Large Extra Eggs Down One Cent

Eugene Markets

About the only change reported in Eugene market prices Saturday was a reduction of a cent a dozen in Swift's buying price of New York grade large extra eggs. They dropped from 17 to 16 cents.

Wheat remained at 68 cents and vegetables were at a standstill. The local market price list follows:

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Weakness in securities prompted increased selling of wheat futures here late today and prices temporarily dipped ¾ cents. The market, however, received enough support from commission houses to restore it to about yesterday's closing prices.

Some selling also developed in corn and prices broke the 52 cents a bushel level for May and 53 for July. Considerable of the demand for May corn was filled in the early trade.

Wheat closed unchanged to ¼ off, May and July 69¾-⅞, September 80¼; corn ¼-⅜ off, May 51⅝-½, July 52¾-⅞; oats unchanged to ⅛ off, May 28⅛-28; rye unchanged to ¼ off, May 46⅛; lard unchanged to 5 cents off.

BOSTON WOOL

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—(AP)—(USDA)—Fair weights of domestic wools were sold in the Boston market during the past week. Sizeable quantities of fine territory wools in original bags moved at fair to rising prices. Slight advances in prices were realized in several grades of graded territory wools. Combing bright fleece wools were moderately active at steady prices, and fine Delaine at 28 to 31 cents, in the grease, 29 to 31 cents for ¼ blood, 31 to 32 cents for ¾ blood and slightly firmer on ¼ blood at 31 to 32 cents, in the grease.

New York Markets

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—(AP)— Stocks toppled 1 to around 4 points in today's market as traders scurried to cover on fears of another European flare-up in the wake of the ousting of Dr. Schacht as president of the German reichsbank.

Dealings were fairly active from the start, but offerings expanded in the final half-hour sufficiently to put the ticker tape behind for a brief interval. There were some come-backs near the close, but recovery tendencies were scarce in most departments. Transfers were 657,389 shares for the two hours.

News on the domestic front was moderately cheering, but speculative forces were said to have developed more apprehension than usual over the foreign outlook and tightening of commitments was the rule after the opening.

Steels, motors, aircrafts, rubbers, rails, specialties and even some of the recently buoyant utilities were in the forefront of the day's retreat.

The bond market turned tail after a hesitant step forward and as the short session closed losses of fractions to over a point were plentiful.

U. S. governments edged forward but gains were meager. Except for mild pressure against some German loans, the foreign dollar group was quiet.

GERMANY TO HELP

BERLIN, Jan. 21.—(AP)—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, today assured George Rublee, American director of the intergovernmental refugee committee, that Germany was ready to continued trying to find ways of sending her Jews abroad.

While some of the dinosaurs of the prehistoric world walked on all four feet, others walked upright.

alignment," he said, "but I was wrong. There was a strong revolt against the president's purge and while it was not vocal, it was there."

"To command nature, we must first obey nature. This principle has been recognized and applied in science. Napoleon could have had an automobile because the laws of physics and science were there if they had known how to obey them. The same thing must apply to social fields."

Allen Toastmaster

Introduced by Toastmaster Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism at the university, Governor Sprague, assured his audience that if they became convinced of errors in his judgment, he did not ask them to "spare the editorial rod."

Other speakers who made brief talks were Lars Bladine, president of the State Editorial association; Hugh Ball, president of the conference; Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter, Dr. David O. Erb, president of the university.

Members of Sigma Delta Chi, national honorary journalism fraternity, staged a short stunt, "Professor Whiz," at the end of the program. Publishers of weekly and daily newspapers in the state formed teams for questions put by Warren Waldorf, acting as "Professor Whiz." The daily publishers were declared victors and received a box of cigars.

LOCAL ITEMS FIRST

Declaring that local news and pictures constitute the best stock in trade of the modern newspaper, Arthur L. Crookham, city editor of the Oregon Journal in Portland, advised Oregon newspapermen to return emphasis to news in his talk before sessions of the Oregon Press conference at the university.

Decrying the many "keyhole peepers' columns," other special features and stunts, the Portland editor stressed the fact that the great service the newspaper can render its readers was to relate happenings of the day. He called attention to the situation caused by the newspaper strike in Portland last year which emphasized the public's demand for local news.

"The radio pirates news from newspapers and this should be stopped," the speaker said in making the point that while news broadcasts distribute considerable information, that information must first be told the radio and the only sources for such information are the newspapers and their organizations.

