

"PRETTY BOY" IS KILLED IN FIGHT WITH FEDERAL MEN

agents were arriving from cities in the vicinity. They said there was no doubt but what the wounded man was Floyd and they thought it probable he still was in the woods, although some of Wallingford police believed he might have eluded his hunters.

Blood Leaves Trail
Police Chief J. H. Fultz, who participated in a gun battle with Floyd and Richetti Saturday, said Floyd was dangerously wounded. He said he fired directly at Floyd and saw blood stains on the back and front of his clothing, showing the bullets entered the back and came out through the abdomen. The two cars which Floyd commandeered in escaping, had large splashes of blood on the seats, and a trail of blood led into the woods at the place where he was last seen by pursuers.

A car loaded with gangsters raced through Wellsville twice yesterday afternoon, firing shotguns and sub-machine guns into the air and terrorizing citizens. It was believed they were members of Floyd's gang who had planned to deliver Richetti but called it off at the last minute.

Police pursuing men believed responsible for the robbery of the Tillamook, O., bank Friday, came upon Floyd and Richetti late Saturday. Fultz and Officers Will Irwin and Grover Potts were questioning one, when the other shouted:

"Let them have it, Adam."
Driver Wrecks Car
Richetti whipped out a .45 caliber revolver and began shooting at the same instant that Floyd opened fire. Fultz fired as Floyd turned to run, but turned to help Irwin and Potts overpower Richetti. Potts was wounded in the leg during the brief exchange.

Floyd ran down the road holding his hands to his wound, encountered a motorist, George McMillan, and offered him $10 for a ride to Akron or Yontogton. Once in the car he wrecked the car deliberately near Lisbon, O. Floyd then commandeered a car driven by James Baum, got into the back seat and forced Baum and McMillan to ride in front. Near Lisbon the car encountered a police barricade across the highway. Baum was forced to turn and back-track, but a police car was in hot pursuit. In the ensuing shooting, Baum was slightly wounded.

Floyd got out when the police car whirled past and got into the woods before it could stop.

shown in the reports of condition of the insured commercial banks of Oregon were loans and investments totaling $164,964,000 and cash and due from banks, including balances with the federal reserve bank of the district, amounting to $40,334,000.

Banking houses, furniture and fixtures of the state were shown to be valued at $38,774,000. Total deposits in these banks of June 30, 1934, were $194,373,000 as compared with a figure of $147,281,000 on December 30, last year. The total of capital stock and other items of capital account in the banks was shown to be $20,978,000 by the tabulation.

Made public today, the abstract is much more detailed in its figures than previous pictures of the nation's banking system. It was compiled on the basis of reports received by the Federal Reserve Board, the office of the comptroller of the currency, and the F. D. I. C.

to keep the assessor in order to collect what taxes there are."

The arbitrary allocation of funds under the bill was also attacked by Mrs. Kietzer. The bill provides two mills for all state purposes, five mills for all county purposes, five mills for school districts, and eight mills for municipalities. This proportion does not fit most of Oregon's 36 counties, and makes no provision for drainage, irrigation, union high and other special districts.

The speaker pointed out that in West Virginia a similar arbitrary limitation was put in, but the cities, handicapped by lack of running expenses, discharged their police, fire departments, and health services, and let mayors and councilmen go. In West Virginia, however, the legislature had the power to put in a revenue measure with an emergency clause, which cannot be done in Oregon.

"The only thing which can save us if the bill passes," Mrs. Kietzer said, "is a sales tax, and the people of Oregon have already shown that they do not favor such a tax. Our income tax in this state, where we have the highest rate and lowest basis of any state in the union, brought in less than $2,000,000 last year, and when Lane county alone has a budget of $722,290 you can see that the money from income taxes won't go far when divided 36 ways."

In every state which has tried drastic tax limitation short term credits have been upset or the bonded indebtedness has been increased, Mrs. Kietzer added.

Another feature of the present bill is that although it limits taxation to 20 mills for the first year, each year one mill is cut off, so that by 1941 only 15 mills will be the legal levy, and by that time the schools will get an even smaller proportion of state, city and county money.

The importance of the community providing for the social needs of its young people was emphasized by Miss Inez Miller when she spoke at the conference luncheon. She cited the 500,000 young men and women who are "on the road" because there is not enough to hold them in their home communities. The spread of communism among these young people was pointed out as a result of insufficient training. Civic organizations in every community are faced with the responsibility of providing for the social needs of young people so that they will not be forced to "go on the road," Miss Miller stated.

The safety program which the P. T. A. is carrying out in the state this year was outlined during the afternoon session. This program includes emphasis on home instruction to children on safety, co-operation with the school safety program including school boy patrol work. The association is actively against the use of school boys as traffic officers in the middle of traffic-crowded highways where they are in danger of physical injury, speakers pointed out. The association's program also calls for the encouragement of teaching high school students the "etiquette" of highway safety.

