MOUNTAIN COMES
 PORTLAND, Ore., March 8.—(Special)—The mountain will come to Mohammed as far as beer hall records and the city's censor board are concerned. The city council ruled that disc music must be approved when the music vendor receives a license. The ruling came when the motion picture censor board asked clarification of a new ordinance requiring censoring of overly "hot" music. The board claimed it would be embarrassing and inconvenient to make the sounds of beer halls and listen to automatic music devices.

Call of Spring Gets 8-Year-Olds 'Arrested'

PORTLAND, Ore., March 8.—(Special)—Classroom confinement during current sunshine proved just too much for a pair of 8-year-olds.

The call of spring took them to the country. In the evening they appeared, hungry and muddy, at the home of Thomas Michos and announced, "We're lost."

After parents had notified the sheriff, the boys were found later last night colorfully attired in borrowed clothing.

Asked where he thought he was going, one of them proudly answered, "nowhere. I'm under arrest."

Advisers On Flood Control Authorized

SALEM, March 8.—(Special)—Under the provisions of a senate bill passed on to the governor today, a Willamette valley advisory board will be set up as an agency of the state group to aid in research and surveys of irrigation, conservation, and improvement projects. The board would consist of five or more citizens of Willamette valley counties working without compensation.

French Explorer Back From Arctic

PARIS, March 8.—(Special)—Paul Emile Victor, France's "hermit of the snows" has reached Angoulême after spending a year in mushing across Greenland recording atmospheric and meteorological conditions. He learned for the first time that the French exploration ship "Pourquoi Pas?" on which he went north and which he expected to repatriate him next August had sunk with all but one hand on the return voyage to France.

SALEM DARKENED
 SALEM, Ore., March 8.—(Special)—A tinsel kite string threw most of Salem into darkness from 20 to 35 minutes.

The string dropped across a power line and rendered three wires useless. Power firm officials said some youthful kite flier apparently tied the string to a stake and went home.

Stories in STAMPS

Monk Who Defied A Pope.

REFORM was in the air, early in the 17th century, but when Paul V assumed the papacy in 1605, he adopted strict measures to affirm the power of Rome. In Venice, Fra Paolo Sarpi, patriot, scholar, and theologian, upheld the state's supremacy over the church, in daring defiance of the edict from Rome. Sarpi even went so far as to demand toleration of worship for Protestants in Venice, and for this Venice made him state councillor in jurisprudence.

The recognition exasperated Sarpi's enemies. One dark night he was attacked by a band of assassins and left for dead. But his wounds healed, and he continued to advance his reforms. Plots against him continued, and he even planned to seek refuge in England. But he remained in his cloister in Venice, intent in the study of science and theology, until he died in 1623, aged 71.

Sarpi's portrait appears on one of the stamps issued by Italy in 1932, for the Dante Alighieri Society.
