I SAW—

An item in a magazine a few months ago which I think is one of the best ever written about Will Rogers. He was invited to a formal party in Hollywood which he attended. He spent the entire evening amusing the guests. The next morning his hostess received a bill with a note attached "Since my wife was not invited to your party, I suppose I was invited as a professional entertainer." He received a check by return mail.—Mrs. H. W. S.

Seeing America First—

No. 16
By E. H. HALL

All the way through Virginia, from one end of the state to the other, they have placed along their highways, historical markers showing the location of important points in their early history as well as the Revolutionary and Civil wars. Here we find an old mill built in 1702 on land deeded from the king but title to which has never passed out of the hands of the original family. Then we see where Lafayette brought in reinforcements during a winter's campaign. Again, it is the location of confederate troops during one of the Civil war engagements. The state is literally full of such points and each marker is like a page of history spread out before you with the actual country mentioned forming a panorama about it. It is a wonderful idea and the citizens of Virginia who conceived a work of this kind should be commended for their efforts.

Richmond is an old town. The original capitol of the confederacy was located here, and the building is well preserved and open to the public. We were surprised to find that Jefferson Davis and family lived right in the capitol building, itself surrounded by offices, legislators, and the hub-bub of government.

St. Johns church in Richmond has certainly had a notable career. First built in 1741, it has the distinction of having the oldest continuous congregation in the U. S. It was in this building that Patrick Henry in 1775 made his famous speech, and the pew from which he made it is still there in its exact location. Both George Washington and Thomas Jefferson attended that meeting and heard the speech. These facts are sufficient in themselves to make any spot famous, but in addition we find that George Wythe, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence is buried in the church yard, as well as the mother of Edgar Allen Poe, and one of the early governors of Virginia. History in Virginia comes at the visitor in big bundles, and they pack so many famous characters into such small places it almost seems incredible.

Unity, Lowell to Vote on Union Play

Another election will be held in the near future to decide the question of consolidating the Lowell and Unity school districts, according to L. C. Moffitt, county superintendent. Mrs. Guy Moore of the Unity district was in Eugene Wednesday with petitions to the county boundary board, asking that an election date be set, and action is expected to be taken in a short time. At an election last month the proposal to consolidate was lost by a vote of 41 to 16 in the Unity district but won in the Lowell district 27 to 14. The petitioners believe that more voters will turn out at a second election and that the proposal may carry.

County Wants WPA Money For Road

Plans are being made by the county court to make application for WPA funds to build a three-mile section of the Springfield-Cottage Grove road on the east side of the Coast Fork in Delight valley. The matter of changing the route from a market road to a county road is now in the hands of the state highway commission with the expectation of favorable action soon. State roads cannot come under WPA projects.

News of Halsey

HALSEY, Aug. 21.—(Special)—Miss Jean McMahan, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. McMahan, returned to her home here Saturday after a two weeks' visit with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. H. Ramsdell and family at Westfir.

Miss Roburta Vannice was expected home Tuesday from her extended trip to New Jersey where she has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Theodore Mitzner and family for several weeks. She is returning home by way of San Francisco.

Miss Elwyn Mischler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mischler of Harrisburg, is spending this week with her aunt, Mrs. Edna Kirk and husband.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Harding and two children Margaret and Frank are enjoying a vacation trip to visit former friends and relatives in Idaho. They have been gone a week yesterday.

J. W. Rector, veteran cabinet maker, is on the shelf, so to speak, due to a knot from a piece of lumber that he was buzz-sawing flying and striking him over one eye lacerating it severely and requiring three stitches to close it. The accident happened last Friday.

Professor Lyman W. Patton and three daughters, Frances Louise, Mary and Mildred Ann, visited briefly at the B. M. Bond home Monday as they were en route to their home at Marshfield from The Dalles where they had attended the American Legion convention and in Portland where they spent yesterday visiting Mrs. Patton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Irving and other relatives. Mrs. Irving cared for the three girls while they were in The Dalles. They were accompanied home from Jefferson by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Burna and two sons Milly and Gary, former neighbors at Jefferson where the Patton family resided before going to Marshfield.

Ralph Dannen is recovering now and is expected to return home from the Albany general hospital, where he has been confined with a badly cut knee for nearly three months, in about a week.

Rev. Franklin Smith and his sister-in-law, Miss Lola Blakspey who is visiting at the Smith home went up to Wiley Creek on a fishing trip Friday.

Ray Barley and his assistants have been doing some interior painting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. Taylor.

George McNeil has recuperated satisfactorily from his recent appendix operation to be brought to his home west of town from the Corvallis hosiptal last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Marsh and five-months-old son, George, of Prosser, Wash., stopped in Halsey early Friday morning to have breakfast with former friends Mayor and Mrs. W. H. Belideau. They were en route home from Los Angeles, Cal. Mr. Marsh is superintendent of schools at Prosser.

Miss Glendola Richards returned to her home Sunday from Coquille where she spent most of the week as a delegate from the Lake Creek Methodist church, south, to the church assembly.

Mrs. Effie Ledgerwood of Riddle spent several days last week in the Lake Creek neighborhood visiting old friends and neighbors and transacting business relative to her farm interests in that community.

Carl Williams is in Portland visiting friends and relatives. Last week he visited his sister, Mrs. Helen Harper and husband at Scappoose. He and a boy friend enjoyed a yacht trip up the Columbia river while in Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ardry accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Cummings of the Lake Creek neighborhood enjoyed a two-day motor trip over the McKenzie pass and back the Santiam Pass Saturday and Sunday. They spent the night at Redmond.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Goltra of Albany spent Sunday here visiting Mr. Goltra's father, A. M. Goltra and wife.

Elbert Isom began a repainting of the E. C. Miller barber shop Monday morning.

Miss Beverly Isom came home from her playground work in Albany Saturday to spend the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Isom and family and attend the Christian Endeavor party held at their home Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Isom motored to Salem Sunday to attend a reunion of the Utterback families. Mrs. Isom is a Utterback descendant.

Charles Gansle and M. E. Gardner are reshingling the country home of Mrs. Vera Isom south of town.

Planners to Meet; Martin New Member

The Lane county planning commission will hold its regular meeting Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock at the chamber of commerce to hear reports from the various committees in charge of the development of work on the Long Tom and at other points in the county. The Long Tom drainage project has advanced to the stage where a preliminary survey is necessary in order to proceed with plans, said O. S. Fletcher, member of the planning commission and one of the committee in charge of the reclamation project. A report on the possibilities of such a survey will be made.

A. Ray Martin, in charge of the Eugene office of the government reemployment service, was early Wednesday informed of his appointment to the planning commission. He will attend his first meeting Wednesday night.
