IRRIGATION TOUR WILL SPEND DAY IN LANE COUNTY

Nearly an entire day of the two-day Willamette valley irrigation tour will be spent in Lane county this year, it was revealed by a program for the annual tour released Saturday by County Agent O. S. Fletcher. The irrigation survey, the sixth of its kind, has been arranged by Arthur King, extension engineer of Oregon State college. He has been aided by Fletcher and the Lane County Horticulture Society, which is cooperating in the Willamette valley tour in lieu of its annual inspection of the irrigation projects of the county. The affair will start Wednesday morning, August 21.

Members of the party will be in Lane county Wednesday at 10 a. m. when they visit the farm of the Shaffner Brothers on River avenue, one-fourth mile east of the Pacific highway near Santa Clara, where beans and other vegetables are being irrigated by revolving sprinklers and a "skinner" line. Following the inspection of the Shaffner place, the group will be the guests of the Eugene chamber of commerce at a luncheon at the Cafe Del Rey in Eugene.

In the afternoon the touring party will visit the gravity irrigation project being built by the Springfield Land and Water company, which is now delivering water to approximately 1000 acres. Later they will visit James Gardens, on Goodpasture island.

Thursday, the second day of the tour, will be spent in the lower Willamette valley in Linn and Marion counties.

OREGON COAST BRIDGES AS TRAVELLER FINDS THEM!

YOUTHFUL RACERS RARIN' FOR DERBY

f vorites in the derby competition, having handily bested the other entrants in their respective heats Friday. Hutchinson's machine, an all-metal flyer, attained such speed in the first two blocks of the five-block down hill course, that he was forced to apply his brake during the last half of the race. His car is fitted with rubber tires, spoked wheels, water and gasoline tanks and special brakes.

A mammoth costume parade will precede the derby. Boys and girls bedecked as Indians, pioneers, cowboys, clowns, animals, gypsies, Spaniards, bathing beauties, hula dancers, plants, historical characters and other figures, will march through downtown Eugene streets to the derby course on south Charnelton street. Prizes will be awarded for the best-dressed entrant in each dress-up division and each child who enters the parade will be presented with a box of Shredded Wheat biscuits.

The list of prizes to be awarded derby winners continued to grow during the week. The Register-Guard will award cash prizes to the derby winner and the winner in each age division. The winner will get $5; the division champions, $2.50. As the final races will be run between the three division winners, the grand champion will net $7.50. The Morning News Junior Kore will present the derby final winner with a trophy and two tickets to the first University of Oregon home football game. Other prizes, to go to winners in the preliminary heats, include: four boxes of Ritz crackers, donated by the National Biscuit company; a pearl-handled pocket knife, by Babb's Hardware; a flashlight, by Montgomery Ward & Co.; a miner's lantern, by Buster Brown Shoe store; two model airplane sets, by McMorran and Washburne; and sports equipment, by Hendershott's Gun Store. Other awards will be made known later.

In addition to the race competition prizes will be given for the best constructed car, the best looking car, the most unique car and most streamlined car. Judges will be announced later this week.

The registration dead-line is Wednesday, August 21, at 5 p. m., and no entries will be accepted later than that time. To enter, contestants must clip and fill out the registration blank appearing in the Register-Guard for Thursday, August 8, and file it with Derby headquarters on the second floor of the city hall. Those already entered are:

Division 1: Bob Marshall, Warren Bussell, Frank Myers, Tom Warlick, Curtis Leonard, Gene Handy.

Division 2: Kenneth Prince, Carl Nashholm, Sidney Gilstrap, Mike Miles, Roy Kirby, Robert Brakel.

Division 3: Jimmy Donahue, Billy Hutchinson.

KEENEY RECEIVES FINAL TRIBUTES

turned him to office time and again. It is said that at the last election he polled the highest vote ever given for any one in Lane county. This, indeed, is an indication of his worth as a citizen and as a public official."

Speaking of the flowers that Mr. Keeney loved so well and of his beautiful garden, the speaker said:

"Flowers were peculiarly related to this man. Everybody with whom I ever talked regarding his life and his recent death spoke of his beautiful flowers and his love for them. These flowers and his wonderful rock garden, with its little cascade of water tumbling over the rocks, and the beautiful carpet of grass that spread out before it, no doubt inspired his soul and whose soul would not be inspired by such surroundings?

"Every person should have a garden—I do not mean only a flower garden—it may be a garden of literature, it may be a garden of music or it may be a garden of children or of friends. Every person should have a garden to inspire his soul as Ben Keeney's garden inspired his soul. And above all, this garden should bear seed for the garden to be planted over there."

The migration route of thousands of Canada geese was changed by Jack Miner. The birds go out of their way to visit his Kingsville, Ont., farm for the grain which he scatters over the fields for them.

A Refreshing Drink

1 cup sugar
3 lemons
2 oranges
1 pint grape juice
1 qt. of ice water
Bottle of ginger ale

To the juice of 2 oranges and 3 lemons, add 1 cup sugar and dissolve. Add grape juice and just before serving, the ice water and ginger ale.—Mrs. W. A. Hering, 1551 Villard, Eugene.

Lime Cherriee

When making maraschino cherries there is always a superfluous amount of syrup left which may be canned and used for this drink: to a wine glass of this syrup add water enough for to fill glass size of ice tea glass and juice and rind of one lime. If your syrup is medium thick no need of sugar. Lime Cherriee may be made of juice from can of Royal Ann cherries. Syrup would not be thick so one would have to use sugar and almond flavoring as the almond flavor would not be in syrup of canned cherries. Iced of course. Wonderfully refreshing!—Mrs. W. B. Jansen, 1263 Oak Street, Peterson Apts., Eugene.

Grain Manipulator Barred From Mart

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(AP)—The grain futures commission today barred Thomas M. Howell, member of the Chicago board of trade, from trading privileges in all contract markets in the United States beginning Sept. 15.

Howell was found guilty of having violated the grain futures act by attempting to manipulate the price of grain and by concealing his transactions in the market by making false reports and by failing to report.
