PORTLAND BUTTER MARKET IS EASIER

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 8.—(AP)—Locally the butter market was getting a trifle easy as a result of continued advance in price although as yet no real surplus of offerings was suggested.

Butterfat market retained its full former price with the competitors still at work at various interior points. Most of the city delivery bids were at full values, with an occasional one 1@3-4c higher.

While there was no further open price change for eggs during the day, secret rebates continued more or less general. Dealers' floor stock have reached the point where there is no disposition to increase them.

Steadiness is almost generally shown for live chickens with even light weight hens inclined to hold recent prices while heavyweight sorts were firm in spots.

Really strong tone was showing for country killed meats with a further advance suggested in spots for hogs and for lambs while beef and veal were well held at late advances.

Deschutes potato growers were asking 80c cental for No. 1 there which means $1 Portland. This was more than most operators were willing to pay and trading lags. No. 2 grade was held there at 40c.

Quiet tone and softer price were suggested in the market for onions with little carload business confirmed at Willamette valley sources. Local and California trade continued to use much low priced Yakimas.

Demand for hothouse tomatoes continued quite good and a daily cleanup of offerings was suggested. Mexicans were in liberal offering, good and fewer priced in spots. Most sales $4 per repacked.

While the market was well supplied with cabbage, really top quality and popular sized stock show a scarcity with a slight advance in the price noted for such offerings. Others unchanged.

Fancy field grown rhubarb from a local section showing slightly increased call around $1 for 15s with price as much asked for hothouse.

Both Imperial valley and Yuma lettuce was being sold generally around $4.25 for best sizes with 6s around $3.75 and dry pick 4s $2-2.15.

Artichoke market was a trifle firmer around $3.15-3.25.

Higher prices were being quoted on all pork products by local packers.
