drive.

Already 60 investigators are in the field. This staff will be sufficiently augmented to make a thorough check of security sales, even down to the smallest.

Some of the evidence in the hands of the commission regarding stocks actually listed on minor exchanges indicates the use of such exchanges by promoters simply to give prestige to worthless stocks. In one case, only three of a group of some 20 issues was found to have any merit.

There is evidence also showing how old men and women, some with dependent children, have invested their life savings in nearly worthless stocks and bonds.

Locomotive Stops On Lady's Dress

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Locomotive Engineer William J. Carver of Omaha set his air brakes and his big engine slid to a stop. He leaped from his cab and rushed to the front.

Three, two inches in front of the wheels lay Mrs. Laura Perry, 44, Omaha. He couldn't extricate her. The wheels on the engine were on her dress. He reversed the locomotive and Mrs. Perry was removed—bruised.

This Cat's Been Around—Too Often

BRETON, Alta., Oct. 20.—(AP)—A tabby here chose to rest on the inside rim of a 12-foot flywheel at a sawmill. The engineer, unknowing, started the mill.

At the end of 75 minutes during which the wheel whirled at the rate of 100 R. P. M. the mill was stopped and Tabby, slightly tilted, staggered off into the woods. She hasn't returned yet.

Arson Stories Are Doubtful By Police

PORTLAND, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Detectives and officers from the fire marshal's office today cast doubt on the story told yesterday by Glenn W. Pope, 25, a transient from Minnesota, who signed a statement that he had set a number of fires here and in other western states.

Captain Fred Roberts of the fire department said "Pope remembers all the fires he has ever seen and at times imagines he started them."

Dictatorship Of Reich Defied By German Churches

BERLIN, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Secession split the Protestant church of Germany today with a resolution of the Congressional Synod, claiming 80 per cent of Protestant churchgoers, ordering all church councils to refuse obedience to reichs church authorities and to follow the synod's orders alone.

The synod, chief opposition to Hitler's German Christian church, adopted the resolution virtually unanimously, climaxing a year and a half of bitter opposition to a reichs church dictatorship.

The document asserted that "we communicate this statement to the reichs government and demand that it shall also recognize that in ecclesiastical affairs the church has sole jurisdiction under the supervisory powers of the state."

STEVENSON NAMES CHAMBER WORKERS

Directors Head Committees To Direct Activities Of Coming Year

Eugene chamber of commerce committee appointments for the coming year were announced Saturday by Stanley R. Stevenson, president. Under the new policy of the chamber administration this year, each committee is headed by a member of the board of directors in addition to the regular committee chairman.

It is believed this plan will enable the committee to work closer in harmony with the board of directors, chamber officers said.

"The Eugene chamber of commerce is facing a busy year with more interest being shown in the chamber and its activities than ever before," President Stevenson stated in announcing his committees. "On the new committees we have attempted to place members where they wished to serve as much as possible. In some cases, old committees have been left intact, in others changes have been made either because members themselves desired it or because we thought they would work better where they have been placed."

Mr. Stevenson said other committees would be named when occasion arose. Following are the committees as announced:

Advertising-Publicity: Fay M. Bennett, director; Phil Nordling, chairman. Members, Arthur Bushman, A. L. Hawn, Howard Hall, Henry Korn, C. R. Mauerud, Fred Olson, Raymond Torrey, H. T. Wiltshire.

Wife Vaguely Familiar, Says Myrtle Point Enoch Arden After Eight Years

LONG BEACH, Calif., Oct. 20.—(AP)—A modern Enoch Arden arose from the dead today and in a strange reunion found his wife looked vaguely familiar.

The story begins eight years ago when Albert M. Devaul, then a prosperous lumberman of Myrtle Point, Ore., disappeared.

A victim of amnesia, he wandered up and down the coast working as a roustabout in lumber camps or as the waterfront believing he was a fugitive from police.

His wife divorced him, had the courts decree he was dead, and married H. A. Sheff of Long Beach.

Last night he reappeared in tow of a cousin who found him working in Auburn, Calif., mining camp under the name of "Bert King." Man and wife met behind the locked doors of an attorney's office.

Mrs. Sheff forced back the tears. "I thought you were dead," Devaul replied: "You do look vaguely familiar."

"I remember nothing for ten days after Nov. 20, 1926, for the date they tell me I vanished," said Devaul. "When consciousness returned I was in a waterfront hotel at Oakland, (Calif.), bruised, battered, my clothing in shreds.

IDAHO REAL THREAT

Sub Blocks Parke's Punt, Runs 26 Yards For Lone Score

MACLEAN FIELD, Moscow, Idaho, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The University of Oregon football team today defeated a hard driving pack of Idaho Vandals, 13 to 6, in a conference football game.

Despite the mud and muck and the water-soaked ball, both teams frequently opened up with wild passing sorties, and one of Oregon's two touchdowns, coming in the last two minutes of the first half, started in the air.

Idaho Threatens

A homecoming crowd of some 7,000 persons saw Oregon pool-pool the Vandals cry "End Oregon's Trail" that had become a by-word to the desperate Idahoans during the last week or so. Idaho threatened three or four times, twice in the last period, but was unable to get within decent scoring distance of the goal except in the third period.

It was right after Oregon's Mickey and Van Vliet, aided by a hard-hitting line, had marched 80 yards for a touchdown that Idaho's only score came. Idaho kicked off after the touchdown, and Van Vliet returned to his own 32-yard line.

Oregon lost four yards on the first play, and on the next Parke dropped back to punt. Russ Honsowetz and Barney Anderson, sub end, broke through to block the punt. The ball rolled to the 20-yard line, and Anderson scooped it up. He dashed, un-touched, to the goal line. Bob Mosser's attempted place-kick for conversion failed.

The first period went scoreless, with much of the quarter
