

NUT GROWERS WILL TOUR LANE COUNTY AUGUST 25 AND 26

Lane county nut growers will be visited on Aug. 25 and 26 by nut growers and others interested during the annual summer tour of the Western Nut Growers' association. This tour will not be so much a journey to visit orchards as it will be to make a study of developments during the past several years.

The first two days of the tour will be spent in visiting Lane county orchards and the third day will be spent at a meeting at McNamara and visiting several orchards in that locality. O. S. Fletcher, county agricultural agent, has charge of arrangements for this end of the tour. The itinerary in Lane county follows:

August 25
9:30 a. m.—Meet at north end of Ferry street and the bridge on way to Coburg. Then to H. E. Wylie and son, Walnut and walnut of various ages. Walnut kill in walnuts and the effect of soil on the amount and type of winter kill on walnuts. Dryers, graders, washers, and nut cracker. Then to M. D. Almark. This place was formerly owned by Professor F. G. Young and was visited several years ago. Since that time the orchard has been partially thinned and irrigation has been used on the orchard.

1:30 p. m.—Meet at Springfield. Then to Ben Dorris. From this place to Manning Leonard's orchard. Pruning walnuts and filberts. Irrigation of filberts with high and low pressure systems. The effect of soil on the trees. We will see filberts of all ages and sizes. Wormy filbert investigations by R. G. Thompson.

August 26
9:30 a. m.—Meet at north end of Ferry street and the bridge on way to Coburg. Same as the first day. Then to Mrs. J. O. Holt. Walnut root trouble and its control. Dr. Paul W. Miller will discuss walnut blight control. Chestnuts, Chinese and many hybrid varieties; lack of affinity between the root and top. Some varieties now 7 years old appear all right. Grafting chestnuts. Black walnuts, butternuts, etc.

DRUGGIST WILL SELL MEDICINE 4 DAYS AT 25c

Stevenson's Drug Stores
Surprise Public; Preparations
Made for Large Crowds.

It sounds almost unbelievable—yet it is true—that for 25c you can obtain a Trial Bottle of a Medicine that has become famous, the full price of which is $1.25. Indeed, it seems impossible, but the Stevenson's Store at 1016 Willamette is actually making this offer for four days. Anyone with a coupon from the Register-Guard may purchase, with 25c, tomorrow, Thursday, Friday or Saturday this week.

Why Offer Is Made

People become discouraged with a medicine that does not help them, so we feel it is only fair that sufferers should have a chance to try the medicine first for 25c, and if it helps them, we believe they will gladly pay the full price for future purchases.

What It Is

The medicine referred to is not a cure-all. It is a new, scientific formula containing 30 ingredients, and not one a habit-forming drug. It is known as Van-Tage and is taken after meals so it mixes with the sufferer's food, thus bringing relief in cases of misery, so common among suffering people today, described below.

STOMACH: Van-Tage brings forth acid gas and bloating from stomach and intestines, giving Blessed Relief from Bloating Pressure and Gas Pain in Stomach and Chest; Improving Appetite and Digestion.

BOWELS: It acts on Bowels as a Laxative and helps clear out old, decayed food waste, relieving headaches, coated tongue, bad taste, skin eruptions and foul breath, caused by inactive, clogged bowels.

KIDNEYS: Van-Tage acts as a Splendid Diuretic to Stimulate Kidneys, thereby helping Nature flush out the impurities from kidneys and bladder which cause backache, sharp pains, fiery irritated bladder and broken sleep from night rising.

LIVER: It stimulates Liver Bile Flow, relieving biliousness, worn-out feeling and sick headache, caused thereby.

RHEUMATIC PAIN: Van-Tage relieves the awful pain of rheumatic and neuritic trouble, when due to poisonous accumulations in Bowels and stomach; helps avoid the forming of toxic poisons in kidneys and blood-stream.

Now, whether Van-Tage will help you or not it has thousands of others—whether it will relieve your suffering in a day or a week remains to be seen. But in light of what it has done for others, it is surely a mistake not to try it for 25c, a fraction of its actual value. This introductory offer is good 4 days ONLY, so clip the coupon at once. Do this in fairness to yourself and your family.

BREAD GOES UP.
PORTLAND, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The bakery industry's four-man labor policy board decided yesterday without coming to a decision. The bakers are divided on whether to raise prices on all bread or only one and one-half pound loaves. Price increases are already in effect in other sections of the state.

