

THREE "ISMS" DISCUSSED FOR KIWANIS GROUP

Communism, fascism, and socialism and something of their relation to American life were discussed for the Kiwanis club Monday, by Dr. E. A. Taylor of Ohio, who is on the University of Oregon summer session faculty.

For nearly two decades now America has been flooded with much pure and unadulterated "bunk," the speaker said. Communism, he said, is not at all likely to come to the United States. For one thing, the aims and the realization of communism greatly differ, he said, going on to point out Russia as an example. In discussing communism as it is found in Russia and its relation to America, Dr. Taylor said before the revolution, 95 per cent of Russia's population was the oppressed class, only seven per cent in the aristocracy. In the United States the so-called middle class barely reaches 30 per cent. Russia was further impoverished in its population by losing seven million men on the field of battle; and the country had gone through a long period of despotism. Russia, furthermore, did not have the long training and experience with democracy that America has had. Then, too, the average worker in America is not class conscious, Dr. Taylor said.

In considering these different "isms," it is pertinent to consider the two contrasting philosophies and ask if a state can become socialized only through violence or without violence, the speaker said. Norman Thomas in America, and leaders of socialism in Great Britain, Norway, etc., say it can be accomplished without violence.

Taking up a comment or two on socialism, the speaker declared socialism is something intellectual and opposed to humanity or emotionalism. If it should come about that socialism came into being here it would trend either to the left or to the right, because one of the tragedies of socialism is that it can not function adequately, the speaker pointed out.

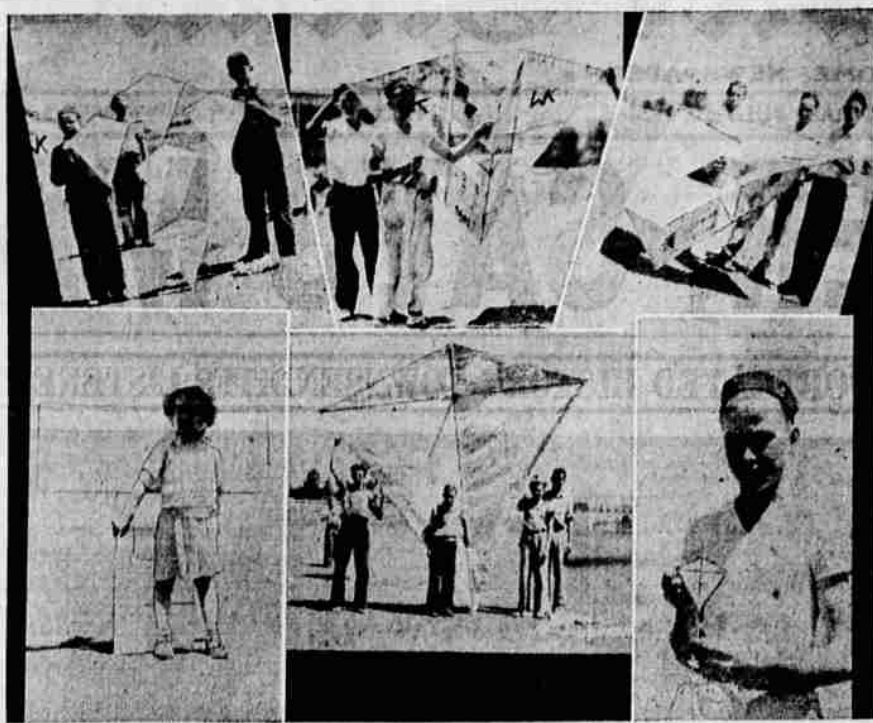

Fascism is a movement of the middle class. It, too, can be classed as an important "ism," since its followers act first, then think, he said.

Looking things over there is a question to consider: Can there be social planning under capitalism, Dr. Taylor stated. If there can not, then capitalism is doomed, he added. He expressed his opinion, pointing out he was no authority, that the United States would remain capitalistic but that there would be a gradual socialization.

Following his talk, several of the members asked questions for an informal discussion.

Judge G. F. Skipworth and A. E. Roberts were named delegates for the district Kiwanis meeting to be in Seattle; and Roy G. Bryson and R. Claude Gray were named alternates. Guests at the luncheon included Eugene O. Moran, Lebanon, former Eugenean; Ray McCormack of Bend, and George D. Shipley of Portland, formerly of Oklahoma City.

