need to be made in matters of detail as a result of experience and further study, it is the board's conviction that the fundamentals allocations of function are sound, educationally and economically, and should therefore be maintained."

"With a population of less than a million people, and an aggregate wealth of scarcely more than $900,000,000," Marks said, "Oregon cannot support separate institutions each complete in itself, according to the traditions of the more populous and wealthy states; rather, each institution must occupy a distinctive field as a part of the state system, all the institutions together constituting a complete unity of curricular offerings and other functions required to meet the higher educational needs of the sate."

President Marks stated that the report on finances by Chancellor W. J. Kerr "shows that higher education has been doing its part in helping to reduce the taxpayer's burden."

A comparison of income between the years 1930-31 and 1934-35, for example, shows the following reductions, he said: state income only, 40.5 per cent; all income, including state, student fees, and other sources, 41.2 per cent."

"The cumulative reductions in income from all soures over the four-year period," Marks said, "are shown to amount to $5,735,041."

He said the operation of the institutions of this drastically reduced income "forced curtailment of some import services to students and the state and was possible only because of unified control, large salary and staff reductions, elimination of unnecessary duplication, and heavy decline in student enrollment."

He stated that in this program of retrenchment major consideration was given to the interests of students "and for the most part the standards of higher education in Oregon have not suffered as yet, even with the 20 per cent increase in enrollment this year over last."

Marks concluded, however, that "with indications pointing to further increases in enrollment, and with mounting costs of materials, supplies and equipment, standards must inevitably suffer if this decline in financial support continues."

tablish small shoe factories, tanneries and workshops.

Officials emphasized that such work rooms would be discontinued as soon as private employment was available. They also declared that plans were simply to guide local officials.

As officials ponder the employment problem, another suggestion heard is that various branches of industry be assigned a certain number of jobless persons to absorb.

Observers familiar with administration policy believe unless some plan is put into effect to get huge numbers off relief into jobs with private industry, some far reaching action is impending.

Explosion of Gas Tank Fatal to One

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—(AP)—One man was killed and damage amounting to $175,000 was caused when an acetylene gas tank exploded in the Charlestown navy yard here today. The dead man was identified as Daniel Doules, 55, of Cahrlestown, attendant of the building in which the tank was stored. His body was found in the debris.

Captain Ross P. Schlabach, in charge of construction at the yard, said the damage to the plant would total $150,000 while the damage to a boat house near by where two girders collapsed and the roof fell in would be $25,000.

TUESDAY PROGRAMS

McDONALD—"Cleopatra", Cecil DeMille epic starring Claudette Colbert and Warren Williams.

COLONIAL—"Riptide" with Robert Montgomery, Herbert Marshall and Norma Shearer.

STATE—"You Belong to Me" with Lee Tracy, Helen Mack and David Holt.

HEILIG—"The Captain Hates the Sea," with Victor McLaglen.

REX—"Here Comes the Navy" with Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien, plus "Mystery in the Private Car" with Charley Ruggles.

Just in from Portland, so don't expect too much in the way of movie reviews from a personal standpoint. However, what we haven't seen we've read reviews of in the various trade papers.

"Cleopatra," at the Mac. DeMille spectacle, Claudette Colbert starred. Story you all know, Caesar, Marc Anthony and Cleo. Says the Hollywood Reporter: "Swell;" Moving Picture Herald: "Grand Spectacle!"

Have seen "Colonial's "Riptide," and it's a honey. Norma Shearer, Bob Montgomery, Herbert Marshall, in a sophisticated comedy of love in and out of marriage. Montgomery steals it.

"Captain Hates the Sea," at the Heilig, rated A-1 comedy. Lots of loughs, funny situations and hilarious anecdotes. Great cast, too, with Walter Connolly, John Gilbert and all the others.

State's "You Belong to Me" proved prize sleeper of the month. Billed only as a program picture, it came through to annex three stars in Liberty and get top billing as one of the year's best dramas. Lee Tracy, Helen Mack star.

