OLYMPIC STADIUM, BERLIN.

—The eleventh Olympic international sport festival was opened today by Adolf Hitler.

Thousands stood silently in this concrete bowl as Hitler, in his balcony facing 100,000 athletes from 52 nations, spoke from the broad field, spoke words which inaugurated the Olympiad.

Thousands open the Olympic stadium, celebrating the Olympiad of the modern age.

Canons Roar

His words echoed across the stadium as a mighty roar went up from the stands. A cannon roared, a salute of trumpets blared a salute of pigeons was released. The stadium was the white flag with its five interlocking rings.

The flag reached the top, it was the transition of the games from German supervision to that of the international Olympic committee which will rule all of the 22 events which begin tomorrow and continue through Aug. 13.

Ceremony Colorful

Colorful ceremony preceded Hitler's inauguration. From early on, Berlin was in carnival spirit. There were countless receptions, parades, demonstrations leading up to this stadium.

Formal ceremony began outside the stadium—center of the 323-acre field where Olympic games will be held—when Hitler, in the presence of guests, addressed the athletes.

He reached his box in the stadium, the colorful parade of athletes began. The parade, led by Greece, which was one of the original games, had a torch.

The athletes marched into the stadium, the torch of the Olympic flame, set on a pedestal in the stadium, tolled for the torch.

The torch was set on the top of the stadium.

Twelve Men In Solitary Confinement After Riot Which Took Life Of One

Martin Will Urge Parole Reform At Session

Governor Backs Up Decision of Judge

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Governor Martin will urge thorough legislative reform in Oregon's parole system at the next session of the legislature in an effort to lessen the present state prison load and mold more useful citizens out of prison backwash, he said here today.

"We need a better parole system," said the governor who arrived here last night for a postoffice dedication. "We need more parole officers to study the individual needs of the prisoner. We have to find ways of putting these men to work before releasing them and then keeping track of them after they're out of prison."

Legislation Needed

The good behavior policy has merit, the governor declared, but has been misinterpreted for more than a decade. The legislature should clear up the entire matter, he believes.

Governor Martin has asked for a full report on the Salem riot when he returns to the capital Sunday, he said.

The chief executive backed up Judge Walker's decision in the Lenoir case, a decision which touched off Friday's riot.

UNDER CONTROL

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Warden Lewis of the state penitentiary talked with Governor Martin in Marshfield today, on a phone call from the executive, and assured him the riot was under control.

"Everybody is quiet and we are getting along all right," the warden told the governor.

Lewis said the guards needed no assistance beyond that given them by the state police.

NOT UNEXPECTED

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—The fatal riot at Oregon's state penitentiary was not unexpected.

Still posted on the bulletin board in the warden's office today was this notice to guards, dated July 2: "Guards are to report for duty in uniform. It is hoped drastic action will not be necessary. In case of emergency notify Warden Lewis."

BODY UNCLAIMED

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas J. Baughn, Bend, does not want the body of her husband, killed in the riot at the state penitentiary. Warden James Lewis was informed today by Sheriff C. L. McCauley of Deschutes county.

Another brother, Albert Baughn, also of Bend, told the sheriff he would not claim the body. Another brother, William, is a life term in the prison for murder in Marion county.

Baughn's body will be cremated at the state hospital, the warden said.

House Demolished By Blaze Friday

Fire, originating in a bedroom, laid a two-story frame house at 732 Seventh avenue west in ruins late Friday evening, as the city fire department arrived too late to extinguish the flames.

Mrs. Frances Harrington, who rented the building from Mrs. M. Y. Warner, was believed to have been in the building at the time of the fire. There was no insurance on the place, which was valued at $500.

Second Political Forum Due Monday

Another political forum is planned by the adult education group, the event to be held Monday. Speakers for the various political groups have not as yet been announced, but the campaign chairman for the republicans, democrats, townsenders, and independent groups are arranging for speakers. R. G. Dykstra is in charge of the music.

BANKS QUIET

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Llewellyn A. Banks, Medford murderer and one of the most publicized men in the state penitentiary, had no part in Friday's riot, Warden James Lewis said today. Neither did any of the three notorious D'Auvenot boys, the warden said.

RIOT LEADER!

Frank Tilson, arrested in Eugene in 1933, who led the riot of convicts at Oregon state penitentiary at Salem late Friday.

RIOT LEADER HAS LONG JAIL RECORD

Frank Tilson, who was arrested here in 1933 as Frank Bower, has a criminal record extending back to 1922, culminating in his leadership of the revolt in the state penitentiary at Salem, Friday.

Tilson's first arrest came in 1922 in San Francisco, when picked up as "Aaron Tilson," on a robbery charge. Two years later he was incarcerated in the Oregon state penitentiary for assault and robbery, armed with a dangerous weapon, being arrested in Portland. He was discharged in 1932, and soon after release was held for possession and transportation of liquor in Salem. In 1933, he was arrested on a vagrancy charge in Portland.

