

JAPANESE POLICY IN CHINA ONE OF STEADY CONQUEST

on the south and westward into isolated Shensi province.

During the past five years Japan's "undeclared war" on China has been marked by the following developments:

September 18, 1931—Seizure of Mukden and extension of Japanese rule throughout all of Manchuria.

March, 1932—reclamation of Pu Yi as "chief executive of the independent state of Manchoukuo".

November and December, 1931—Extension of influence north of the Sino-Soviet Chinese Eastern railway into the Soviet sphere of influence in the Harbin area.

January, 1932—Opening of hostilities at Shanghai, a move designed by Japan to obtain command of the mouth of the Yangtze river, the gateway to Central China.

March, 1932—The Shanghai truce and China's abandonment of hope that the League of Nations would restore Manchuria to her.

March, 1932—reclamation of Pu Yi as "chief executive of the independent state of Manchoukuo".

The autumn of 1932—Japanese military incursions in the direction of Tientsin.

March, 1933—Japanese seizure of Jehol, the easternmost province of Inner Mongolia.

April and May, 1933—Japanese advances to within 15 miles of Peiping and Tientsin.

May 26, 1933—The Tangku truce, under which Japan had out the hand of friendship to the skeptical Chinese and created the "demilitarized zone" south of the Great Wall into which Chinese troops could not venture but which was the stamping ground for the Japanese.

March, 1934—Proclamation of Pu Yi as emperor Kang Teh of Manchoukuo.

The summer of 1934—Japanese negotiations with Mongol princes for the annexation of Inner Mongolia to Manchoukuo.

The autumn of 1934—Japanese announcement of her astern Asiatic hegemony.

Japan's present moves, which may not stop until the shores of the Yellow river have been reached, follow her failure to achieve economic domination in North China.

With danger of Japanese hostilities with the Soviet union definitely postponed, the Japanese may have decided that only by actual military occupation of North China and its addition to Manchoukuo can her plans for full economic exploitation of the region be realized.

This is the first photographic copy released of the original "Egoist" $200,000 ransom demand for safe return of George Hunt Weyerhaeuser, son of the great timber-owning family, who was held eight days by kidnapers near Tacoma, Wash., his home. The note's demands were paid by the lad's parents. "Smart guy" is the "Egoist" but he has failed to reckon on the fact that every typewriter leaves its "signature" and this note can be traced even more easily than handwriting.

DOES YOUR HUSBAND CALL YOU GROUCHY?

He's truthful if not tactful. Man-like, he is bewildered by your offishness and irritability. He can't understand what you have to be blue about. He wishes that you'd snap out of it. He'd do Mrs. Barbara Spears anything he could to help you. If he knew how good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was, he'd go straight to the nearest drug store and buy you a bottle.

"My husband says I am my old self again," says Mrs. Barbara Spears, 799 Elma Street, Akron, Ohio. "I was tired and all in with no appetite. Had no pep and was in poor spirits. Your Vegetable Compound eliminated that awful tired feeling."

Don't try your husband's patience too far. Get a bottle from your druggist NOW. It probably will help you, because nearly a million American women know from personal experience that it helps them!
