of the Washington legislature. A wage rate of $8 per day for legislators, abolishing separate secretaries for each legislator, and providing for a corps of clerks from the house to serve when needed, were the main features of the proposed measure.

When the session opened last week there was an outcry from several quarters over alleged favoritism shown in selection of secretaries and clerks. Later there was a complaint that secretaries for each senator was a "luxury." When the proposed measure will come out was not known.

Francisovich Asks Speed
Only one bill was introduced in the morning meeting of the senate, a measure by Senator Dellmore Leonard, Multnomah, providing for appointment of judges pro tempore in circuit court. F. M. Francisovich, president of the senate, sounded a warning for committees to start their meetings in order to prevent an over-crowded calendar at the end of the term.

An offer from the attorney-general's office to assist in drafting legislation was received in the senate and accepted.

The house of representatives decided unanimously that women, as well as men, should submit to physical examination when applying for a marriage license. The measure, introduced by Dancy E. Bevans, Clackamas, raised a dissenting voice in the lower house, many members stating that they felt the measure did not go far enough, but was as much as could be accomplished at the present time. The measure will now go to the senate.

House Passes Third

After two weeks of legislation the house passed its third bill of the 60 introduced to date. The other bill passed by the house was the measure sponsored by the joint house and senate Multnomah delegation which would create a civil service board and provide for appointment by this board of custodians and assistant custodians of school districts in this state (Portland) having a population of 100,000 or more persons.

Legislation on the two measures to aid the town of Bandon was referred to the committee on taxation and revenue held by W. J. Kerr, in the Oregon system of higher education was brought before the house by Representative E. C. Allen, Multnomah. The other measure which appeared in the morning session provided that the amount of federal grant used in construction of school buildings shall not be considered in computing the cost of the building for the purpose of fixing tuition.

Seek Homestead Exemption

In addition to two expected labor bills introduced in the morning session, a measure which would exempt homesteads from taxation and foreclosure was brought before the house by Representative Miller, Josephine county.

The bill to abolish the position of director of production and marketing research now held by W. J. Kerr, in the Oregon system of higher education was brought before the house by Representative E. C. Allen, Multnomah. The other measure which appeared in the morning session provided that the amount of federal grant used in construction of school buildings shall not be considered in computing the cost of the building for the purpose of fixing tuition.

MARKED CURRENCY FOUND ON PRISONER

special officer if the man had been searched and no further search was made or the money might have been found then, it was stated.

Sheriff Swarts said Thursday that Westphal appeared to be very much frightened when he was first locked up and when his mind appeared to be giving way he frequently wept and often spoke of his mother.

Westphal is a native of Germany and has been in the United States ten years. He has been engaged in placer mining in the Sacramento valley in California and had a small quantity of gold dust with him when arrested.

Ralph McIntyre, chief jailer, is given credit for discovery of the money and subsequent checkup.

Sheriff Swarts returned from Salem at 2:30 in the afternoon, reporting that the department of justice agent from Portland to whom he telephoned failed to appear. He left all the information he had about Westphal and the numbers of the bills with J. S. Murray, the identification officer at the penitentiary.

Reduces Varicose or Swollen Veins

The world progresses. Today many minor ailments that took weeks to overcome can now be helped much more quickly. If you have varicose veins or bunches start today to bring them back to normal size and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moon's Emerald Oil at Carroll Drug Co., Penney's Drug Store, or any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

In a short time the veins should begin to grow smaller and by regular use soon approach normal.

IT WAS a matter of "Hall, hall, Our Gang's all here," and a very happy occasion, when Hal Roach's prodigies of yesterday and today gathered in Hollywood to appear together in a new juvenile comedy. Smiling their glee, the current members of "Our Gang" and the alumni posed for this group picture. Seated, left to right, are Mary Kornman; Baby Paty May; Gordon Douglas, present director; Mickey Daniels; Joe Cobb, and Stymlie Beard. Back row, left to right, are Spanky McFarland; Alfalfa Switzer; Darla Hood; Porky Lee, and Buckwheat Thomas. In the foreground is Pete the pup.