His arrest in Lane county came in February, 1933, for attempted safe-blowing. While in jail he attempted to escape, the attempt involving assault on an officer. He was sentenced to the penitentiary for five years on each charge, to run concurrently. Thus his term would have expired in 1938.

SURVEY FOR FARM LABOR UNDERWAY

A farm labor survey to determine if there is a shortage of help to assist with harvesting Lane county crops is being made this week-end by Floyd Blythe, state WPA inspector.

There has been information sought as to whether or not the WPA would close during the busy harvest season. Mr. Blythe reports, however, that elsewhere there has been found no shortage in farm help. The survey has been conducted throughout the valley communities.

The governor's office is said to have received a report from the Co-burg district regarding the situation and Mr. Blythe was to be in that section Saturday. Beans, fruit picking, grain harvest, and hops are the crops being studied here.

As a rule it is found farmers do not give enough attention to employment bureaus maintained in the various communities. Mr. Blythe states, and calls attention to the fact that in each employment office there is a trained director who has an occupational classification of all seeking work.

Food Is Withheld From Convicts Saturday

Prison Shambles As Officials Keep Control

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Twelve men were in solitary confinement in Oregon's riot-torn state penitentiary today as ringleaders in yesterday's bloody outbreak that cost the life of one convict and sent two other wounded men to the hospital.

"They started it and by God we'll finish it," Warden James Lewis said grimly.

As he spoke, the yells of 900 hungry, defiant men, still locked in their cells, could be heard in his office. Windows in the cell blocks were still being broken out by the rebels who are protesting a change in the prison's parole policy that deprived them of automatic "good time" deductions in their sentences.

Convicts Foodless

Without food for 24 hours except for what they stole from the commissary during the riot, the convicts were still in an ugly mood this morning.

Warden Lewis said the men would not be fed until guards were sure the prisoners could be marched into the dining room in order.

The warden requested Coroner L. E. Barrick and District Attorney William H. Trimble of Marion county to hold inquest at 9 a. m. Monday at the prison.

Twenty-nine state policemen were still on duty inside the walls, having worked until 3:30 a. m. on a "shake down" of every cell.

Floors Littered

Through the cell blocks reeked the nauseating odor of vanilla extract on which some of the rebellious convicts got drunk after raiding the kitchens.

Landon Stand On LABOR UNIONS HIT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—(AP)—John L. Landon, president of the United Mine Workers, said today that Gov. Alf M. Landon's labor policy "would make every strike illegal and every picket a law breaker."

Lewis, supporter of President Roosevelt, issued a statement commenting on a recent letter in which Landon explained his labor views in response to a query from Norman Thomas, socialist presidential candidate.

Lewis asserted Landon "concedes the right of labor to send in an organizer," but he still thinks the unionization should have "complete freedom from interference from anyone whatsoever." In his acceptance speech he says this includes even a fellow employee.

"Of course this policy, taken from the repeated declarations of the National Manufacturers' association, is designed to isolate workers from the trade union movement," Lewis continued.

Thunderstorms Roll Across State of Utah

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Aug. 1.—(AP)—New thunderstorms rolled across Utah today, arousing fear of additional cloudbursts in districts where torrential rains routed families from their homes, sent rivers of mud coursing over highways and caused two flood deaths.

Southern and northern Utah suffered heaviest damage. The U. S. weather bureau predicted continued storms tonight, with flood threats not yet alleviated.

Penitentiary Guard Tells Of Firing Shots To Stop Charge

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—H. H. Corey, state penitentiary guard whose 30-30 rifle was credited with carrying death to one convict and injury to two others in yesterday's prison riot, stood at his accustomed post in tower No. 6 today and told an eye-witness story of mob rule.

For 16 years a high state official—a member of the old public service commission until ex-Governor Julius L. Meier took office—Corey said he fired only one shot as the men rushed toward the section of wall it was his duty to defend.

"I kept 'em back of the dead-line all day," Corey told the United Press. He referred to wide red lines which convicts in the yard are not to pass.

"The men were milling around in the yard and were in an ugly mood, but I didn't expect anything like this. When I saw some of them coming out of the butcher shop I phoned the turnkey's office to let them know the turnkey was headed for the commissary. Suddenly a trusty came toward the wall and yelled, 'They're going to go over the wall.' I didn't believe him.

"Then I saw Roy Bremmer, guard, at the tower several hundred feet down the wall from me, fire several shots over the heads of the mob.

"Come on now, let's go," I heard a ringleader yell.

"I wanted to show them I meant business, too. I picked up my rifle, slung it in a cartridge and shot at the ground on my side of the dead-line. The bullet must have ricocheted and hit somebody.

"It was fully 15 or 20 minutes later before I saw that someone had been hit.

"I wouldn't shoot a man unless a guard's life was at stake. It was an accident that anyone was hit."

Bremmer made just this terse comment.

"The warden told me to stop 'em, and I did." He said he fired two or three shots over the heads of the convicts.

