

SUMMER SESSION FOR CONGRESS IS AIM OF LIBERALS

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)—Senate liberals began a movement today to keep congress in session "all summer if necessary" to put through President Roosevelt's new wealth tax program.

More than 20 senators were said to have signed a declaration to that end.

Senator LaFollette (Prog., Wis.), and Borah (R., Ia.), and others were the leaders in the drive.

Late in the day they were said to have members on both republican and democratic sides of the aisle lined up behind the move.

Democratic leaders have indicated the program, or most of it, would go over until next session.

LaFollette lost an attempt in the finance committee yesterday to incorporate some of the new taxes in the house resolution extending for one year about $500,000,000 of nuisance levies expiring June 30.

He announced he would renew his efforts on the floor when the resolution comes up, probably tomorrow.

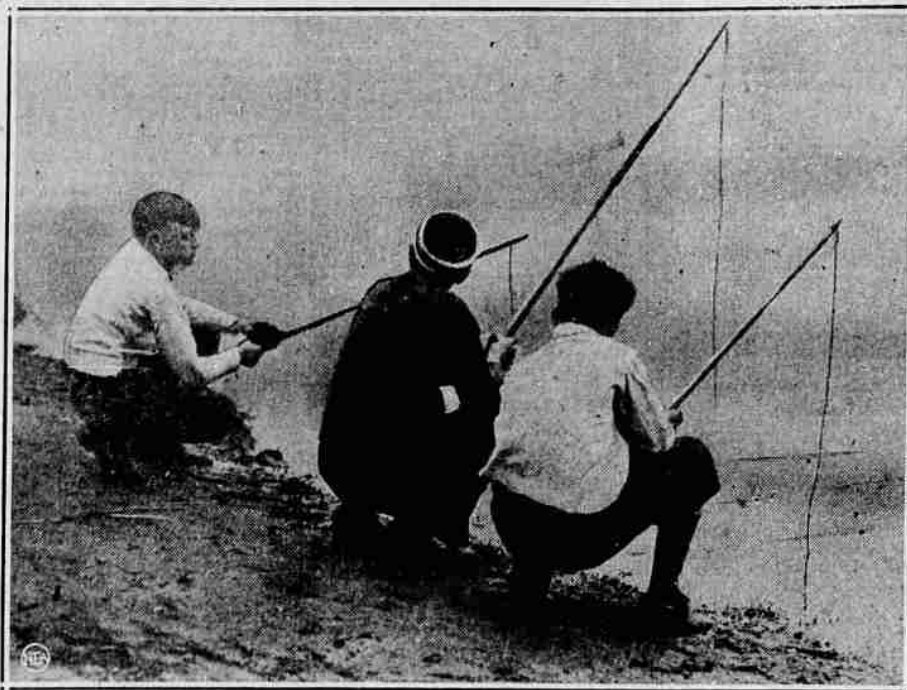

Seven Tacoma Mills Resume Operations

TACOMA, June 21.—(AP)—Seven lumber, door and plywood plants resumed operations here this morning despite heavy picket lines. Police reported no serious disorders. Several other mills reported they may start operating during the day.

OIL EXPLOSION
RICHMOND, Cal., June 21.—(AP)—Two employees of the Standard Oil company experimental laboratory here were critically burned today when a drum of oil exploded. The victims were Allen Robinson, 24, Berkeley, and H. H. Quinby, 27, San Pablo.

SALEM, June 21.—(AP)—Governor Martin went to Portland today to confer with prominent business men, whom he would not name, on plans for Oregon's new state capitol building. The governor was to attend a meeting of the Portland chamber of commerce tonight to discuss agricultural problems.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)—The House interstate commerce committee will approve the Wheeler-Rayburn utility bill as revised by the special subcommittee without drastic changes, Committee Chairman Sam Rayburn, (D., Tex.), predicted today. The bill will contain broad permissive powers for the securities and exchange commission to compel simplification of holding company structures but will not carry the seven year mandatory "death" sentence on holding companies beyond the first degree," Rayburn said.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—(AP)—Fred Frater, secretary-treasurer of the San Francisco unit of the International Longshoremen's association, today denied that national officers of the association had ordered removal of Harry Bridges, left-wing leader, as president of the local group.

OMAHA, Neb., June 21.—(AP)—Martial law in Omaha was ended officially at 3 p. m. today when Gov. R. L. Cochran signed a proclamation restoring control of the city to civil authorities.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 21.—(AP)—The Northern Baptist convention today thunderously turned thumbs down on the controversial proposal to merge its four missions societies into two bodies.

BUTTE, Mont., June 21.—(AP)—Coming as a backlash to the recent chain letter craze, Butte police held "open house" Thursday for those who lost their dollars to a promoter from Spokane, Wash. Nearly $100 was passed out to victims, after police forced the promoter to reimburse.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)—Housewives who went to the agriculture department to protest the cost of meat, today called upon their sisters throughout the land to boycott butcher shops until meat prices are lowered. They said their buying strike already was in progress in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland and Paterson, N. J.