LEMKE APPROVES IDEA OF PENSIONS; CONVENTION ENDS

yesterday, on a hastily constructed platform, urged his followers to support members of congress pledged to the Townsend platform.

"They are your name," said the gaudy pension chief. "I'm going after bigger meat." Lemke, at the same time, put himself "four squares" behind the doctor "in the the great fight he is making on behalf of the citizens of our country."

The five days of speech-making, singing and vehement cheering included these highlights:

A fusion of Dr. Townsend, Father Coughlin, and Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith to speak together for the candidacy of Lemke. Both Father Coughlin, National Union for Social Justice leader, and Smith, avowed heir to the Share-the-Wealth club following, sharply assailed the Roosevelt administration.

Difference Still Unsettled

A difference between the doctor and Gomer Smith of Oklahoma, vice-president and board member, which remains unsettled with Dr. Townsend continuing to demand Gomer's ouster. The Oklahoma, a defender of the Roosevelt administration, left for New York late last night and said he would confer with James A. Farley, democratic party national chairman.

The stir caused Saturday by the announcement of Theodore G. Nelson, Salem delegate, that he was quitting the convention in disgust, brought an assertion from Dr. Ralph J. Shaddock, leader of the Oregon group, that Nelson acted singly and other members of the delegation refused to join him.

A suit filed by Rev. A. J. Wright, former director, demanded removal of all officers of the Townsend movement, an accounting of funds and appointment of a receiver. Delegates raised an announced defense fund of $13,637 Saturday and added to the total yesterday. The complete amount is not announced.

Resolution Tabled

Tabling of a resolution to turn board electing power over to the "citizens maximal," an advisory group of 50 members elected by states and territories. The resolution would have curbed the power of the movement's founder considerably.

A declaration Saturday by Norman Thomas, socialist party presidential nominee, that the Townsend plan was not feasible, drew loud boos. Thomas and Lemke were the only presidential candidates to speak.

As the delegates yesterday listened to Dr. Townsend, Lemke and the Rev. Gerald Smith, who renewed his attacks on the Roosevelt administration, Gomer Smith made a radio address charging that the convention "generated into a political circus to the great interest and gratification of its enemies."

"Coughlin Like Bride"

Referring to Father Coughlin's entrance to the convention hall last week, Gomer Smith said "down the middle aisle he came like a bride, with Gerald Smith on one side and Dr. Townsend on the other. The ora-let company, and Barney Clark of the Register-Guard, will check brakes, steering gear, axles, wheels and frames for flaws and weak points, insuring a field of fast, safe cars. Drivers will be given trial runs over the entire course and watched carefully in order to see that no reckless or incompetent pilots get into the race. No time trial will be scheduled, the sole purpose of the Saturday event being the qualifying of cars and drivers for the big race.

Saturday will be the only day on which cars will be inspected. No entry which is not licensed during the morning trials will be allowed to take part in the race on August 1st. Every soap box racer must carry a license card, furnished at the time of registration, in order to compete in the local semi-finals. No driver who has not brought a parent or guardian to the Silva Chevrolet headquarters will be permitted to attempt to qualify his car in the Saturday trials.

Out-of-town competitors who must bring their cars in for the trials can store them at the Silva Chevrolet showroom during the week if they wish, and thus escape the necessity of transporting them back and forth twice. All contestants are requested to have their cars at the top of the Charnelton street hill as soon after 8 o'clock as possible, in order to facilitate the work of the technical committee. Since some 40 or more entries are expected, the five members of the committee will be put to it to get through their inspections in time even if things go off without any delay.

NO P. U. C. LICENSE BRINGS FINES TO 2

Two Lane county men were fined in the Eugene justice court Monday on charges of failure to have no public utilities commission license for their motor vehicles. Justice of the Peace Whitten Swafford assessed Sam Lewis and Calvin Rose $5 and costs each for their failure to obtain the license.

Vernon Love was fined $10 and costs for fishing in a closed stream. The charge that he was fishing in French Pete creek, a tributary of the South fork of the McKenzie river.

H. C. Duke was fined $10 and costs for being drunk in the Southern Pacific depot and sentence was suspended on condition that he leave the city.

