Eugene Pageant, Store Written Up
Eugene and its pioneer pageant, "The Oregon Trail," given last summer, are given a lengthy writeup in the July-August issue of the Pittsburgh Plate Products magazine, published in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Eugene Pageant, Store Written Up
Waldorf Paint store of Eugene is used as the subject of the article, three large pictures in the magazine spread being given over to the pioneer displays in the store windows and one the store front last summer. In one of the pictures, Louis Waldorf, proprietor of the store, is shown standing in the doorway, attired in his pioneer garb.

Eugene Pageant, Store Written Up
The article has for its title, "Progress of Paint Along the Sunset Trail," with a sub-head on "An Impressive Window Display." Considerable space is given in writing about the pageant and the original display arranged by the Waldorf paint store.