The association is seeking standardization of the operation of school buses on the basis that they are mechanically safe, the drivers are responsible, buses are properly identified, and the children are specially trained on how to enter and leave the buses so that they will not be hurt by passing cars.

of that city. He has served on the scout council since dropping the leadership of the troop.

Mr. Tyson was a native of England, having been born in Davulish, Devonshire, England, on December 12, 1878. He spent most of his early life in France, where his father was British vice-consul at Saint Malo. He received his education at Saint Malo and attended the famous University of Rennes.

Was Stellar Athlete
From 1898 to 1902 Mr. Tyson was tennis champion of western France. He was also a soccer enthusiast and was well known in his skill in this game. When he was 26 years old Mr. Tyson came to the United States, settling at Falls City, Oregon. He later moved to Eugene, where he married Miss Mabel Rivett of Springfield on September 12, 1900. They moved to Springfield in 1911, where they have lived since that time.

Mr. Tyson was manager of the Salmon Packing company of Gardiner for several years, and later became connected with Booth-Kelly. He was chief belt man for the Springfield mill for 17 years.

For the past nine months he had served with the SEERA as district safety inspector. At the inception of the CWA work on the county he was purchasing agent for the first months of that administration. Last week he was notified of his appointment as field man for the National Safety Council for the state of Oregon, and planned to take over his new duties this week.

Arrangements Wait
Mr. Tyson is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Winifred Tyson Hoyer of Phoenix, Arizona, and Muriel Tyson, at home; two brothers, Alan H. Tyson of Eugene and Gerald Tyson of Paris, France; two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Greatwood of Durban, South Africa, and Miss Mabel K. Tyson of France. Funeral arrangements are being made by Poole chapel in Springfield, and will not be announced until Mrs. Hoyer arrives from Phoenix.

Acting Mayor W. A. Taylor, president of the city council, Monday morning ordered flags flown at half-mast in front of business houses in observance of the mayor's death. It was not known Monday whether a new mayor could be elected at the general election November 6. It is possible that a special election may have to be called.

Many Mourn Death
Springfield business and professional men were unanimous in expressing admiration for Mr. Tyson, emphasizing especially his unselfish work in directing the city's administration during the depression years.

D. B. Murphy—In the passing of Percy Tyson we realize we have lost an outstanding citizen, one who has given unparagonably of himself for the good of the community.

And we have also lost a wonderful friend. To his family we extend our sincere sympathy.
Clyde Barber—Springfield has lost the best friend it has ever had in the passing of Mr. Tyson.
W. E. Buell—I feel that the schools of Springfield have lost a real friend. Mayor Tyson was always very interested in the welfare of the children of our community.

Lum Anderson—I have been acquainted and intimately associated with Mayor Tyson for the past 10 years, and I have found him to be a man of the highest standing and upright character. He has shown rare ability in his chosen line of work and in the public services he has undertaken. I have not had a more loyal friend and enjoyable companion. His passing is a severe shock to me.

W. A. Taylor—News of the death of Mayor Tyson came as a terrible shock to me. We have been very good friends for many years, and have worked together closely on the city council. The city has lost a very faithful, conscientious servant.

C. F. Eggmann—The death of Percy Tyson is a shock to the entire city. His loss will be greatly felt. He worked hard for the city and the city's interest at no compensation to himself. He worked very hard to bring the city out of a financial hole, and was partially successful. He was a very likeable person. We have lost a good citizen.

M. A. Pohl—Mayor Tyson was a member of the Springfield post of the American Legion and was very well-liked among his comrades. As commander of the post I had just appointed him chairman of the high-way safety committee, because of his very fine work in this line in the past. Floyd Flannery—Springfield will feel the loss of Mr. Tyson deeply. He had done splendid work pulling the city out of the financial mire it was in during the depression. He was a most able and admired citizen.

H. E. Maxey—Mr. Tyson has been very conscientious as mayor of the city. He was a citizen of Springfield for a long time, and was known and liked by everyone here. It will be hard to find someone to take his place.

I. M. Peterson—Mr. Tyson served the city as mayor for five years during very trying and difficult times. He devoted a great deal of time to the duties of his office, and was a very faithful and honest public servant. Through his efforts the financial condition of the town gradually improved during his tenure.

Rev. Vellie Prull—Mr. Tyson was a fine man and his death is a great loss. I don't know who will take his place. He was a great friend of our (Christian) church work.

E. M. Drew—My association with Mayor Tyson was very pleasant. I always found him to be a man of very high integrity. He did his work well and conscientiously, and he was a real gentleman.

O. H. Jarrett—Mr. Tyson was employed by the Booth-Kelly company from April, 1914, to April, 1931, and he was known as "Bully" all over the plant. He served as four-L chairman while here, and was also chairman of the plant's safety committee for several years. He was held in the highest esteem by his employers and fellow-workmen alike.