Jack Ramos Burrell was sentenced to serve 30 days for larceny but sentence was suspended when he agreed to leave the county at once. He was accused of stealing some clothing and a pipe from G. W. Bodley.

LONG-TERM CREDIT POLICY IS SCORED

Practically all the furniture dealers of Eugene attended the annual convention of retail furniture dealers of Oregon in Portland Saturday.

The long-term credit practice of furniture dealers was the theme of the convention and this was the topic of an address by William B. Dayton, Portland attorney, who told dealers that to continue the practice of extending credit longer than a year meant bankruptcy.

Acting from their own reasoning and experience and following the attorney's address the dealers adopted a resolution, the only one adopted at the convention, declaring it economically unsound for dealers in furniture and allied lines to continue the long-term credit policy.

J. King Bryson, managing director of the association, said he believed a ban on the long-term credit system would receive immediate approval and cooperation of all Oregon dealers and that the idea would spread to other states.

at Gibraltar. He stated the broadcast ended: "Long live Spain! Long live the army!"

Trucks Haul Dead

This same correspondent reported the number of dead in La Linea, near Gibraltar, was so great that authorities were collecting the bodies in trucks for mass burial.

Spanish military planes from Africa were reported as continually passing over Gibraltar on the way to the interior of Spain. There was a general rush of refugees to Gibraltar from La Linea because of fears that rebel fliers would bomb syndicalists and communists there who were standing off rebel forces.

In Gibraltar it was reported that the Spanish city of Malaga was in flames. Hundreds of refugees were streaming in hourly to Gibraltar with 7,000 arrived by mid-afternoon.

The British destroyer Shamrock was ordered to proceed at full speed to Malaga.

The Spanish government, summing up the situation shortly after noon, stated "except for Valladolid and Zaragoza, the rebellion has been broken completely or almost completely dominated" on the peninsula.

The official announcement stated Gen. Francisco Franco, leader of the rebellion, had fled from southern Spain by seaplane, apparently leaving his forces.

NOT TOWARD MONARCHY

(Copyright, 1936, by The Associated Press)

MARIENBAD, Czechoslovakia, July 20.—Former King Alfonso of Spain tonight authorized the Associated Press to say he does not consider the Spanish revolt to be a movement toward restoration of the Bourbon monarchy.

tion was terrific, the audience was aroused to an emotional pitch equalled only in a good old fashioned revival in the Deep South.

"He (Father Coughlin levelled his vituperous tongue at the person of the president, going so far in the heat of his wrath and semi-nakedness as to call the president a double-crosser and a liar. No president should ever be permitted to be the subject of such vilification," Gomer said.

Meanwhile, John B. Kiefer of Chicago, mid-western regional organizer, announced that he would present his resignation from the board of directors at a board meeting scheduled today. While Kiefer declined comment, an informed source said he was displeased when control of the pension movement was not turned over to the board.

Smith Is Proud

Gerald Smith told the rally "I am proud to appear on the same platform with the man for whom your leader, Dr. Francis E. Townsend, and Gerald Smith are going to vote for president."

The name of the late Senator Huey P. Long was repeatedly mentioned by Smith, Sheridan Downey, Dr. Townsend's counsel, and once or twice by Lemke.

Committees Check Work Sheets Filed By Lane Farmers

The Cottage Grove, coast section and Pleasant Hill community committees of the agricultural conservation administration met at the office of County Agent Fletcher Monday to check the work sheets filed by farmers in those communities. These committees check on the productivity rating of the lands of the farmers who have filed and check on any errors that might have crept in. After the community committees are through the work is reviewed by the county committee.

The committees have been working since July 9 and those from Lorne, Elmira and Blachly have already finished. The Eugene-Irving-Junction City committee has done some work but it will be some time before it finishes, according to Mr. Fletcher. The Springfield community committee will start its work Friday.

Authority has been received for the county committee to fill vacancies in the community committees and a meeting was held Saturday for that purpose. In the Springfield community R. E. Hill has been named to take the place of J. H. Seavey and Frank Bartholomew takes the place of John Hammit. C. A. Scholing has been appointed to fill the place of Clifford Bailey and Norman Purkerson takes the place of C. A. Pirney in the Junction City community.
