boxes and barrels which is seriously threatening the northwest fruit farmers, however, continued today despite urgent pleas and plans of farmers' organizations to reopen the co-operatives and box plants.

The spruce and veneer package corporation, at Puyallup, failed to open despite an agreement said to have been reached Sunday.

The Western Co-operative company here remained closed. It supplies probably the bulk of the barrels used in packing fruit. Officials issued a terse statement saying "it is impossible to operate."

The fruit industry, particularly that of the Willamette and Puyallup valleys was said to face disaster unless the box plants and co-operatives open within a week. Less than 10 per cent of the number of crates, boxes and barrels necessary to handle the fruit crops, ripening fast under a summer sun, are on hand and spokesmen for the fruit growers say unless they can obtain them the fruit will rot on the vines, the canneries remain idle, and prices of fruit skyrocket.

SETTLEMENTS May 20.—At feeling about 1,500 of 2,000 (on Port Gamble union officials announced today that the McCord Lumber company has reached an agreement with its striking employees.

The agreement, for a four-week period, provides for a minimum pay of 50 cents an hour, an increase of five cents, and recognition of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America as the collective bargaining agency for the employees.

The workers have been striking since May 15, demanding recognition of the union and a 10 per cent wage increase. The settlement, however, is not on the settlement yesterday. Unless involved in the general timber workers' strike and co-operative workers' strike, the company has a connecting plan to the workers. The workers have been on strike since May 15, demanding recognition of the union and a 10 per cent wage increase.

The company expects to open Camp Fisher in Jefferson county and Camp Union in Kitsap county tomorrow, employing 600 men.

ANOTHER SHUTDOWN ASTORIA, Ore., May 20.—(AP)—The labor strike here, which started today when the Enterprise Lumber company here, a veneer plant, shut down. Upstream officials said that union demands were so high that the company was unable to operate.

only paid to give pedestrians in Redmond the right of way. People crossing the street in these lanes have the right of way over cars and in the event a machine struck a pedestrian under such circumstances, the person walking would be in the right, it was pointed out. Conversely, pedestrians crossing the streets outside these lanes, or "jay walking," have no rights whatever, it was pointed out.

Minor Building Tough Spot

The committee reported serious traffic congestion on East Broadway in the vicinity of the Miner building where traffic checkers Monday morning found many trucks double parked. During a fifteen-minute period, 14 trucks were observed double parked in the central business district, with the majority of them in the vicinity of the Miner building.

The result of this congested situation on East Broadway was that traffic going both ways was frequently forced to stop and work its way through the double parked cars. The committee pointed to the danger of such a condition on the main highway through the city.

Observers at Sixth and Willamette reported that 75 per cent of the drivers who made a turn there during a period of less than a half hour failed to give a signal. During this period, accidents were narrowly averted twice, when cars going south on Willamette entered the intersection while cars were approaching on the Pacific highway from the right. These cars failed to observe proper care in entering the intersection and by interfering with the main stream of traffic nearly caused two accidents.

New Laws Are Proposed

Members of a committee emphasized the point that the last legislature gave the right of way at intersections to the machine approaching of the right.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 20.—(AP)—Oregon expects to spend $10,000 in an exhibit at the San Diego exposition in an effort to lure Californians to Oregon for this vacation season. The Oregon state board of control, the city of Portland, and a committee representing Oregon communities, today launched a drive for the money.

WORK CONTINUES AT FISCHER MILL

Workmen of the Fischer lumber mill at Marcola will continue work at the plant, pending final consideration of the temporary agreement between mill officials and the sawmill and timber workers union, it was announced Monday by labor officials here.

The union held a meeting Sunday morning to discuss the situation, but reached no decision, it was said. The matter will be continued at the regular meeting of the union Wednesday night at which time a definite decision is expected.

Workmen are now back at their jobs under a temporary agreement following their walkout several days ago. Men employed in the woods started work Monday while work in the planer started Friday with men going back to work in the mill proper Saturday.

The temporary agreement gives the men a minimum wage of 50 cents an hour with a 2 1/2 cent increase for wages over the minimum. This agreement, it was said, does not meet the approval of the northwest council of the union.

RELIEF REPORT STORY

and did not get the relief. The report did not show any such alleged irregularity.

In addition to Multnomah the probe was carried on in Clackamas, Clatsop, Clatskanie, Douglas, Hood River, Jackson, Lane, Lincoln, Linn, Marion, Washington and Yamhill counties.

Many Complaints "Political"

The chairman of the committee reported that "certain types of complaints reaching us, often of a political nature, originated in a well-defined area in certain counties and seem to have had their origin in groups of social and political agitators. In many instances these complaints were highly colored and had no basis in fact."

