the chairmanship. On the first ballot he received 18 votes, Stewart 10, and Warlick 6, but afterward the question was brought up as to whether or not the election was legal inasmuch as Ludford failed to receive a majority of all votes cast. It has been the custom, it is pointed out, to declare the man receiving the highest vote elected, but some of the members of the committee thought the majority vote rule should prevail and the second ballot was taken later in the meeting after more members had arrived, with the result that Ludford received 25 and Stewart 21, after Warlick had withdrawn.

Mrs. Dale received 28 votes as against 16 for Mrs. Vera Todd Crowe, for vice-chairman, which is an honorary position created last year.

Dr. Fox was elected state committee member by a vote of 24 while Dr. Tarr received 14 and D. W. Crites of Eugene 8. Dr. Tarr was then unanimously elected congressional committee member.

Harry Johnson, who is prominent in affairs of the United Workers League offered a motion that the committee go on record as favoring a higher wage to be paid county workers and that the county court be asked to raise the minimum wage from 25 cents an hour to the minimum paid labor by private employers. This precipitated considerable discussion, some of the members declaring it was not the business of the committee to dictate to the court. County Commissioner Walter J. Holland, who was present, said he believed the wages were too low and he was in favor of some increase. The motion carried by a small majority.

has never supplied the unemployment relief fund with the $1,800,000 annual maximum recently set by Governor Martin, the United Press learned today from records in Secretary of State Snell's office.

From April, 1934, to date, the commission has transferred $2,959,380.69 of its profits to relief.

The governor's maximum for two years would be $3,600,000 or about $944,000 more than the commission has been able to supply.

In the past six months, however, the commission has turned over more than it did all last year.

The liquor commission gave relief $902,947.47 in 1934, then $1,025,506.61 last year and $1,050,926.61 so far this year. The $2,959,380.69 combined total fell short, however, of the $2,829,517.06 actual cost of relief and administration.

day passed the Guffey-Vinson price-fixing substitute for the outlawed Guffey coal control bill.

The bill now goes to the senate, where leaders have predicted it will be acted upon before the end of this week. It already has been approved by the senate interstate commerce committee.

The most important of the new amendments adopted by the house was one limiting the life of the bill to two years instead of four.

The vote came after debate in which the measure was denounced as an obnoxious form of price-fixing and defended as essential to stabilization of the soft coal industry.

It was urged by the United Mine Workers and some coal operators in congressional hearings.

WAGNER BILL O.K'D.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—The senate today passed the Wagner bill providing $150,000,000 in the next year for a beginning on the vast problem of slum clearance and low cost housing in America.

The vote was 42 to 24. It came after a bitter attack by Sen. Walter F. George, D., Ga., on what he characterized as the socialistic tendencies and thoughtless spending habits of congress. He said he believed the Wagner bill had a good purpose, but charged that senators had not given the subject due consideration.

The dual objective of the measure, which now goes to the house, was set forth as safer and more sanitary dwellings for families in the "very low income group" and to encourage the employment of capital and labor in the construction industry.

"Unfair Practices" Bring Contract End

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes today cancelled a $40,000 contract with the Jones and Laughlin Steel company of Pittsburgh because, he said, it had been "found guilty by the national labor relations board of unfair labor practices."

Jones and Laughlin, with three other companies, had submitted identical bids for sheet steel piling in constructing the Imperial dam on the All American canal in New Mexico.

MONTHLY RECEIPTS SHOWN

First turnover was made in April, 1934, two months after the first liquor stores opened. The amount was $44,088.83. Then in July, 1934, $27,12 was transferred. In October, $250,000 was the payment. November, it rose to $250,434.02, and in December dropped back to $250,000. January, 1935, brought another $250,000 as Julius L. Meier, stepping out as governor, cleaned up all outstanding certificates of indebtedness.

Getting back on a cash basis and taking advantage of liquor discounts, the commission did not give relief any more money until June, when $150,000.67 was transferred. July brought $100,833.33, and August, $201,577.78. December was the next turnover, $322,103.83, biggest of any month so far.

This year, however, the story has been different. Money has been supplied every month for relief. The books show: January, $185,713.16; February, $200,000; March, $104,055.55; April, $167,157.90; May, $124,000; June $250,000.

MORIBID CURIOSITY SAID CRIME CAUSE

PORTLAND, Ore., June 16.—(AP)—Mayor Joseph K. Carson told police officers, in convention here today, that the grip of racketeers and other underworld characters was due to "the morbid curiosity and maudlin sentimentality on the part of the so-called intellectuals and the super-criminal." But the United States department of justice and other law-enforcing agencies have met the big challenge from kidnapers, and restored public confidence in police, he told members of the Northwest Association of Sheriffs and Police.

