FOR THE YOUTH OF LANE COUNTY

EUGENE, OREGON, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1937.

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

By OMER DURHAM

County News:

This afternoon will be the time for the beginning of the long planned institute for all Lane Union officers, society presidents and other officers, as well as all advisors. Each president is asked to leave some capable person in charge of the evening service in the home church so that all the officers who attend may spend their time at all of the institute, including the evening service.

The various conferences will be under the direction of the following leaders: Lookout, Marjorie Jackson; prayer meeting, Affie McCaskey; missionary, Lela Peterson and Grace Beck; social, Verell Wilson.

The general theme for all of the conferences will be "What is my Work?" These people will take up the different branches of this topic.

Another feature of the program this afternoon will be the regular session of the executive committee. If you are a union officer, a society officer or an advisor in Christian Endeavor work, you are urged to attend this institute.

The program for the Lane Union convention to be held in Creswell March 20-21 is being arranged by the committee in charge.

The registration price will be 10c, including a place to stay, if you wish to stay over.

We also have ready a probable list of the speakers for the convention. They are: K. E. Burke, Junction City, N.C.; Claude O'Brien, Springfield; J. M. Sholley, Fairmount Christian, and also a former missionary to Korea; D. W. Daniels, Salem; Paul Collins, youth speaker from Bakersfield, California, now a student at N. C. C. The themes for all of these speakers will be some phase of the theme "Forward with Christ!"

The convention song leader will be Grace Beck of N.C.C. The toastmaster for the banquet will be Bob Tindall, N.C.C. The theme for the convention banquet is "Pushing."

Here is a list of those on the committee to arrange for the convention: Anna Rose Colburn, Al Durham, Lela Peterson, Luke Bolin and Howard Cole.

Reeves and a one-act tragedy. Those in "Ye Tragedy" were David Stone, Roy Quinn, Clarence Ford, Oscar Newman, Roy Smith and Charles Freeman. The program was closed with a yell.

The Wilson librarian and her helpers have been busy during the first semester of this year checking out books and magazines. The helpers are chosen from a group of volunteers, and include those who are taking a library course. Three hundred and seventy-one students have used the library this semester. A total of 7,495 books were loaned from the library the first semester of this year.

From the magazine section of the library 120 magazines are being circulated. A new scheme is being carried out in the handling of the seventh and eighth grade parties this year. Instead of the former plan of class parties being under the supervision of an entertainment committee headed by Miss Pearce, this year wards are handling this phase of school activity themselves. Two and three wards are joining for a party, their ward teachers being in charge.

The first of these was a Valentine's party held on Saturday evening, February 13, for the 70 members of Wards 9, 10, and 11. The next party is scheduled for Wards 3, 31, and 32 in March.

Ninth grade: Harland Buer, Beatrice Chambers, Dorothy Crow, Darlene Filback, Alice Gallup, Lillian Hamblen, Jack Hayes, Alon Johnson, Hubert King, Frank Knox, Frances Nelson, Helen Randall, Dorothy Stewart, Kenneth Whitely.

There were five living ex-presidents of the United States when Lincoln took office, in 1861. They were Van Buren, Tyler, Fillmore, Pierce, and Buchanan.

Thursday the Wilson Knights used the first period for an impromptu assembly. The program consisted of a harmonica duet by Bob Hoover and Richard Rice, imitation by Herman Burke and Junior Soward, guitar solos by Herbert Callaway and Charles Mison, acrobatic stunts by Thomas Beardsley, Donald Stokes, and Russell Roach, a piano solo by Billy

METROPOLITAN

TWO NEW ZEALAND DEBATERS ADDRESS EUGENE ASSEMBLY

Fresh from their successful speaking tour of the United States, John H. Kemnitz and C. E. H. Pledger of the University of Otago, at Dunedin, New Zealand, spoke before the student body of Eugene high school Thursday morning.

John Luvas introduced the speakers. Speaking in a pleasant English accent, Mr. Pledger explained the mission of the two New Zealand debaters, now on a good will tour of the United States.

Mr. Pledger briefly explained the trends of education in New Zealand, and traced the advancement of political freedom there. Before leaving for a speaking engagement at the university, Mr. Pledger urged the students to stay young and to accept their political responsibility seriously.

Mr. Kemnitz, continuing, reemphasized the importance of the high school student as a future citizen of America. He dwelt at length upon the people and government of New Zealand, explaining the parliament and emphasizing the intelligence and equality of the Maoris in government and industry. He expressed his astonishment at the amount of private initiative in public utilities in America. In New Zealand they are almost entirely governmentally owned, he said.