The complaint that relief workers were paid a high salary was refuted by the report that "salaries and wages paid to administrative officers and employees are reasonably low."

Aid Often Inefficient

The committee did admit that the relief given in many cases was insufficient to maintain a reasonable standard of living, but that it was "efficient to sustain life and safeguard health during a short emergency period. The standard of relief given is not under the control of the relief administration, but is limited by funds available for relief purposes."

Continuing, the report found: "That in many instances complaints against our workers were found to be justified, and in a few cases were sufficient to require removal."

"That the practice with reference to payment of house-rents has been the source of just criticism, both by relief recipients and property owners. The situation, due either to lack of definite policy or want of uniformity, indicates an under-estimate of the importance of providing shelter and has the effect of imposing an unjust burden upon property owners.

"Adequate facilities have not been provided for determining the eligibility of applicants for relief or for eliminating those who no longer require assistance."

U. of O. School Commanded

A recommendation was made by the committee that more adequate means be furnished the University of Oregon for development of its school of social service so that it may be made to conform to the standards of the American Association of Schools for Social Work.

In general comment the report stated, "The facts are there is still a great deal of want and suffering in the state of Oregon incident to unemployment. In every community there are on the relief rolls many fine people who are only there because of immediate necessity and who will become independent whenever industrial conditions permit. There are also on the relief rolls impostors who are not only unjustly receiving relief but are doing much to discredit the entire relief administration."

BONUS VETO STORY

there was no indication whatever of any change in his attitude.

Meanwhile, the White House received word from Capitol Hill that it would be convenient for Mr. Roosevelt to appear in joint session Wednesday at 12:30 and deliver personally his veto message, though the Senate was raising some objections.

The steering committee's call was made shortly after publication of American Legion appeal to citizens to bombard 12 senators with telegrams in an effort to get the Senate to override the president's veto of the Putnam bill.

The legion pinned its hope of overriding a presidential veto on winning and holding at least two of these 12 senators:

DEMOCRATS: Clark (Mo.), Coolidge (Mass.), Fletcher (Ill.), Gore (Okla.), Murphy (Ia.), Pittman (Nev.), and Pope (Ind.).

REPUBLICANS: Austin (Vt.), Davis (Conn.), McNary (Ore.), Townsend (Del.), and White (Me).

The house without a roll-call vote adopted a resolution setting the joint House-Senate session at that hour. When Senator Robinson, the democratic leader, called the House resolution up in the Senate, Senator Steiwer (R., Ore.), blocked immediate consideration of it by a parliamentary maneuver. Unanimous consent was required for consideration of the resolution out of order and Steiwer objected without explanation. Its consideration later, however, was taken for granted.

Steiwer, asserting he would force a vote on the resolution, told newspapermen he was opposed to the joint session to reverse President Roosevelt's veto because it was "against the constitution."

"The constitution doesn't contemplate that the president should participate in legislative matters," Steiwer said. "I see no reason why the senate should be there. It is not involved unless the house overrides the veto."

Minor Forest Fire Reported On River

One minor forest blaze was reported in Lane county over the weekend, the fire being started in brush along the McKenzie river above McKenzie bridge, according to Willamette forest officials. The fire, which covered only a few yards before it was found and extinguished, was believed started by a cigarette or cigar dropped by a fisherman. Fires in the coast section were all extinguished or smoldering under control, it was reported Monday. There were no fires in the Siuslaw forest area, recent coast blazes being in private timber.

So mild, athletes smoke as many as they please—and that's real mildness!

Of course you want mildness in a cigarette. And the athletes—to whom "wind," healthy nerves, "condition" are vitally important—insist on mildness. Lou Gehrig, baseball's "Iron Man," says: "Camels are so mild they never get my 'wind.'"

George Barker, intercollegiate cross-country champion, says: "Camels are so mild, they don't cut my 'wind' in any way." Bobby Walthour, Jr., star of the six-day bike grinds, says: "I've got to have 'wind' in bike racing. For my cigarette I long ago chose Camels."

Tommy Armour, speaking for golf, Bruce Barnes for tennis, and Betty Bailey for the aquatic sports—all agree: "Camels don't get your 'wind.'"

What this mildness means to you! It means you can smoke as many Camels as you please. Athletes say Camel's costlier tobaccos never disturb your nerves—never tire your taste—never get your "wind."

GOOD NEWS! Most of the pleasant things in life are doubly pleasant when you're "in condition." That's why it's such good news to hear that Camel's costlier tobaccos are so mild you can smoke all you please. Athletes say Camels never get your "wind."

SO MILD YOU CAN SMOKE ALL YOU WANT!