GOVERNMENT MAY APPEAL DECISION

NEW ORLEANS, June 16.—(AP)—Federal attorneys expected an order from Washington today to appeal to the U. S. supreme court against a circuit court of appeals decision that the Wagner-Connelly labor relations act is unconstitutional. The circuit court ruling, issued yesterday in a dispute between the Jones and Laughlin Steel company and the national labor relations board, completed court destruction of all the New Dealer's attempts to regulate employer-employee relations by law.

MORRIS AND DODDS NAMED TO SCHOOL BOARD POSITIONS

tures in our school system make for its success as the compulsory insurance features in the Townsend plan will make for its success."

The election board's action in terming invalid 547 votes cast for Mr. Wunn and 545 for Dr. Brooks did not affect the order of the final standings as shown by the complete tabulation in one of the city's most holy contested elections.

Had the board not thrown out as illegal ballots on which the names of Mr. Wunn and Dr. Brooks appeared in print on gummed stickers used by the Townsend forces in lieu of the usual writing in of the name the results would have stood:

Morris 644; Dodds 633; Wunn 629; Brooks 628.

The strength from the Townsend forces came as an unexpected development, as only Dr. Morris and Mr. Dodds had been nominated through the regular channels by nominating petitions and a quiet election had been forecast.

POLLS ARE CROWDED

Hectic scenes marked the voting at the polls in the late hours Monday evening as anti-Townsend factions rallied to the polls when the Wunn-Brooks boom became known.

Breakdown of the total tabulations of 1275 ballots revealed that the greatest Townsend strength was found in precincts which voted at Lincoln and Frances Willard schools. Votes by precincts were as follows:

Washington—Morris, 87; Dodds, 88; Wunn, 9 write-in, and 79 invalid votes; Brooks, 9 write-in, and 79 invalid votes.

Roosevelt—Morris, 223; Dodds, 227; Wunn, 7 write-in, and 53 invalid; Brooks, 7 write-in, and 52 invalid.

Lincoln—Morris, 82; Dodds, 70; Wunn, 40 write-in, and 192 invalid; Brooks, 39 write-in, and 195 invalid; Frances Willard—Morris, 252; Dodds, 243; Wunn, 39 write-in, and 223 invalid; Brooks, 23 write-in, and 219 invalid.

At the meeting of the board, Fred Stickle was named chairman of the new board and Dr. Morris was again sworn in. Mr. Dodds was out of the city at the time and did not assume his duties.

Mrs. E. A. Lundy was chosen by the board to serve her ninth year as clerk of the district.

DORRIS SEES NEW OPTIMISM IN GOP

vice presidency, Dorris emphasized the fact that Steiwer at no time sought any job, but that he would have been willing to accept the nomination for presidency had Landon lost out. However, he would not have accepted the nomination for vice presidency for the reason that after being mentioned in high quarters for presidency, it would have been inadvisable to allow his stock to drop to a lower point.

Nomination in Bag
"However, there was never any great doubt as to the nomination of Landon, especially since the so-called 'top Landon' movement was absolutely without organization," Dorris said. "With the great build-up accorded Landon by the Hearst papers, his name was heard everywhere and he appeared to be the man most likely to please a wide variety of interests."

Dorris declared that the republican "old guard" definitely was out of the picture, on the basis of the national convention activity, and that it was the younger element in the saddle at the present time.

"Senator Steiwer could have had no more trouble giving his keynote address had the presiding officer stepped up to him and struck him over the head with his gavel," observed Dorris. "To begin with, the loud speaker arrangement was bad. First the senator's voice would boom so loud you couldn't distinguish what he was saying, then it would fade away to nothing. For a minute or more, at several points, no one in the hall could hear him at all. It was necessary for someone to stop him while the mechanism was adjusted."

Wire is Cut
"Then apparently a wire was cut and the public address system went out entirely. That took another minute or two to repair. Through all this interruption Steiwer betrayed no impatience or petulance, but continued serene and calm till he was allowed to proceed. Virtually through his speech the battery of cameras just in front of the platform was in action, exploding flashes, making the scene look like a flash of summer lightning. Huge carbon spotlights were brought into the speaker's line of vision, heat wilted his hair and brought perspiration to his forehead. "Just as everything seemed to be dropping a careless photographer dropped a flashlight bulb which struck Steiwer's feet, the sound reverberating through the hall. Steiwer seemed least concerned anyone on the platform and about a hundred of persons came to his quarters, congratulating him on his talk and offering him support."