The birchrate in New Zealand, Mr. Kemnitz explained is low but the death rate is correspondingly low, so the race is increasing and the people are of outstanding physical quality.

Mr. Kemnitz ended by appealing for closer relations between the world's two great democracies, the United States and New Zealand, and for an enlightened citizenry.

At a meeting last Friday, New Eugene high school girls' League department chairmen were elected. Each department held a separate meeting, electing its own chairmen. Those elected were Virginia Irish, social; Doris Bonner, financial; Fern Miller, clerical; Maxine Miller, auxiliary. The home economics department will elect its chairman next Tuesday.

The retiring chairmen are Donna Row, social; Marcia Wright, financial; Laurita Christoffersen, clerical; Pearl Matychuck, auxiliary; and Bonnie Jones, home economics.

Bill Kidwell, dean of boys, was featured on the Eugene high news broadcast Thursday. Mrs. Ethel Chase, dramatic instructor, directed the play "He Ain't Done Right By Little Nell." The cast included Nellie Anderson, Eleanor Brakel, Eileen White, Dorothy Ann Durkee, Bob Carmichael, Miner Hamlin and Jim Keefe. Frank Dye, Joe Bradshaw, Walter Walling and Eugenia Robertson were also on the program.

Some of the members of Mask and Dagger enjoyed a delicious dinner after presenting a program for the Neighbors of Woodcraft last Friday. Those Mask and Dagger members who were present for the program and dinner were: Imogene Ballantyne, Daphne Shonkwiler, Mary Ann Aloutt, Bill Naylor, Ruth Chambers, Edith Paris, Floyd Bevel, Frank Dye, Jack Cole, Wendell Kaufman, Bob Ranko, Johnnie Edwards, Joyce Coffee, Donna Row, Bill Scharpf, Ted Endres, Duane Trooper, Bill Beier, Julia Ann Morse, Jim Phillips, Bob Fletcher, Marge Durmo, James Hathaway, Bob Carmichael, and Charles Porter.

Johnny Miller, senior, was elected as superintendent of the Future Craftsmen of America, the Eugene chapter of which was inaugurated February 11. Ted Hill, a selected foreman, Don Riswick, timekeeper, and Bud Wells, gatekeeper, Clifford A. Coulter, mechanical drawing and trades instructor, acted as temporary chairman.

This club originated in Oregon, and later spread into other states, until it is now a national club. The Eugene high school trades class are enthusiastic over the possibilities of developing apprenticeship. Dick Dellage, John Hill, Ted Hill, Neil King, Leone Butler, Don Richards, Rex Bonner, Johnny Miller, Bud Wells, and Sanders Smith are the new members. Rules are now being discussed on how to conduct meetings.

The home of Irene Essel was the scene of a lively writer's session Wednesday as the Plume and Parchment club met to read and discuss compositions written by its members. Those who attended were Miss J. C. Gibson, Ruth Barton, Marjorie Coulter, Julia Ann Morse, Hazel Simpson, Marshall Sherwin, Dan Bergman and the host.

Clifton Coulter was elected president of the Palmetto club at a meeting held Monday. Other officers elected were Shirley Roach, vice president; Inez Stanley, secretary; and Jane Warlick, treasurer. A committee was appointed to make plans for the next meeting. Miss Juliette C. Gibson will speak upon her collection of jewelry at the next meeting. Installation of officers will feature the next meeting which will be in the form of a potluck or party.

The members of the Alpha chapter of the National Honor society journeyed to Cottage Grove Thursday to attend a banquet and conference there. Honor societies from several schools participated in the conference. William Lins, president of the Eugene chapter, spoke on "The History of the National Honor Society."

The sale of tickets for the Eugene school year book, is now entering its last week. The interest shown this year by the students is greater than ever as is shown by the advance sale, which has exceeded all expectations, according to the staff. "This year's annual will be bigger and better, more streamlined and carrying more pictures, if the present plans of the editorial staff are carried out." Ray Bond, business manager, declared. A new feature is the arrangement of the commercial advertising, which is distributed around the page with jokes in the center.

Election of officers and final preparations for the Black and Red were the main feature of the club's meeting last Tuesday. Officers elected were: Walter Walling, president; Lyle Watson, secretary; Douglas White, treasurer; and Lawrence Robertson, historian.