CLEVELAND, June 21.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. J. W. Behken, Houston, Tex., today replaced the Rev. Dr. Frederick Potenhauer of Chicago, as president of the Missouri synod of the Lutheran church.

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—(AP)—Jackie Coogan, former juvenile film star, was sued for $500,000 today as an aftermath of an automobile accident near San Diego, last May 5, in which his father, Trent (Junior) Durkin, young film actor, and Robert J. Horner, screen writer, were killed. Suits were filed by Grace Durkin, sister of the actor, and Mrs. Anna V. Horner, mother of the writer. Each asked $250,000.

DEMONSTRATION OF LAMB CUTS GIVEN

Members of the Eugene chamber of commerce were shown how to get choice cuts of lamb from cuts ordinarily classed as of secondary value at the forum luncheon at the Del Rey cafe Friday when Prof. A. W. Oliver, of the animal husbandry department of O. S. C., gave a demonstration of lamb cuts.

Prof. Oliver, in prefacing his demonstration, pointed out that the lamb industry in this section was of great value to the country, being more than a million-dollar industry. According to the 1930 lamb census, there were 58,000 lambs in Lane county, 90,000 in Linn and 130,000 in Douglas county, he said.

Lamb cuts such as the breast, neck and shoulder, ordinarily not greatly desired by housewives, could be made into savory dishes by modern preparation, he said. A new cut of the breast, forming rolled breast of lamb; the removal of the bone from the shoulder for cushion roasts or rolled roasts; and neck steaks or ground neck for patties improves these cuts, he said.

He demonstrated all the cuts possible from a lamb, using as a "subject" a lamb which won high award at a recent lamb show. Of great importance to the lamb industry is having the animals in perfect condition before putting them on the market, he said. Poorly conditioned lambs, with the resulting poor flavored meat, has done much to tear down public confidence in lamb meat, he declared.

O. S. Fletcher, county agent, introduced the speaker, the program being in charge of the agricultural committee of the chamber.

MRS. WALEY'S KIN COME TO RESCUE

then pronounced sentence calmly, coldly, without comment.

"I sentence you to 45 years' imprisonment at McNeil Island federal prison," said the judge to Waley.

Attendants led the young man away, his wife gazing after him. Then she was taken from the room, her parents following. The crowd filed out.

PARENTS TO RESCUE

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 21.—(AP)—The family will back Margaret Waley every inch of the way in her battle against charges of kidnaping George Weyerhaeuser," her father, George Thulin, told the United Press today. "If Margaret were guilty—but I know she isn't, mind you—I would want her to suffer full punishment for her crime," Thulin said.

"But Margaret is not to blame. She is a child of circumstances. We are not concerned with what happens to Harmon—we think he tricked Margaret into this—but we are going to do all in our power to help her."

"When I learned Margaret was to be arraigned yesterday, I instructed William Reger, our attorney here, to do what he thought best. I understand he delegated full authority to John F. Dore, a Seattle lawyer, who is acting for her. We haven't any money, and I don't know where we are going to get any. Our friends are poor—most of them are on relief—and we can expect no help from them, but we'll raise the money somehow," he said.

Thulin (pronounced Tuleen) first was informed by a United Press correspondent that the arraignment of his daughter and Waley had been continued until Friday. He was sitting on the porch of his tiny frame home, waiting for the papers to bring him the news from Tacoma, Wash.

"I'm glad they gave the girl more time," he said. "She hasn't had a chance to talk to a lawyer and now I am sure Mr. Dore will help her. I believe the government realizes that Margaret was brought into this kidnaping mess as an innocent victim. Mr. Connelley (E. J. Connelley, chief department of justice agent) and some of the justice agents) and very nice to her and I am certain they will help her when the case comes to trial.

"Those who know Margaret realize that she would have nothing to do with kidnaping. All her life she has been fond of children and I am degree until at least three days after George had been abducted.

"From the very first I told Margaret to tell everything she knew about the case—no matter who it implicated. I know she has done this and I believe the government should consider this when it acts against her.

"Whatever they do to Harmon Waley will right with me. He got my daughter into this. If she hadn't met him, she wouldn't be in all this trouble and probably would still be at home where she belongs."

Lassen Peak Opens Fire With Eruption And 2 Earthquakes

MINERAL, Cal., June 21.—(AP)—Lassen peak, only active volcano in the United States proper, staged a show today by emitting a puff of steam from its crater while two earth shocks were felt simultaneously in the surrounding area.

The steam puff appeared at 9:40 a. m. Pacific standard time. Both needles were knocked off the seismograph at Manzanita lake. Lassen volcanic national park, by the earth shocks, which registered at 9:17 and 9:20 a. m.

Apparently the epicenter of the quakes was on the north side of the peak, but residences and office buildings in Mineral, about 15 miles from the volcano, were shaken.
