

WILLIAM LEMKE IS THIRD PARTY TICKET LEADER

ago, this nation was at the crossroads. The issue of human slavery confronted our people. A decision as to whether the nation should remain half free or half slave, had to be made. Political parties of that day temporized with the issue of human slavery and brought about the Civil War, and incidentally the formation of a new party headed by Abraham Lincoln, dedicated to the preservation of the union and the elimination of human slavery.

"Today we are again at the crossroads and the issue again is slavery—economic slavery. Today we are in the midst of another war—a war against a man-made depression. It has reduced our nation to the lowest economic state in its history, leaving a trail of suffering, starvation and want in a land of plenty. Two major parties have had ample opportunity to seriously attempt to remedy the economic ills of our nation. They have been found wanting.

"Only One Solution. That is through the formation of a new party which I am launching today, to be known as the Union party of the United States."

Lemke, a member of congress for the past four years from North Dakota, has been a lifelong leader of western agrarian progressives.

He was a prominent figure in the North Dakota non-partisan league and still lists himself as a "nonpartisan, elected on the republican ticket."

Born at Albuq, Minn., Aug. 13, 1878, Lemke attended the University of North Dakota, Georgetown university and Yale.

He joined the nonpartisan movement as a member of the national executive committee of the league from 1917 to 1921 and was chairman of the republican state central committee from 1916 to 1920. He served as North Dakota's attorney general during 1921 and had charge of drafting the revolutionary state laws which set up North Dakota's state industrial program.

CHAMP TO DECIDE

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend, head of Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., said today a decision on whether his organization would support Rep. William Lemke of North Dakota for the presidency on a third party ticket would be decided at the Townsend convention at Cleveland in July.

"Personally, I have never talked with Mr. Lemke and I do not know what he proposes," the elderly proponent of old age pensions said when informed the congressman had announced his candidacy on a third party ticket.

"Our policy will be determined at our Cleveland convention."

Dr. Townsend said he was sure the question of Lemke's candidacy would come up for consideration at the convention.

Several days ago the Rev. Gerald Smith, former supporter of the late Senator Huey Long and a new supporter of Dr. Townsend, announced there was a "loose working agreement" between the Townsends, Long's "Share-the-Wealth" movement, Father Charles Coughlin's forces and the liberal feeling headed by Lemke.

DR. HARMS MAY BE CALLED BY BAPTISTS

Dr. and Mrs. Harms have three children of high school age and one in grade school. He called Dr. Harms would not be here until Sept. 1.

The Eugene First Baptist church has been without a permanent pastor since Rev. Bryant Wilson left for Santa Barbara to accept the call to the First church there. Dr. John Snape of California has acted as interim pastor for the past few months.

On the pulpit committee for the fund raising are Truman A. Chase, chairman; M. E. Irish, Mrs. C. M. Wood, Mrs. Earl McNeill, R. S. Shelby, Charles Devereaux, Mrs. Cal M. Tessa, E. B. McKinney, Miss Frances Taylor, Willis Finley, O. A. Houghlin.

Professors' Wife, Tots Are Strangled

PITTSBURGH, June 19.—(AP)—Strangulation caused the death of Eleanor Feely, 28, wife of a Pittsburgh university professor, and her two children, Robert, 5, and Janice, 3, the autopsy revealed today.

Wounds about the temples of the three victims, ostensibly inflicted by an ice pick found on the floor of their home, near the bodies, were not sufficient to have caused death, the report of Dr. T. R. Helmhold, who performed the autopsy said.

LANDON'S LIFE STORY

sity football, and the injured shoulder prevented even trying out. But he retained a keen interest in football which survives today.

He was also active in campus politics, and anyone who has mixed in this variety of political activity will tell you that it differs from the real thing only in scope. It was here that Alf got the nickname of "Foxy," which he always disliked. And it was because he disliked it that Kansas democrats revived the nickname in later state campaigns.

