

Old Cemetery May Be Given to University

Proposal Suggested Means of Making More Attractive

Plans to turn the old I.O.O.F. cemetery over to the University for the purpose of saving the tract from further deterioration and the university from the expense of its maintenance because of its dilapidated and unsightly condition, was discussed at a meeting of the I.O.O.F. Cemetery association at the courthouse Friday night.

The resolution was adopted at the meeting proposing such action be taken to transform the cemetery into a memorial park that would be an asset to the university and that portion of the city and an eyesore as it appeared at the present time.

Close Roadway The plan as proposed at the meeting would be to close the roadway leading from Alder street to the cemetery and provide another entrance to the tract from the street on the south.

The resolution as adopted further that the cemetery shall convey all of the lots now held by it to the university as burial lots only and that it shall release to the university all of its rights, title and interest in the roadway mentioned. It is stipulated that in consideration therefore the university shall agree to keep all of the lots in good condition, regardless of whether or not any burials are made in them and that it shall also agree to undertake to keep up the streets and alleys leading to the cemetery and to the lots and that the association shall consent to such work and care of the streets and alleys.

The Odd Fellows Cemetery association of Eugene was organized in 1880 and acquired the tract from the I.O.O.F. lodge of Eugene, which owns and operates another cemetery west of the city. The association owns all streets and alleys and those lots not sold off and has not been able to sell the remaining lots for enough money for the upkeep and improvement of the property. In the resolution adopted at the meeting the association declares: "As a result of which said cemetery is now unkept and a place of approach and desolation and is being worse from year to year."

Further in the resolutions it stated: "The University of Oregon should be, for the protection of the campus and for the betterment of its activities at such university, interested in taking possession, upkeep and improvement of said cemetery as a memorial park if it could be given to the university and power to do so, is more than ample in the present state of the campus in its present condition."

Committees are expected to be appointed to work toward the consummation of the plan.

Writer Invited to Go Tuna Fishing, But Time Element Is Still Somewhat Uncertain

Independent Judge Candidate Rumor

By SID KIN

Rumors that an independent judge would spring into the picture in the near future, floated along Willamette street Saturday, but they were so vague no one had been able to probe deeply enough into the mysterious depths of political machinations to determine the facts, if any.

From what could be heard, it appeared that some elements were dissatisfied with the candidates presented by the two parties, claiming they were too "conservative," and that a more "liberal" candidate should be in the running. Just why Republican Clinton Hurd and Democratic N. E. Glass were so conservative and along what lines a more liberal candidate would stage his candidacy could not be ascertained.

Veteran political observers, hearing the rumor, put it down to the wishes of some group to sponsor a successful candidate, with the conservative and liberal signs tacked on for voter consumption. No suggested candidate could be heard discussed as yet, but it was said a name might be brought into the open in the near future.

Organized party campaigns were getting under way slowly here, but intensive work will not be started till after Labor day, party leaders said.

Democratic central committee officials will meet with Frank Tierney, state party head, Wednesday, to discuss plans for raising Lane county's share of the democratic war chest for this campaign. Lane county's quota has been set at $600, the state at large being expected to raise $15,000 for furthering party candidates in the election. Place and time of the meeting will be announced later, according to Marvin T. Warlick, county central committee chairman.

A committee for the Oregon Republican Clubs, headed by E. G. Boehnke, Eugene, is studying opinions of voters with the view of formulating a statement on the platform desired by the voters. This will be ready for the republican candidates to use in their intensive campaign. Other Eugene members of the committee are Mrs. J. L. Hesse and Dr. Victor P. Morris.

From Portland Saturday came the interesting story that it would be from James (He Got It) Roosevelt that would come the word as to who was in high favor at New Deal headquarters in the Oregon campaign this fall. The story had it that Jimmy would let Oregon voters know whom to vote for this year when it comes time to pick representatives to go to Washington and of course, advance information indicated at least Willis Mahoney, democratic

Child Drowned in Pool as Mother Naps

CORVALLIS, Aug. 20.—Mrs. Ilene Gale, recently of Medford, was at work on a farm near here Friday while her three-year-old daughter, Shirley Ann, played nearby.

The mother laid down to rest, fell asleep. When she awoke the child was gone. A search revealed the child's body in the shallow pool of a spring. Efforts at resuscitation were unavailing.

By DICK STRITE

The question: Is albacore tuna fishing off the coast of Oregon a practical sport for the butcher, the baker and the candle-stick maker who must work eight hours per day and do their angling on Sunday.

Apparently this writer has stirred up a hornet's nest by claiming the sport, to date, must be crossed off the list as a practical one—that there has been no conclusive proof that tuna have been caught on rod and reel on a one-day jaunt.

The Astoria chamber of commerce—backed by sportsmen and skippers—and Depoe Bay "excursion" boat captains have taken exception to the report made following a jaunt taken by the writer and a party of Eugene fishermen off Newport last week-end.

Although the controversy has been confined to the three ports, reports are expected from Tillamook, Florence, Waldport, Winchester Bay, Reedsport and Taft before many days.

The writer has admitted that tuna can be taken off Oregon's coast on sports tackle, but that the sport is not practical unless a craft is chartered for more than 12 hours.

In their arguments, both Depoe Bay and Astoria have pointed out that tuna fishing is here for the general run of sportsmen, but have not stated specifically that the fish are caught on a one-day jaunt.

