SOVIET POLAR SHIP NEAR U. S.

go coast or east?" The message gave no position, but army officers estimated the plane was about 300 miles north of the U. S. boundary near the 120 parallel in British Columbia.

Ordered East
A. Vartanian, Amtorz (Russian trading corporation) engineer and Soviet flight representative here, released the flyers to turn east to avoid storms reported in the Canadian Rockies.

Vartanian said later he might recommend the plane make Chicago its flight terminus instead of San Francisco, "depending on storm conditions."

Vartanian said he was collecting weather reports from the entire area as an aid to determining the intrepid flyers' future course.

Heber C. Miller, assistant chief pilot for the United Air Line, advised that weather conditions were good and the sky clear from Roseburg, Ore., to San Francisco, and the broken overcast conditions, north of Roseburg, would be clear by nightfall. He said that between the international boundary and Roseburg the ceiling ranged from 1,000 to 2,500 feet, with the top of the overcast at about 5,000 feet.

FIRST MESSAGE
SEATTLE, July 12.—(AP)—The army signal corps Alaska communication office here received its first message direct from the Russian transpolar flyers at 8:35 a. m. today when the plane reported itself at latitude 58 degrees 30 minutes and longitude 120. Army officers said this indicated the plane had reached northern British Columbia between Fort Nelson and Hudson's Hope.

At the rate they have been flying, the flyers should reach the Puget Sound sector about 8:30 p. m. and San Francisco by midnight, army officers said.

The plane has been following the 120th parallel since it left the polar regions. If it continues that course, officers said, it will cross over Washington state via the Methow valley, Waterville, the Columbia river and Sunnyside, entering Oregon at about Heppner Junction.

PAGEANT QUEEN BEGINS REIGN

"Needless to say, I am very glad now that I remained here."

"I've thoroughly enjoyed being a candidate for queen and I'm truly glad that LaVonne was chosen. She has the sweetest, warmest smile of any girl I've ever known and I think she'll make a lovely queen."

Amateur Photographer
Besides her interest in art, Princess Phyllis enjoys amateur photography and with her brother, takes many pictures and develops and prints her own films. She likes dancing and plans to study aesthetic dancing at the university.

"I started to collect stamps once, but on the day I started, I got a bad case of poison oak and now every time I think of stamps I think of poison oak so I don't collect stamps," she said. "I used to enjoy swimming, too, but I have a bad memory there, too. When we lived in California, I went in the surf one day and was nearly carried out by the strong undertow. It frightened me quite a bit and later I learned that ten girls had been carried out the day before. I haven't been able to enjoy swimming since."

She likes tennis and enjoys reading. Her record in reading is 50 books three summers ago. "Like other girls, I like nice clothes and I like to design them. I think I will suit me and then have my mother make them for me," she says. She plans to take up sewing in college so that she can make more of her own clothes.

Born in Eugene
Princess Phyllis was born in Eugene, January 16, 1919, and at the age of four moved to California with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Paine. While in California she experienced an earthquake which shook dishes off the shelves and nearly shook her out of bed.

"At first we thought we would have to move out of the house, but it was considered so dangerous in the street that they wouldn't let us leave the building," she remembers.

Asked what she likes most, her immediate answer is ice cream. "I eat it twice a day at least and sometimes in between meals," she says. "One Man's Family" and Jack Benny are her favorite radio programs and on the screen she prefers Joan Crawford and Franchot Tone.

BARRACKS BOMBED
PEIPING, China, July 12.—(AP)—Five Japanese bombers, Chinese sources reported today, bombed the Nanyuan barracks and airstrip eight miles south of this ancient city.

The report was not at once confirmed.

The aerial attack, according to the Chinese informants, occurred between three and four p. m. (2 and 3 a. m. E. S. T.).

The report first became known here late in the day, delayed because telephone communications with Nanyuan were cut during today's fighting.

Heavy cannonading in the direction of Nanyuan was audible here.

United States marine embassy guards, atop the city wall, reported that two Japanese planes were sighted above Nanyuan this afternoon. They said what appeared to be shrapnel explosions were seen before the planes departed, presumably for their Tientsin base.

Drop Hand Grenades
Chinese sources believed the planes may have dropped hand grenades. Gen. Sung Choh-Yun's 29th Chinese route army forced a heavily supported detachment of Japanese troops to retreat toward their Fengtai base after they had been driven back on Peiping's southern wall in two hours of hand to hand fighting.

The big swords of the Chinese infantry clashed in the sultry noon sunshine with the bayonets of the Japanese at the strategic railway bridge a half mile south of the walls.

The Japanese formed one of the advance units of a reported 10,000 troops being rushed to the North China battle area from Manchoukuo, the state Japan carved off of Chinese Manchuria.

Reliable foreign sources declared 100 Japanese warplanes flew over Shanhaikwan, on the border of Manchoukuo and Hopei province, en route yesterday to the scene of action.