NOT only is politics breathed in the very air by all true Kansans, but Alf had a taste of it at home even before reaching Kansas soil. Back in Ohio, the elder Landon had served as county committeeman. Later he was county chairman in Kansas. He never ran for any office; political football, and the injured shoulder prevented even trying out. But he retained a keen interest in football which survives today.

Alfred M. Landon, undergraduate, put his fraternity at University of Kansas on a budget.

was a hobby with him, just as though he had been a native Kansan. It was no coincidence that he took his young 15-year-old son with him to sit in on the democratic national convention as a spectator when they took that trip to St. Louis in 1904.

Alf Landon went on to the law school. He was a serious student, but not serious to a point of excluding all fun he liked dances, and there was at least one incident when he was called before the governing board of the university in relation to the activities of a festive society known as T. N. E.

Older university men will recall that T. N. E. was not exactly a sewing circle. A beer keg figured not only in its badge but was a keystone of the society's activities. The boys promised to keep the society's activities within bounds, and William Allen White, who was one of the board of governors, records that "while Alfred was in school they kept their promise."

THE young Landon was intellectually serious as shown by the fact that he established a custom of inviting interesting visitors to Lawrence to visit the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity so the students could meet them and hear their informal talks.

Young Landon was chosen for an honorary legal fraternity in the law school, Phi Delta Phi, though it was known that he did not intend to practice law.

To the considerable disappointment of his father and other male relatives, the young law graduate turned to banking instead of law. To this day, the elder Landon is a trifle disappointed with his son's choice. At least he was until political success wiped away the sting.

BEHIND THE SCENES OF THE STATE BANK OF INDEPENDENCE, KAN.

Bank of Commerce and the First National Bank of Independence, Kan., the young member of the bar talked over the bank's books. In three years he had risen to a salary of $75 a month. It was not a stimulating prospect.

Further, there was the smell of oil in the air at Independence, and there was the example of his own father's success in the oil prospecting business. He had had a taste of the oilfields working during summer vacations.

Young Alfred Landon laid down his pen, hung up his eyeglasses, and put on the leath boots of the oilfields.

OREGON EDITORS OPEN CONFERENCE IN GRANTS PASS

GRANTS PASS, June 19.—(AP)—With their number being augmented during the day, 80 newspapermen opened the 49th annual session of the Oregon State Editorial association this morning.

Advertising, the financial backbone of newspapers, received attention this morning, and faced a challenging address from C. D. Bean, Medford merchant, with the statement "Advertising does not pay."

He amended it to describe haphazard advertising as the variety which does not pay, while the one kind which does bring returns, he said, "is planned advertising in a strong newspaper of known circulation."

George Aiken of the Ontario Argus, member of the state game commission, urged editors to support a program for wild life development and conservation.

Hunter Speaks. Dr. Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of the Oregon system of higher education, featured the afternoon program in his first formal appearance before Oregon newspapermen.

Tonight the visitors will be guests of the Grants Pass chamber of commerce at a city park picnic.

Merle R. Chessman of Astoria, president, appointed committees as scheduled previously, with the following changes:

W. E. Tyler of the Oregon City Enterprise and Herb Grey of the Medford Mail Tribune on the nominating committee; Earle D. Richardson of The Dallas Itemizer-Observator, chairman of the resolutions committee and Henry Fowler of the Bend Bulletin member. Reports will be made Saturday.

Chamber Approves 6 New Amendments

The Eugene chamber of commerce adopted six proposed amendments to its constitution and by-laws at the regular weekly forum luncheon here Friday.

First Lindbergh Law Victim Dies

McALESTER, Okla., June 19.—(AP)—Arthur Goetz, 27, convicted kidnaper of two Texas officers, was hanged at the state prison here today—the first person executed for kidnaping under the federal Lindbergh law.

The case was carried through all channels of appeal, twice reaching the U. S. supreme court, and Goetz was hopeful until late yesterday when President Roosevelt declined to intercede for the second time.

Shots Are Reported In China Civil War

CANTON, China, June 19.—(AP)—Reports reaching here tonight said Kwangsi (southern provincial) and Nanking (central government) outposts in Hunan province had exchanged shots last Wednesday. It was believed there had been no major clash.