FLU SPREADS AS COLD CONTINUES

Oregon's shivering citizens tossed log after log into their furnaces today in an effort to lick the cold snap and stave off the state-wide influenza wave.

The official weekly report of the state department of health listed 825 cases of influenza, an increase of 706. Authorities, however, were inclined to view the figures with pessimism for the unreported cases boosted the total into the thousands.

Umatilla apparently bore the brunt of the illness. There 150 cases found their way into the official report. More than 300 students out of a school population of 1300 remained away from their classes at Pendleton. In comparison, the densely settled Portland district reported only 100 cases.

A cheerless sun sent the temperature swooning down to new low records in eastern Oregon. The 13 below zero minimum at Klamath Falls broke an 18-year-old mark. It was minus at Pendleton for the second night in succession and 21 below at Baker. The Dalles had 2 degrees below, a point warmer than yesterday. La Grande's 15 below represented the coldest point since Feb. 15, 1933.

More frigid blasts hit smaller communities. Meacham's reading was 37 below and Tule Lake, Calif., near Klamath Falls 25.

Six hundred cases of influenza, many of them mild, existed at Baker, although the official report gave the county only 45. Schools had about 300 empty desks. The Klamath county physician said the disease had declined to about 100 cases. Officially, however, Klamath county did not report a single case. Nearly 400 of the 1945 students at La Grande were absent. Other counties reported to the health department gave Benton 45, 1930 from Purdue.

EUGENE HOPEFUL OF PORT PROJECT

and Arthur Hendershott, council finance committee chairman, was held Thursday afternoon, but it was indicated that little save tentative discussion of airport prospects was undertaken.

Hope was seen by Mayor Large in the explanation of WPA requirements given by Colonel Popp. Though WPA requires a large contribution from the sponsoring city now than in former years, roughly 20 per cent, he revealed that the Oregon WPA rules permit a site, definitely purchased for a project to be counted in for its full value as the city's contribution. This offers encouragement it is felt, since the sale of the present airport and a bond issue for a few thousand dollars might easily bring to Eugene a first-class, approved airport, and all the advantages of scheduled air service.

"Nonetheless," Mayor Large declared, "we are going to go slow on this and make sure that everything we do is wise and right. We cannot afford to repeat past mistakes, nor to over-reach ourselves. Neither can we afford to lag behind in the aviation parade. Between these two alternatives we must select a middle course."

SCHOOLS CLOSED IN SPRINGFIELD

3. In case of headache or fever, put your child to bed and call your family physician."

School directors and physicians stressed the need of keeping the children at home. The Springfield high school will not be closed unless the number of absentee pupils increases greatly, said Supt. Marschat, because it was felt that these older students would not heed the warning and remain at home if they were not in school.

Mr. Marschat has kept a check on the number absent during the past week. The number of students remaining away from school increased every day until Wednesday when the Brattain school reported 37.2 per cent of the entire enrollment absent and Lincoln reported 22.6 per cent absent.

"It is difficult to say just how many of those out of school are actually ill," said Supt. Marschat, "and how many may be staying out because of various degrees of common colds, or avoiding classes for fear of being exposed."

All other points also reported slightly higher temperatures for the day. As previously reported, many of Lane county's sawmills and logging camps are down because of the snow and cold. H. J. Cox, secretary of the Willamette Valley Lumbermen's association, estimates some 1200 men, or a third of the county's lumber workers, are out of work for the time being. The order from the county preventing log hauling until roads are in better condition also has caused some to shut down.

Ice was reported extending out from the banks of all streams in this section again, Thursday. Roads continue treacherous making automobile travel hazardous.

According to Mr. Berreman, the Youth League is becoming so popular in the surrounding districts that plans are being made to organize groups in Santa Clara and Eugene. There will be a discussion of these plans Sunday afternoon when delegates from Eugene and Santa Clara will meet in Mr. Berreman's office.