Toni Cuning, secretary of the Astoria chamber of commerce, made the following statement to the Oregonian last Saturday: "The chamber of commerce invites Mr. Strite to come down here and go tuna fishing. We will take him out as our guest, guarantee him plenty of fish and convince him that he was too premature in crossing this sport off the list."

Captain T. B. Cook of the good ship "Susan" of Astoria has this to say: "Strite should come to the Columbia river, Newport isn't the only fishing port in Oregon, as he indicates. It is necessary to run 35 miles or more offshore."

Murderer to Leave Prison to Continue Study of Dentistry

SALEM, Aug. 20.—Dale Lawson, who at age 15 shot Mrs. George A. Dickinson to death with a shotgun near Independence, Ore., will leave the state penitentiary here September 1 under a pardon which was granted by Governor Charles H. Martin in order that the young man, now 23, may continue his study of dental mechanics. He will be under the supervision of Dr. Floyd H. Utter, member of the parole board, and E. M. Duffy, parole officer.

Since entering the prison Lawson has been isolated from other prisoners, being employed in the prison hospital, and has been thoroughly rehabilitated, parole board members reported to the governor.

Furthermore he has shown exceptional aptitude in medical and dental study, and plans to prepare himself to be a dental technician. The boy was employed on the Dickinson farm, and shot Mrs. Dickinson in the course of an altercation, April 30, 1930.

Nazis Charge Britisher Acted As Spy

Captain Kendrick Is Ordered Deported From Reich Dominion

By FREDERICK C. OEHNSNER
BERLIN, Aug. 20.—Germany today named as a spy Captain Thomas J. Kendrick, mysteriously imprisoned passport officer of the British consulate in Vienna, and ordered his deportation from the reich "within the shortest possible time."

All German newspapers, in obviously inspired comment, asserted that Kendrick had confessed to spying on the reich's military secrets and demanded that Britain cease using diplomatic privileges for espionage purposes.

The British consular official and reserve army officer, seized by German gестаapo (secret police) agents Thursday as he motored near Salzburg on route to England, with his wife for a vacation, was released from Vienna's Hotel Metropole "political prison" shortly after noon.

Two and a half hours later he and his wife left Vienna by automobile, supposedly for the Swiss or Italian frontier on their way to England.

The Geman press, commenting on an official announcement that "proof" of Kendrick's military espionage activities had been obtained, said that his release without trial was "proof of the fact that Germany attaches the highest value to good relations with England."

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said that Kendrick confessed to having engaged in military espionage against Germany and that is a very serious matter, particularly since an English diplomatic official is involved.

It was pointed out that Germany could have proceeded in "a much more severe manner."

There was widespread suspicion in England that Kendrick might have been seized as a Nazi "re-entrant" because he had assisted scores of Jewish and other refugees in leaving Austria after the German "anschluss" in mid-March.

On many occasions Kendrick kept his office open 13 or 14 hours a day, distributing 200 or more visas to anti-Nazi emigres.

Pressure Irrigation Feasible For General Crops Tour Shows

By DARRELL ELLIS

That pressure irrigation from buried pipelines is not confined, by reason of expense, to canneries crops, was demonstrated to over 100 farmers and dairymen Friday afternoon on the last leg of the two-day irrigation tour started Thursday.

Devoted exclusively to field and pasture crops, the tour included stops at dairy farms where pasture lands up to 120 acres in size were underlain with main line pipes and irrigated with sprinklers. Initial cost of the irrigating equipment in every case was regained through increased crop yield, farmer-owners of the layouts testified.

Almost 50 cars were on hand at the Berg brothers farm on High Banks road northeast of Springfield, where the tour started. Under the guidance of O. S. Fletcher, county agricultural agent, crowds were taken first to a 50-acre alfalfa field which was being watered by flood system from pressure developed at a pump house some distance away. Ten-inch slip-joint pipe connected to an underground main line irrigates this field at the rate of 650 gallons per minute, one of the Berg brothers said.

Reds Plotted To Control Bourbon Party

Mrs. Roosevelt, Other Nation Leaders Said Duped By Communists

By RUSSELL TURNER
WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—A former communist party worker today testified before the house committee investigating un-American activities that communists plotted to gain control of the democratic party and that scores of prominent Americans have been duped into aiding the communist cause.

J. B. Matthews, former journalist and college professor, told the committee that he had aided in setting up 20-odd "front" organizations while working for the party.

Left Red Party Matthews said that he left the communist organization because he became disgusted with communism and its practices. He suggested that committee members "read the Daily Worker tomorrow" if they have any doubt that he no longer is a communist sympathizer.

He asserted that: 1. Communist leaders in Moscow drew up a definite plan to infiltrate the U. S. government and gain control of the democratic party.

2. William Allen White, noted Emporia, Kan., newspaper editor, Former Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey, and a score of other prominent Americans were "duped" into spreading communist propaganda by sponsoring the American Youth Congress, which Matthews said he had helped organize as a communist front.

3. The wife of a president of the United States, by addressing a meeting of the Youth Congress, helped the communistic cause. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt addressed the annual meeting of the Youth Congress, now meeting at Vassar college, a few days ago.

4. He also helped organize the American League Against War and Fascism, now the American League for Peace and Democracy, as another front organization. The league has figured prominently in testimony before the organization and frequently has been branded communistic, but its members denied any communistic connections.

5. Heywood Brown, newspaper columnist and president of the American Newspaper Guild, told him he was going to leave the socialist party in order to "have greater freedom to work with the communists."