IRRIGATION TOUR BEGINS THURSDAY

Five Lane county farms under irrigation will be visited by irrigation enthusiasts of the Willamette valley and other sections of the state on the first day of the eighth annual Willamette valley irrigation tour Thursday. The tour is sponsored by the Oregon State college extension service, with the office of O. S. Fletcher, county agricultural agent, co-operating in Lane county.

First the Thibodeau farm six miles north of Eugene will be visited. Here a portable revolving sprinkler method of irrigation is used. This will be at 9 o'clock. At 10:30 the farm of Truman Chase on the Willamette river across from Eugene will be visited. Mr. Chase has 40 acres of beans and other vegetables under irrigation and uses two electric pumping plants, pumping water from the river.

The irrigators will then have lunch at the Osburn hotel where E. A. McCormick, manager of the Eugene Fruit Growers' association, will speak on "Irrigation of Vegetables for Canning Purposes."

Ben Dorris' farm a mile south of Springfield is on the itinerary at 1:30 p. m. and following, at 2:30, the party will visit Frank Bartholomew's farm north of Springfield, in the McKenzie bottom. The last place will be the Cloverleaf dairy, two and a half miles north of Eugene, where forage crops are irrigated by a gravity system.

The second day of the tour will be spent in the lower valley.

bitten several children and a woman, the defense placed both Mr. and Mrs. Burns on the stand. They testified that the dog was never allowed to run at large. Others testified that they had not seen the dog outside the inclosure at the Burns home.

Frank Reid, attorney for Burns, in addressing the jury admitted that the dog, according to evidence, was technically vicious but asked the jury to acquit his client because he claimed it has not proved that the animal was allowed to run at large.

Meanwhile the dog is still alive and there appears to be no law providing for its disposal. Burns, on the witness stand, said he had had an offer for the dog, and that if he did not sell it he probably would send it to the country.

SPEAKER AT LIONS DISCUSSES BURMA

The wealthiest nation in Asia, where the poorest man has at least one silk outfit, was described to Eugene Lions Wednesday noon when Dr. G. A. Odgers, dean of Multnomah college, Portland, and visiting professor in education at the university summer school this summer, spoke to the club on Burma. Dr. Odgers spent two years as an instructor in Hangoon in a boys' boarding school.

Burma has never known famine or poverty, the speaker said. Their temples and religious statues are crusted with valuable jewels, testifying to the wealth of the area which has long resented the English dominance in India.

Color is a dominant factor in the life of the average Burmese, it being reflected in his dress, ornaments and buildings. Instead of ordinary buttons, most Burmese clothes have large pearls, diamonds or other gems, he said.

"The Burmese are known as the 'Irish of the East,' they love color, whiskey and how they can fight!" In a land noted for its numerous holidays, the Festival of Lights is an outstanding event, Dr. Odgers said. Candles are fastened along window sills, ledges and other parts of the buildings and when the entire city of 400,000 is lighted in this fashion it is considered one of the beauties of the east, he declared.

Noted for its teak production, the teak forests of Burma are under government control and every teak tree in the country is numbered, Dr. Odgers said. The government permits only a certain amount of timber to be cut each year and operates on a sustained yield basis so that there will always be a sufficient quantity of the wood.

Hugh Currin, delegates to the international convention at Chicago this summer, gave a short report on his trip east, and Elmer Keller, delegate to the convention at Medford, gave a short report.

Arrangements have been made with the Private Fliers group in Eugene to fly their planes over the camp at night so that the demonstration can include picking out these planes as they attempt to evade the beams. Approval of this plan awaits the final OK of the commanding officer of the unit, however.

As a special feature, the five searchlights are to be trained on the sky at 9 o'clock Thursday evening and left stationary for a period of about ten minutes during which time amateur photographers may snap the powerful beams as they light the skies.

Official greetings to the troops will be tendered by Mayor Elsie Large, Queen Susannah IV (LaVonne Ledahl) members of the Eugene chapter of commerce and reserve officers. A program of entertainment for the officers of the Elks club. Details of the entertainment for the unit here are being worked out by Lt. Orville Lesley, of the reserves.

The value of the estate of Maurice D. Allen, Lane county pioneer, who died near Junction City Aug. 15 at the age of 81 years, is estimated at $250,000, according to the petition for the appointment of an executor of his will filed in probate court Wednesday.

