Livestock Judging Contest Slated

A big stock-judging contest, under the direction of M. C. Buchanan, agricultural instructor in the Eugene vocational school, is scheduled at the Lane county fair Saturday, beginning at 9:45 a. m.

The R. A. Babb Hardware company of Eugene is putting up an 18-inch Sun Gold trophy cup for the winning team. This is to be a rotating cup similar to those offered at other fairs with three wins necessary to gain permanent possession. Ribbons will also be offered for individual place winners.

There will be classes in sheep, swine, beef cattle and two or three in dairy cattle.

Flowers are held in reverence in Japan, and natives are taught to bow low before inspecting them.

Czechs Give In To Powers' Demands

since then the republic had resorted to every device short of threat of war to avoid injury to the country.

It explained the offer by Czechoslovakia to negotiate the dispute, precipitated by the German minority's demands, first for autonomy and then for union with Germany, in a spirit of compromise was found inadequate by both Britain and France.

Demand Action
A demarche from the two powers followed and Czechoslovakia saw no way out but to yield to what the communiqué called "dynamic political forces" which were sweeping over Europe.

But the communiqué, which brought official news, ended on a note of confidence for the future.

"It is the beginning of a new period in the history of the country," it said.

But whether Prague in particular and Czechoslovakia in general would accept the new state of affairs with the calmness and discipline which the government asked remained a big question a half hour after the announcement.

Crowds began parading through streets of the capital, shouting and milling about.

Czechoslovaks were excited and authorities were apprehensive as to what the night might bring.

But while Prague was dejected and there was an undercurrent of anger, great crowds formed joyful processions in the country's Sudeten German districts.

Sudeten Germans expected German troops would be marching in at any moment.

and weighs 36½ pounds. It was grown without irrigation. Also included in the Central display is a collection of Red Cross and tuberculosis Christmas seal stamps.

The first one is dated 1907. A violin made in Italy in 1640 is also on display. The instrument belongs to Ben Mayo. Oh yes, the huge melon was grown by David Swenson.

Creswell's exhibit features one of the largest pumpkins at the fair. Santa Clara's show is among the most artistic.

Franklin grange features a log cabin set off from a rocky road of filberts.

In Mapleton's exhibit is a 25 pound Chinook salmon, "from the best end of Route F" boasted the lady in charge. It's among the first of the run, she said.

In the horse barns the fair patron shouldn't miss the steeds of Wayne L. Morse of Edgewood Stables. Mr. Morse is also known as dean of the University of Oregon law school.

Georgia Dale, daughter of a Eugene physician, has her horses at the fair. Miss Dale has just entered the university.

Bob Merz, Ada, was found in the Four-H club barn Wednesday morning having quite a wrestle with his five-months-old Jersey calf, Janice. The blond youngster explained he was scraping the animal's horns so they'd shine when the judges arrived. He boasted his calf won first prize at the Western Lane fair at Florence.

In the floral display, the Shirley Temple gladiola appeals with its creamed petals. The popular glad was introduced from the bulb farm

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD
Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach, about eight inches long, is the most important organ of the body. When you eat badly, you get indigestion, gas, heartburn, or other troubles. You feel uncomfortable, and you don't enjoy your food. You don't get the best out of your food. You don't get the most out of your life.

There's a way to keep your stomach happy and healthy. It's called "ARRID." It's a natural, harmless, and effective stomach aid. It helps you digest your food, and it keeps your stomach healthy. You feel better, and you enjoy your food more. You get the most out of your life.