Jerry Barber Second As Warren Bussell Is Third

Cool, heady driving and a streamlined racer that rolled like quicksilver brought first place and a trip to the national soap-box derby finals at Akron to Paul Johnson, 15. His red-and-yellow speedster flashed across the finish line at Seventeenth avenue Saturday 50 feet ahead of Jerry Barber's shovel-nosed streak in the winning time of 42 seconds flat. Barber's time was 43.7.

Third place went to Warren Bussell, last year's champion, in a shade under the same time.

2,500 SEE RACES

A crowd of some 2,500 spectators saw the Register-Guard-Chevrolet Motor company Derby finals, and cheered their favorites as they shot past at speeds that were in the main remarkably fast. Several racers came close to losing control of their cars mid-way in the course but there was only one serious crack-up. Clifford DeFoe, driving car 49 in the hardest fought heat in the semi-finals, threw a tire and went into a skid on the Eighteenth avenue level, narrowly missing the side of Curtis Leonard's No. 3, and crashed into the curb, knocking several spectators down. Leonard went on to win the heat, beating out Edward Young, who also had trouble with skidding. All three cars were neck-and-neck when DeFoe crashed.

Johnson showed driving skill and nerve worthy of an Indianapolis driver in his semi-final heat, when he threw a tire half a block from the finish line but went on to win. His control of the car never wavered as he looked back to check the damage and estimate the threat of his opponents.

Rebel Advance On Madrid Speeded As Troops Join Force

WITH GENERAL EMILIO MOLA'S REBEL ARMY AT ROBLEDO, Spain, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Reinforcements of troops and fascist militia poured into Robledo today to speed up the rebel advance on Madrid.

The armed movement began at midnight with long truck caravans rumbling over the shell-torn roads bringing fighters for the final attack on Bañoz, 46 miles north of the capital.

The rebel soldiers, riding in stock trucks, huddled beneath blankets to protect themselves from the bitter cold on the windswept heights of the Guadarrama mountain passes.

Campfires dotted the darkness as the insurgents paused temporarily to prepare the traditional Spanish drink—coffee and hot milk—before going into battle.

The popular-lined highway to Madrid through the Somo Sierra pass was cluttered with wrecked trucks and buses—shattered evidence of the good aim of machine gunning loyal aviators.

SALEM, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Ross H. Wood, vice president of the Salem Brewery association and prominent hop grower, was in the Salem general hospital today suffering from severe burns about the hands and shoulders received in a fire at his home early this morning. Wood ran shouting from his house, his clothing in flames. As nearly as could be learned he had fallen asleep in his chair in the living room and a burning cigarette or cigar had set fire to the chair.

Federal agents late yesterday arrested the youth at his farm home at Grant, Neb. Sheriff H. Bechtel said Powell told him he conceived the fantastic scheme after seeing a movie based on a kidnapping theme, but "never meant to go through with it."

Bechtel reported the prisoner readily admitted he sent a letter to George F. Temple, father of the little actress, setting forth in part: "Unless $25,000 is dropped from an airplane near Grant, Neb., on May 15, the life of Shirley Temple will be endangered."

At Washington, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the justice department's bureau of investigation, related how the square of paper was subjected to scientific tests and traced through the manufacturer to stores at Grant and Madrid, Neb. Further undisclosed deductions led to the seizure of Powell.

GIRLS SELECTED FOR MOVIE TESTS

Selection of girls to take part in the Register-Guard-McDonald theatre-Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film test movie making demonstration here Tuesday afternoon was progressing rapidly Saturday, and the three leading dramatic groups of the city—the University Players, the Very Little Theatre, and the high school drama club—expect to name their candidates in the Sunday morning paper.

The demonstration, unique in the history of Eugene, will be held in front of the McDonald theatre Tuesday afternoon between 4 and 7, in the huge Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer traveling picture studio, which will be here at that time.

The three girls will be made up for picture tests, and photographs will be taken. Previous to that, they will have "shot" in ordinary street dress and make-up. The results of the two pictures are expected to graphically demonstrate the Hollywood beauty expert's ability to add "glamor."

And the film tests themselves—well, the possibility of local girls being chosen to enter films under contract is always present. For the tests will be regular studio affairs, with sound and picture recording, and if a brilliant prospect turns up, Metro may be interested in talking movie career.

SALEM WRITER PAINTS DRAMATIC STORY OF FATAL PRISON OUTBREAK

By CLAYTON V. BERNHARD Associated Press Staff Writer

SALEM, Ore., Aug. 1.—(AP)—I stood in the yard of the Oregon penitentiary Friday and watched 700 angry convicts burl their defiance at six prison guards on the walls and Warden James Lewis.

They milled about, some of them taking it as a lark, others looking hopefully at the walls, wondering whether they could make a dash for it. The din was deafening but the guards just stood there, rifles in hand, watching every move.

Suddenly there was a shrill cry. "Come on guys—let's make a run for it!"

A few convicts started and in an instant there were a hundred of them running like madmen for the walls. I was on the ground, in the yard, and I stood there dazed by the thought of those men running toward those guards with their rifles gripped tightly.

Suddenly I saw a rifle raise. I