The property is all cash and securities and he owned no real estate, according to the petition. The will provides that the property shall be divided share and share alike among his children, Jasper Elbert Allen, Melvina Ann Parkerson, Mary L. Ferguson, Roscoe Clarence Allen, John Thomas Allen, Grace Pearl Humphrey and Claude Ellsworth Allen. Jasper and Roscoe Allen were named in the will as executors.

Mr. Allen settled on a farm in the Cheshire district west of Junction City in the early days and had been engaged in farming until a few years ago.

Following the concert, the demonstration of equipment will be held. The unit has five three-inch anti-aircraft guns mounted on trucks, each with a trailer with fire control systems. Handling of these guns will be demonstrated along with the display of the five giant searchlights carried by the troops. These lights have a circumference of 10 inches and develop 1,200,000 candle power. It is said that a newspaper can be read by the light of the beam at a distance of 20 miles. In addition, five sound locators will be demonstrated. These are used to locate airplanes coming toward the unit.

PRESIDENT SLAPS AT PLAN CRITICS

an English historian toward America's attempt to found a democratic government. Lord Macaulay wrote in 1857 to an American friend who had written a book on Thomas Jefferson. Macaulay disapproved of Jeffersonian theories of democracy, saying:

"But the time will come when New England will be as thickly populated as old England. Wages will be as low and will fluctuate as much with you as with us. You will have your Manchester and Birmingham, and in those Manchester and Birmingham will assuredly be sometimes out of work. Then your institutions will be fairly brought to the test."

The president declared that he is "just as strongly in favor of the security of property and the maintenance of order as Lord Macaulay, or as the American Macaulays who thunder today."

"And," he added, "in this the American people are with me, too. But we cannot go along with the tory instance that salvation lies in the vesting of power in the hands of a select class, and that if America does not come to that system, America will perish."

"I seek no change in the form of American government. Majority rule must be preserved as a safeguard to both liberty and civilization."

RIVAL UNIONS START BATTLE

ficials there charged Paddock with "disturbing the peace." Paddock declared that he had a right to address the strikers.

The strike developed last week when officials of the company discharged a union leader, charging him with smoking against company regulations.

Strikers in Front of Plant
On Tuesday and Wednesday, strikers held on company property, awaiting further results. About 25 men were involved.

It appeared Wednesday, however, that the AFL council would take extraordinary steps to combat inroads of the CIO organizers. Letters have been received here from William Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters and Joiners, parent union to the AFL lumber workers, demanding that all AFL locals join in boycotting CIO-produced goods.

A district council meeting was also scheduled for Wednesday evening at Elmira. Whether any official recognition of the issue would be given was not known.

Schaeffer, Madden and other officials did not hesitate Wednesday to term the action of AFL sympathizers at Oakridge "dictatorial."

Question Slated Again
Madden disclosed that at the next meeting of the Oakridge local, the question would be brought up again, and that campaigns would also start in other locals. He declared that 101 chapters, covering 72 per cent of the former AFL membership, had been installed.

Meanwhile, Paddock and other council officials were preparing for a special convention at Longview, Wash., this week-end, at which time a new AFL federation will be formed as a counter-association to the Woodworkers. Fifteen Lane delegates will attend.

Statement of the CIO organizers on the Oakridge session follows:

"A motion was made that the regular order of business be suspended and the question of CIO be taken up."

RELICS FOUND OF PIONEER RADICAL

Portland never realized his dreams of moving to the Fort Rock valley. He was very much a family man. Babies kept arriving to interrupt the family pioneering. Maybe he was lucky. When the "dry cycles" came, the Fort Rock settlements withered and literally blew away. The plowing of the fertile grasslands proved a tragic mistake. Only one or two ranches near deep wells have been able to survive.

Mother-in-law Too!
Or maybe the Portland "commonwealth" was vetoed by the sterner sex. He writes revealingly:

"The Rose Show is on. I think there is 140 million in Portland. My mother-in-law is down. God bless her. I wish to hell a automobile would run over her. Fine old lady but you can't expect a man to love his mother-in-law. I took her and my wife and the babies out Thursday to the show and the parade. Never turned a hair. Toughest old bird I ever saw."

No wonder he longed for "Home on the Range."
