BORROWING POWER OF FLAX CONCERN HERE IS INCREASED

Borrowing power of the Oregon Fibre Flax association was increased from $2500 to $25,000 by action of stockholders of the association at a meeting at the Eugene chamber of commerce rooms Monday night. The action enables Lane county flax growers to obtain loans through the federal land bank at Spokane, ranging from $10 to $12 per ton.

The Lane county flax harvest is now under way, approximately 500 tons of fibre flax being expected from the harvest this summer. Two pulling machines have been brought to the county for the harvest, but difficulty is being met in the operation of them, due to the fact much of the flax stand was beaten down by recent rain storms, it was said at the meeting.

Since it would cost approximately $15 an acre to pull the flax by hand, such methods would greatly reduce the value of the crop to the grower. It is expected the price for flax hauled to the plant at Springfield will be $25 per ton with an additional $5 per ton bonus paid by the government.

Prior to the meeting of stockholders, a meeting of the board of directors was held with L. L. Laws, director of the state flax and linen operation. It was said here that the work at the Springfield retting and scutching plant was progressing satisfactorily and would be ready for the county flax when harvested.

The matter of transportation of the fiber from the farm to plant was discussed and it was reported that one truck had been purchased for transportation of the fiber through the plant, from building to building.