The Girls' Letter club sponsored the Girls' League assembly held last Friday morning. Musical numbers were the main feature. The all-girls kitchen band played three numbers: Jo Bradshaw sang a solo; Estelle Stadig gave an acrobatic dance; Miss Barbara Evelyn Hollis, librarian, sang "Beautiful Dreamer" and "Ah Sweet Mystery of Life." Doris Edwards gave a recitation; Janet Chase played a piano solo; Miss Juliette Claire Gibson, news adviser, gave Robert Burns' "To a Louse" and "Just a Wee Doch and Doris"; and a tap dance trio, composed of Daphne Shonkwiler, Imogene Ballantyne, and Mary Ann Aloutt, gave a dance. Three great artists also performed. Patsy Williams, seven-year-old songstress, sang two vocal solos; and Gloria Jean Catner and Betty Bennett, Merrick students, gave a military tap dance. Letters and numerals were also awarded to those girls earning gym points.

Helen Ross, in charge of Cottage Grove high school girls' basketball, selected two teams and one second team last week. Those making the first teams are: Montana Crosscut, Jean King, Dorothy Gallo, Frances Glasgow, Miriam Ferrin, Midge Honnold, Ilene Trunell, Eleanor Teeters, Sarajane Moore, Lucile Davis, Lenita Powell, and Audrey Turner. The second team consists of Betty Adkins, Lois May Stoneberg, Dorothy Siemann, Margaret Monson, Helen Ross and Roetta Aubrey. In order to receive ten points on first team a girl must play in at least two games in addition to the six practice periods of at least twenty minutes each. Substitutes must play the equivalent of one game to get five points.

The home economics club held a party Wednesday night, February 10, in the clothing room. Games were played and songs sung. In a hot contest Ethel Ann Newton won first prize. Miss Vera Button, home economics teacher, and Marian Kirchofer, Dorothy Siemann, and Doris Smith won honorable mention. The committees were as follows: Entertainment, Marian Moore and Dorothy Gallo; decorative, Betty Adkins, Maxine Ingram, and Dorothy Anderson; refreshments, Geraldine Kem, Sarajane Moore, and Ilene Trunell; invitation, Dorothy Siemann and Pauline McGarvin.

The officers of the Latin club met Friday, February 12, to make plans for this semester. A Valentine was made to be sent to Lois Baldwin, former president of the club, who is ill. Last Saturday a group of the club members met at the schoolhouse, being erected by the class.

Patty Collins, freshman, withdrew from school here and moved to California.

Robert Lukens and Kenneth Safely, sophomores, withdrew from school last week.

Royal Gouroutou, Hugh McDonald, and Dalton Salisbury returned to school this week after several days' absence on account of illness.

The Omicron Chapter of the National Honor Society sponsored a joint meeting and banquet with Roseburg high, Eugene high and University high at the Cottage Grove high school Thursday evening, February 18.

Seven new members of the Omicron chapter were initiated by the Roseburg chapter. The initiates were Marylane Smith, Jain King, Eleanor Teeters, Bill MacGibby, Stewart Roberts, Heath Lowry and Clifford Hiner.

Allan Ferrin, president of the local chapter, acted as toastmaster. Talks were given by Superintendent W. M. Campbell of Roseburg, Principal O. H. Beard of Roseburg, Superintendent H. B. Ferrin of Cottage Grove and Principal F. L. Graham of Cottage Grove. Other guests included Mrs. H. B. Ferrin and Miss Florence Jenks, adviser of the Omicron chapter.

The tables, which were set for 70 were decorated in the National Honor society colors, blue and flame yellow with bouquets of daffodils and pussy willows and yellow tapers. The programs, bearing the honor shield were outlined in gold.

The banquet was served by the home economics department, under the supervision of Miss Maclean Notvedt.

Miss Bernice Conoly, English instructor, visited at the home of her mother in Portland over the weekend.

The girls entertained the boys at a Girls' League assembly last Friday. The program consisted of a talk about the islands of the South Seas by Mrs. Landsbury Beck; two piano solos by Kyle Smith; two vocal solos by Paul Potter accompanied by Dorothy Mae Potter; two trombone solos by Beryl Robertson; and two musical numbers by principals of the operetta "Sonia."

The Girls' Athletic association held a meeting last Monday afternoon to appoint girls to take charge of the different sports for which they can get Oregon points. The girls were also urged to pay their club dues.