SCHOOL BOARD TO ASK RESTORATION OF FUNDS SLASH

firmed adjustments he had approved for meeting the increased teaching demands at the university and the college.

Most of the adjustments necessary were in lower division work, where first year enrollment for the five institutions registering freshmen jumped from 1710 to 2514, or an increase of 47 per cent.

The increased attendance is being handled at a fraction of the amount realized from resident and out-of-state students, even allowing for a possible shortage and increased price of laboratory supplies, the board was told.

This greater "efficiency" was anticipated by the board when it sought to bring registration back more nearly to the capacity of the institutions, it was said.

Ask Optional Military

Expenditures of federal emergency funds at the six institutions will have reached more than $180,000 when present authorized projects are completed, Chancellor Kerr reported. These CWA, SEERA and FEKA expenditures have gone largely into much needed permanent improvements at the various plants, and required an expenditure by the board of only $27,000 for materials, the report showed. Federal student work aid will total an estimated $101,320.91 for the final term of last year and the present academic year.

Two communications were received asking that military training at the university and college be made optional for all classes. One petition came from Uel F. Ristow of Eugene, representing the committee on temperance, reforms and social service of the Oregon conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, and the other from George L. Clauss, chairman of the social service committee of the Congregational and Christian churches. Both were referred to the curricula committee.

Another request from Grants Pass that mining instruction and extension work be added to the system was also referred to the curricula committee.

Auto Course Approved

Several salary increases, all but one on restricted funds, were allowed as a means of holding men who had either been offered substantial raises elsewhere or who had been assigned increased responsibility. These included Dr. Harold B. Myers, associate dean of the medical school in Portland; F. L. Ballard, vice director of cooperative extension at Corvallis; Miss Frances Clinton, home demonstration agent in Multnomah county; and R. G. Larson, county agent of Malheur county.

A self-supporting extension course in automotive engineering to be given in Portland by the mechanical engineering department of O. S. C. was approved, as was the merging of the service departments of men's and women's physical education at the college, with Dr. Clair V. Langton placed in charge as director.

C. A. Brand recounted to the board what he termed was outstanding progress in developing rowing as a sport at Oregon State college. Assistance by the board, the Portland Rowing club, federal work relief funds and interested individuals has resulted in equipping a first class crew house at no cost to the taxpayers. Close to 100 men are now in this sport and others are on the waiting list, he said.
The biennial report of the board to the legislature is being prepared by Chancellor Kerr and will be ready for consideration at the next meeting. Chairman Willard Marks told the board.

limit opportunity everywhere. They would cast all men in a common mold and thus take away the unequalled privilege which has belonged to the boys and girls of America to build themselves up from humble beginnings to positions of honor, affluence and power."

Governor Dave Shultz officially welcomed the delegates in behalf of Oregon, after being introduced by Commander Hayes.

In his address, he said "It is our responsibility as legionnaires to be eternally vigilant and constantly alert in time of peace to protect this country from communistic propaganda and from sinister influences."

Thomas H. Healy, assistant dean of Georgetown university's school for foreign service, told the legion that a disarmed United States would be a menace to the peace of the world.

He declared that the surest way to prevent aggressive action by other nations is to be armed in advance.

Adoption by the rules committee of a two-hour debate limit on the bonus came as speculation increased as to just what the convention would do about payment of adjusted compensation certificates.

Interest was whetted by President Roosevelt's strong implication in dedicating a veterans' hospital at Roanoke, Va., Thursday that payment of the bonus must await the recovery of thousands of "under privileged" persons.

Seventeen state departments of the legion have voted in favor of immediate payment.

Chris Paetow, 25, of Portland. His boat overturned while duck hunting. George Flinn, Indian youth, drowned off Fish point.

Waldron Larson of Bellingham, drowned while duck hunting on the Skagit river.

Stern Wheeler Sinks

An unidentified man, also believed of Bellingham, drowned in the same party with Larson. An unidentified man from Everett is missing.

The bodies were found by a group looking for Mr. and Mrs. John Ryno of Seattle, who had been reported missing, but who were picked up on the Stanwood jetty by a truck.

Seven cows on the farm of Martin McQue near Stanwood were killed when the barn collapsed.

The liner President Madison which sank the sternwheeler Harvester and damaged others as it plumed from its moorings here yesterday was warped back into position at pier 41 today.

LANE FEELS BLOW

All Lane county received a thorough drenching over the weekend in common with all sections of the northwest.

A total of 2.25 inches of precipitation was recorded in Eugene from Friday night to 7 a. m. Monday. With heavy rains in outlying sections swelling tributaries, the Willamette was up, two feet Monday over Sunday's mark, being gauged at minus one-tenth of a foot Monday morning.

Winds did considerable damage throughout the county. The forest service here reported much fallen timber between Blue River and McKenzie Bridge. Highway crews were busy Sunday removing trees from the roads. Telephones were