Foreign missionaries in the area covered by the Kwangsi and Nanking troop movements were believed to have evacuated to Changsha.

NEW STAR FOUND

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 19.—(AP)—Astronomers in many parts of the world reported the discovery today of a nova, or new star, which has flared into sudden brilliance in interstellar space.

LANDON CORRALS EXPERT ADVISERS AS RACE STARTS

TOPEKA, Kan., June 19.—(AP)—Gov. Alf M. Landon today named the first members of the staff of expert advisers who will shape his speeches during the fall campaign.

Landon announced that Charles P. Taft, Cincinnati, O., son of the late president and chief justice of the supreme court, William Howard Taft, will arrive today for a series of conferences and will remain with Landon during most of the campaign.

Taft is a brother of Robert P. Taft, who was Ohio's favorite son candidate for the republican presidential nomination and who was discussed as a prospective vice presidential candidate when the nomination of Landon became certain.

Taft is Authority. Taft, Landon said, is an authority on municipal government, assisted in the famed city manager plan for Cincinnati and probably will help write Landon's speeches during the campaign.

Landon also announced that Ralph W. Robey, expert economist on the faculty of Columbia university, also will arrive soon to assist in preparation of campaign speeches and policies.

A third member of Landon's staff advisers is Earl H. Taylor, associate editor of the Country Gentleman, noted farm publication, who is considered an expert on agricultural problems.

The governor specifically denied that he was assembling a "brain trust." He repeated his previous declaration that he would seek expert advice on important problems, but was opposed to making administrators out of research workers, a charge which he has leveled at the New Deal administration.

OREGON RECEIVES HIGHWAY FUNDS

SALEM, Ore., June 19.—(AP)—The federal bureau of public roads informed the state highway commission officially today that Oregon has been allocated $2,045,078 in federal aid funds for the fiscal year 1937.

The money will be made available out of $125,000,000 appropriated by the Hayden-Cartwright act passed by the present congress. The 1937 fiscal year will start July 1.

No public lands highway money will be available until next year, however. Oregon was to have received $175,000. The state expects, though, to get $350,000 for the fiscal year 1938, and will use it on the Idaho-Oregon-Nevada (I-O-N cutoff) inspected last week by Governor Martin and the highway commission. The Warm Springs cutoff and sections of high-

DORENA VOTES OUT ITS HIGH SCHOOL

The citizens of Dorena school district, No. 93, Monday voted to abolish the high school in the district and to transport the students to the Cottage Grove high school in the future, according to unofficial word received at the office of L. C. Moffitt, county school superintendent.

There has been a great deal of dissatisfaction on the part of some of the residents of the district with the high school there for a number of years past. There has been only one teacher and this year there were only 14 students. It was contended by many that the proper instruction could not be had in such a small school.

A contract will be entered into with somebody to transport the students from Dorena and vicinity to Cottage Grove by bus, beginning with the next school year in September.

Veterans Turn in $179,975 in Bonds

Bonus bonds totaling $179,975 had been certified and turned back to postal officials here for transmittal to Portland by 337 Lane county World War veterans at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, announced Postmaster F. L. Armitage, after the mid-day check.

On Thursday 212 Lane county veterans went through the certification procedure at the First National bank turned in 2002 bonds totaling $104,000.

county court. Gore's claim is against Jackson county alone but it was thought he might try to collect from all the counties. He is said to be trying to collect $80,000 from Jackson county.

The question of flood control sponsorship in the Willamette valley was discussed by delegations from the valley and while no official action was taken, it was the consensus of opinion that the counties could not afford to sponsor government projects under the present plan of congress, which provides that the counties or some other political subdivision sponsor local projects and maintain revetments or other works aside from providing right of way.

Mr. Armitage said Friday expected the checks would be in from Portland very soon. He mentioned that the bank would remain open on Saturday if the demand for it at that time made it necessary to keep that long. The bank will be open for veterans until 8 Friday night.
