

MAJORS TO FIGHT BLOCKING OF BIG RELIEF PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP)—A conference of mayors that it bitterly fight any attempt to block relief program at the session of congress.

Francis M. Stephenson, president of the National Association of Mayors, said that the mayors' conference was given today by the United States conference of mayors that it bitterly fight any attempt to block relief program at the session of congress.

It was among the reactions expected to the series of recommendations made by big business leaders at White Sulphur springs in economic recovery.

President Roosevelt was pictured in high authorities as the program "on its way to the United States conference of mayors that it bitterly fight any attempt to block relief program at the session of congress."

Chairman Kennedy of the securities and exchange commission said it was too early yet to tell whether the 1935 securities act should be amended. That is for future to be decided.

The business leaders had advocated legislation on the ground the act was blocking the flow of capital.

For those out of work employment public construction projects created primarily for the purpose of relief and at wages not in excess of relief payments which they otherwise receive, would be encouraged in order that long-contaminated areas, with its unfortunate effects, physically and morally, may be possible be avoided.

The mayors' statement said "Business suggests we keep the unemployed in storage on a starvation level private business has the opportunity to exploit human resources again."

It was issued after a conference between Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, and a conference of mayors including Mayor LaGuardia of New York.

They thoughtful student of the employment situation knows that the unemployed want to work," Mayor said.

Human resources are too valuable to decay under a system of pauperism, charity and idleness.

With over 10,000,000 people on the American major cities, we continue our efforts to secure legislation by President Roosevelt of a financial plan which will help instead of the dele to these areas.

apparently became confused by cars, police said.

Three more traffic crashes were reported to city police Friday. A city sprinkler, driven by R. C. Powell, which was parked at a hydrant on Oak street near Seventh, was struck by a car driven by Orval E. Pullford, going south on Oak street, at 3:45 a. m. Friday. Pullford told police he did not see the sprinkler till he was upon it.

Cars driven by Vernon A. Stephens and William B. Brinck crashed at Sixth and Pearl streets Thursday. Another crash at Eleventh and William, involving cars driven by Arthur Goss and George Maxwell, brought the total of accidents on this corner up to 11 for the year, police said.

Pray Promises Enforcement of Car License Rule

SALEM, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Anyone driving an automobile after January 1 with 1934 license plates will not be looked upon with favor by Charles P. Pray, superintendent of state police, and his men, who declared today that the law providing for the display of current license plates would be strictly enforced.

Pray said members of the state police force would be placed at strategic positions along the state highways January 1, to check all motor vehicles.

"The state police department has no alternative than to enforce this law," he stated.

It was reported at the state department today that approximately 60,000 new licenses had been issued. Those who are unable to procure their permits at the regular stations in Portland and Salem may get temporary license tags from county sheriffs by the payment of 25 cents more than the regular price.

Dr. Hunt Re-Named Medical Group Head

New officers were elected by the Lane County Medical society at its meeting Thursday evening at the Osburn hotel. There was a dinner followed by the business sessions and program.

Dr. Charles E. Hunt was re-elected president. Dr. Gilson A. Ross was elected vice-president. Dr. E. D. Furrer was re-elected secretary and Dr. Harry G. Talbot was named censor.

For the program, Dr. Otis F. Akin, fracture specialist of Portland, gave the paper, his topic being "Common Fractures and their Accepted Treatment."

Junction City News

JUNCTION CITY, Dec. 21.—(Special)—The Brotherhood and sisterhood with their families had a fine time on Wednesday evening when they met at their hall for their annual Christmas party. The evening began with a 7 o'clock pot luck supper followed with a program of skits, readings and music by the young folks. A large Christmas tree thrilled the 32 children present, but the climax was reached when Santa arrived and presented each child with a gift. Visiting and games followed and a lunch was served at a late hour.

The P. N. G. met at the home of Helga Rasmussen Wednesday afternoon with election of officers. Grace Harpole was elected president; Ellen Scott, vice-president; Neva Leach, secretary-treasurer. After the business session, they observed their annual Christmas tree party with an exchange of gifts. A delightful afternoon was enjoyed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Rasmussen and Mrs. Gladys Day, joint hostesses. Those present were Grace Harpole, Ellen Scott, Neva Leach, Mary Strom, Freda Miller, Nettie Davidson, Cora Newman, Etta Miller, Alta Klock, Velma Thornton, Florence Calvert, Amy Jensen, Clara Jensen, Sophia Pedersen, Edna Fredrickson, Christine Rasmussen and May Gardner.

STUDENTS TO GET FEDERAL AID FOR APPROACHING TERM

Some 275 students at the University of Oregon, in common with thousands in other institutions throughout the United States, will be back in school January 2 as a result of the grant of federal funds for this purpose. It was announced here today by Dr. Earl M. Pallett, executive secretary.

This number is approximately the same as were assigned federal aid work during the term just ending. The monthly allotment to the university of $3,325 per month is expected to remain the same also.

The work, which is allotted only to students who could not otherwise attend the institution, has also served as a decided stimulus to scholarship, for work for the coming term will be reassigned only to students who have made a good record in all studies.

While typing and clerical work provide most of the places for students, many are engaged on unusual and interesting projects. One student, apt at illustrating, is making a number of anthropological drawings for a research project of one of the professors. A group is engaged in assisting in a research project that involves psychology and music.

The students are distributed all over the campus, with every department having at least one. A crew under the direction of university gardeners takes care of the lawn, and does landscape gardening.

Assignment of work is under the direction of Karl W. Outhouse, dean of personnel and a committee appointed by Dr. C. V. Boyer, university president.

HOG PRODUCTION QUOTAS WILL BE LARGER IN 1935

SALT LAKE CITY, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Agricultural extension officials of western states in conference here today with agricultural adjustment administration officials from Washington discussed wider powers of county allotment committees and provisions for greater flexibility in administering hog-corn adjustment contracts next year.

R. H. Moyer, regional representative of the corn-hog section of the AAA, and other speakers declared one of the principal problems is the adjustment of production to fill the shortage due to the 1934 drought, without permitting production to get out of control.

"Drought years have been succeeded almost invariably by increased production," Moyer said, "with a sharp decline in prices as a result." He said 1935 contracts contemplate larger production than in 1934 and that the total of benefit payments will be lower because the AAA already has achieved in part its purpose to raise prices to pre-war levels.

"If we have a normal crop year we shall have a surplus, but it will be a surplus of manageable proportions," he asserted.

With allotment bases the same as last year, hog production of 90 per cent of the base, instead of 75 per cent as formerly, will be permitted, and corn production of from 70 to 90 per cent of the base.
