SNAPSHOT HINTS FOR AMATEUR CONTESTANTS
Individuality can be shown in your snapshots by taking some of them at odd angles. Such pictures are often much more attractive than conventional, straight-on views.
YOU will be amazed how an odd slant or angle will make an interesting picture of a commonplace scene. Like so many other things we do day after day, we can easily get into a rut in taking pictures. Usually we take just the normal, conventional view—straight at the subject—as if it were a sacred rule of picture-making to do this. It is not at all necessary to take pictures that way every time. Variety is the spice of life photography! Street scenes—the scurrying crowds, the repair gang at work, the traffic jam—are usually more striking if taken from a high level. Parade scenes are effective if the camera is held low, or on the ground, for you will get the effect of feet marching into the camera—this applies, too, in taking pictures of running or trotting races. Swimming pictures are better if the camera is at a high level and you "shoot" almost directly down on the subject. From this angle you get the ripples of the water and the light playing on them. Another out of the ordinary picture is that of action on a toboggan-slide, such as you see at bathing beaches and amusement parks. Get set with your camera at a high level within range of the spot where the tobog-