Rex has two good pictures. Preferred "Mystery in the Private Car," though. Charlie Ruggles and a host of others in one of the most spontaneous, naturally hilarious comedies of the year. Its climax is the equal of the horse race in "David Harum." "Here Comes the Navy" on the same bill, good, too, particularly if you like Cagney.

POWER BATTLE IS DUE DURING NEXT CONGRESS SESSION

water. It hit what it termed "TVA's excursion into the power business."

Treaty Fight Seen

"That means the promoting of government-subsidized industries in direct competition with existing private industries," it said.

A summary of a bulky report made after a three-year survey in connection with the projected power development of the St. Lawrence by the New York state power authority was issued by the White House last night. The survey was made at the order of President Roosevelt when he was governor of the empire state. The White House said the findings would "vitally affect 7,000,000 customers for electricity."

The action of the administration in issuing the document was considered as another sign that it will fight for ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty in the next congress. Under the plan, the St. Lawrence power would be distributed by private utilities, provided suitable contracts could be agreed upon.

States' Rights "Propaganda"

The White House summary said the report, made under the chairmanship of Frank P. Walsh, established a yardstick whereby consumers in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New England would be saved $194,000,000 a year or 27 per cent.

Besides the St. Lawrence, the Roosevelt administration is projecting power development at Muscle Shoals; on the Columbia and Missouri rivers and at Boulder Canyon dam on the Colorado river.

A plea to state authorities to give "closest cooperation" in regulating public utilities was voiced yesterday by Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the federal power commission. He told the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commissioners that the "states' rights" cry is "propaganda by the interests who desire to escape regulation."

FLANDIN TALK STORY

Doumergue with "admiration" for coup d'etat methods.

The Flandin government announced that its slogan was "Truce with action and unity." The announcement said the government was determined to keep France "strong in the face of those who would trouble peace without or within." Ie declared alliances would be developed and "the national defense fortified."

"No Magic Wand"

Flanin announced his economic policy as freedom of commerce to spur business and reduce unemployment. He promised to fight the depression, saying: "Hunger is the best promoter of revolution."

The fight will be slow, however, he said, because "There is no magic wand to end the depression."

The premier said international stabilization of moneys will be sought by continued negotiations abroad while lower interest rates will be sought at home.

Flandin praised Doubergue and accepted some of his predecessor's reforms intended to strengthen the premiership, control governmental employes and limit parliament's spending powers but no mention was made to constitutional revision. The measure to prevent parliament adding expenditures to the budget after the finance committee reports it on the floor of the chamber of deputies already has been introduced by the government.

Support Expected

The chamber's reaction to the statement was somewhat restrained but indications were that the cabinet would get a heavy majority, possibly as big as that gained by Doumergue when he first went before parliament.

When Flandin praised his predecessor, all eyes turned to watch Herriot, who sat immobile during the commendation. The praise of Doumergue aroused wild applause through most of the chamber, although the communists and socialists booed.

Football pools also would be prohibited. One speaker estimated 5,000,000 people contribute $1,250,000 weekly to football pools, or $45,000,000 during the season. SEARCH FOR ROGUE RIVER HERMIT IS STILL UNFRUITFUL

GOLD BEACH, Ore., Nov. 13.—(AP)—Hunting for a needle in a haystack is only a slightly less difficult task than that confronting Curry county officers who are searching for Hugo Meyer, hermit of the backwoods country.

They want to question Meyer to determine if he knows anything about the slaying last week of Robert Faunts, 50, who had been shot to death while riding along a trail near his home.

The hermit, Meyer, whose attire sometimes resembles that of the pictured "wildman," is said by police to own a high-power rifle and a powerful telescope.

Sheriff Fritz Smith returned to Gold Beach last night but was to resume the search soon. He and Guy Forsythe, state policeman, had been combing the "craggies" in the Illinois river country 20 miles east of Gold Beach for several days. Forsythe was expected to return to civilization this afternoon.

Meyer has been well known in Curry's upper Rogue country for the past 20 years. He has trap lines in widely scattered parts of the forests and rarely appears at the settlements except to market furs at Agness. He is said to have been barefooted in the winter time and on occasion to dress only in the skins of animals.