Chinese Drive Ahead
The Japanese detachment was advancing on the Nanyuan airstrip and barracks, eight miles south of Peiping, when they were met half way by Chinese troops and gradually driven back on the southern wall before they turned and retreated toward Fengtai, seven miles to the west.

Before wheeling toward Fengtai, the Japanese headquarters and base in the Peiping battle area, they made a determined stand at the railway bridge where the heaviest fighting of the engagement took place. Heavy casualties were reported suffered by both sides.

As they retreated, the Japanese were reported to have torn up the railway tracks in the vicinity, halting train service from Peiping.

Another Japanese force was said to have launched a futile attack on Nanyuan itself at the same time the column from the north went into action.

M.S.P. CONTROVERSY NEAR SETTLEMENT

SPRINGFIELD, July 12.—(Special)—The first move toward settlement in the Springfield-Mountain States Power company franchise controversy was made Monday night when R. C. Sipes, general manager of the Willamette valley division, presented the city council with a check for $476.50.

The check was five per cent of the gross earnings of the water division of the company from Sept. 15, when the city passed an ordinance requiring that five per cent of gross proceeds be paid by any public service company operating within the city without a franchise, until June 5, the date of the company's last meter reading.

With the check, Mr. Sipes made an official statement that the company would continue to make the payment each month. Mr. Sipes made a further request for a water franchise, denied by the council when the city made demands for reduced domestic and business power rates. The company's stand in the matter of the city's requests was to have been made known at the meeting Monday night but Mr. Sipes reported that the company would have to be given additional time.

The question of the city's desire to purchase the water power from the company also arose. The water property may be acquired, according to Mr. Sipes at a present-day value price to be determined by the Public Utilities commission. "The company will take steps to have the property assessed as soon as the council reiterates its sincerity to make the purchase," Mr. Sipes said.

The council voted to call $1500 of warrants and $3500 1928 general improvement bonds. The bonds will be called on Sept. 1. To added to the Warren and Stock sawmill was ratified.

Gene Slattery, city attorney, presented to the council an ordinance to further regulate the keeping of livestock within the city limits. The ordinance stated that the licenses of all livestock would run for one year at which time a renewal would be required.

LOYALTY NEEDED, SPEAKER DECLARES

situation as only a racket are as blind as the Bourbons on the eve of the French Revolution."

Must Take Interest
The general citizenry must secure information on what is going on and give that information careful consideration and take an active interest in government or our democratic institutions are at stake and the wrong trends prevailing will get control, the speaker declared.

"We may go along for a time and survive another depression, perhaps, but the end is in sight, unless we understand what freedom means and understand the sacrifices it will take to hold it, or the cruelties and injustices of an inferior civilization will come," he declared.

Oregon is fortunate in having less disorder than many of the states. "I am a republican, but Oregon can be thankful it has as governor a man who understands the concepts of government and what is involved in maintaining it as firm and stable. Labor leaders respect the government in Oregon," Mr. Chapman said, going on then to quote some of the "realities" that are going on however, "in this orderly state."

Cites "Wrong Trends"
Recognized as one of the state's leading authorities on the labor and strike situations today, Mr. Chapman brought up several incidents of "wrong trends."

The labor situation represents the pent up feelings and resentment against injustices, stored up for years, and represents the feelings of a large throng for a change because they do not like what has been done in the past. All employers too, realize they have been guilty of many mistakes; and there is a widespread feeling in the hearts of humble people that they do not want their fate, that is their career, set by some one else, the speaker said.

In thinking over these undercurrents, citizens must have ever, awaken to some of the realities of the day and understand what form the trends are taking, he added.

Restaurant Situation
Mentioning many specific phases of labor organizing, Mr. Chapman told of several incidents in Oregon. Taking up the restaurant situation he pointed out how the hiring hall system has sent up expenses to terrific percentages. Forcing the restaurants to join, even where wages paid were higher than those in the unions, the unions through hiring halls send the help as they please and employees in so sub-divided salaries and not to pay more. As a result, the expense of places are being forced out of first as many of the smaller firms are being forced out of being allowed to sell on credit at night, a type of trade credit their classification.

Flays Lumber Situation
The speaker likewise flayed the lumber industry. Despite the fact that was organized as a well-planned group to reform the 4-1, the Wagner act, the unions areing themselves on the same as he said.

"These elections are not held, however, until the unions are sure they will be favored unions," Mr. Chapman declared. The administration. "The election was elected the last time for labor relations board would glove with organized labor is what it organized labor came to employes and to ally alike with many promises, indicating both "were sold out."

The questions facing the citizenry today are: "Are we to make the sacrifices demanded to uphold our democratic form of government, or are we working for interest only? Are we against our competitors, who for a closed shop?" Mr. Chapman asked.

"Closed shop means but a stable economic effort—It means a general slowing of economic production, fewer jobs and tation on those jobs. It means bricklayer's son must be a not a clerk or anything else to become," the speaker declared.