LUTHERAN YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET

Young people of the Central Lutheran church will gather in Eugene this week-end for the annual conference of the Oregon Circuit Young People's Luther League. About 70 delegates are expected to attend the sessions.

The conference will open Friday evening at 8 o'clock, and the meetings will continue throughout Saturday and Sunday. Over 150 visitors are expected for the Sunday meetings, according to Rev. P. J. Luvaas, pastor of the local Central Lutheran church.

Many out-of-town speakers are to be here for the various meetings, while round-table discussions will be interspersed with the lectures.

A banquet Saturday evening at the Cafe Del Rey will be one of the highlights of the conference. Another outstanding feature on the program will be the choral union at 2:30 Sunday afternoon.

Alvin Rogen of Monitor is president of the Luther league this year. He is the son of the former pastor of the Central Lutheran church here.

Eugene was host to the Luther League's annual convention four years ago.

sation. Einzig reported that in his original arrangement with Governor Meier "I agreed to manage the industry as an additional duty without compensation until such time as the industry was self-supporting. I believe, in view of the audit presented to the board, that I should be recompensed for services to the flax industry during the year 1934."

Einzig stated the previous manager of the plant had received $6,000 a year plus expenses and there was a considerable staff of employes whereas now the entire staff consists of a flax superintendent, bookkeeper adn secretary of the board of control.

The audit of the industry, presented to the board today showed an operating profit the past year of $16,163, after all expenses, depreciation and interest charges had been deducted. The board approved payment of $25 a ton to farmers for this year's flax crop and charging them $3 a bushel for seed. The audit showed stock on hand valued at $120,000.

Losses of the flax industry previously were reported in excess of $300,000. Plans were started for collection of old deficits due the state by the Salem Linen Mills for flax as well as repayment to the state of previous loans.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL UNDERWAY

"The dozens of volunteers now engaged in conducting Eugene's Red Cross Roll Call exemplify the spirit of service which causes thousands upon thousands to carry on Red Cross activities every year."

Roll Call chairman Harry Gordon of the Lane County chapter made the foregoing statement today as team workers took the field in the annual enrollment drive. The local chapter's goal is 3000 members and present indications are that it will exceed the mark.

Red Cross volunteers have as their slogan, "I come to Serve", Activities in many chapters throughout the state and nation are varied.

Harry Gordon in a statement issued today said that in the past month 400 new relief cases have been brought to the attention of the local Red Cross chapter. He also stated that in 1933 the Federal government dispensed $240,000, through local Red Cross channels.

"No emergency is so sudden or so overwhelming that there is not within reach the skillful, helping hand of the Red Cross. Your membership makes possible this helpful service," Mr. Gordon said.

Lane Republicans Spend $308.25 in Election Campaign

The Lane county republican central committee spent $308.25 in the campaign prior to the election November 6, according to a report filed in the office of County Clerk W. B. Dillard Tuesday afternoon by Fred Stickels, chairman of the committee.

The same amount was contributed to the campaign fund, leaving nothing in the treasury. Contributions were made by the different republican candidates and other prominent men in the party.

Disbursements included sums for rental, signs, office help, headquarters, advertising, telephone, printing and miscellaneous items.

Headquarters were maintained in the Beckwith building at the corner of Seventh avenue and Willamette street for a number of weeks before election.

"Mr. Charles Sullivan, Park Supt.,

"Dear Mr. Sullivan:

"To you and Director I. S. Koch, of the Eugene Transie bureau, I wish to express my deep appreciation to you and your men for the splendid work they have done in building the fine roads and walks in Skinner Memorial park and more particularly for clearing the grounds and digging the holes for the tree planting on Armistice day. They have contributed thousands of dollars worth of work to the creation of a beautiful park, dedicated to the 200 men from Lane county who have died in the service of their country in the Indian wars, the Civil war, Spanish war and the great World war. We will pass on but for generations to come these trees will be a living memorial to the men who gave their lives that our children and children's children should enjoy the blessings of peace.