Home Town Important

The reading public wants home town news, accurately reported and distributed while it is still news, he said, in urging greater and better display of local news stories. So much telegraph news comes to all newspaper offices nowadays and is handy and ready for use that local coverage frequently suffers, he declared.

Intelligent selection of correspondents, adequate pay for their services, careful training and certain publication of their reports are necessary if rural news coverage is to be successful, Gordon G. Macnab, Oregon Journal copy reader told the conference in a paper on improving rural correspondence.

He stressed the importance of this form of news and urged that rural correspondents be given training to enable them to present their news properly. Rural news should receive the same handling that is accorded local and telegraph reports, he said.

A discussion of recent libel suits involving newspapers of the northwest was given by Charles Hulten, of the school of journalism faculty.

He reported on several suits and reviewed legal decisions on the question of libel, slander and defamation.

the emigration of German Jews. It had been indicated the conversations with George Rublee, American director of the intergovernmental refugee committee, would be terminated upon Schacht's dismissal. Schacht had proposed an emigration plan linking Jewish emigration with increses in German foreign trade.

Informed persons predicted Dr. Schacht would become Hitler's confidential man and traveling salesman abroad in quickened nazi creases in German foreign trade.

The veteran nazi financial helmsman cleaned off the reichsbank desk he used in 1923 to stem post-war inflation. It appeared clearer in financial circles that his dismissal by Hitler yesterday involved Schacht's fear that uncontrolled spending might lead again to inflation.

The assumption of all financial and ecomonic power by less orthodox nazi leaders than Schacht will mean, in the opinion of competent observers, that credit inflation faucets will be opened wide to enable nazi spending for armaments, fortifications and public buildings to go ahead full speed.

Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels emerged from a month's retirement following an intestinal illness with a caustic four-column article in Hitler's newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter on German-American relations. It was headed: "What Does America Really Want?"

Goebbels advised the United States "to return to the old established methods of international courtesy." He added he viewed the further development of German-American relations with "deep apprehensions."

Asia ambitions in what was considered by some to be the most important statement of Japanese foreign policy in her history.

"What Japan desires is the creation of a new order which is to secure the permanent peace of east Asia, that is to say the construction of a new east Asia upon an ethical foundation wherein Japan, Manchoukuo and China, while each is preserving her independence and individuality, will stand united and linked together for active collaboration and mutual aid along all lines of political, economic and cultural activities," he said.

"It is the firm conviction of the Japanese government that such a new order is not only absolutely necessary for the existence and healthy development of Japan, Manchoukuo and China, but also is conducive to the real peace and well-being of the whole world."

was "down and completely disabled."

The Cavalier carried eight passengers, according to a list released here by the Pan American Airways, which cooperates with the Imperial Airways on the Bermuda route.

The passengers are: Mrs. George Ingham, Hamilton, Bermuda; Mrs. Edna Watson, Bermuda; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Miller, Lincoln, Neb.; Charles Talbot, Brookline, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. John Noakes, Malba, Long Island; Miss Nellie Smith, Bermuda.

The crew: M. R. Alderson, captain; Neil Richardson, first officer; Patrick Chapman, radio officer; David Williams and Robert Spence, steward.

One of the coast guard planes which can carry 10 passengers, took off at 2:14 p. m. from Floyd Bennett field and was piloted by Lieut. J. F. McCue who expected to reach the Cavalier in about two hours. His Fokker seaplane has a capacity of 10 passengers. The other coast guard plane took off at 2:40 p. m. and was piloted by C. H. Allen. His Hall flying boat can carry 20 persons.

Harrison's Hollywood Happenings

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21.—Leon Turrou, the man who knows more than anybody, probably, about foreign espionage in this country, has come to Movietown to help the Brothers Warner put some of his facts and experiences into celluloid.

The picture, which is arousing interest and speculation because it may draw some heavy repercussions from abroad, is "Confessions of a Nazi Spy."

Turrou is the former G-man who did most of the work in rounding up the German operatives who were convicted in New York recently.

The Real Lowdown

The studio's announced intention is to make this almost wholly a factual picture. Movies were made in the courtroom, and these will be cut into the feature, along with some verbatim remarks of the jurist and prosecutor. Turrou's own name will be used by the actor impersonating him, and the names of the 18 defendants also may be used. The result probably will be a cross between a March of Time reel and a Charlie Chan melodrama.

Testimony and evidence at the actual trial revealed that the spies mostly were an amazingly naive lot, skulking around and getting little more information than they could have obtained by writing to Washington for departmental pamphlets. Of course, Hollywood can make such activities seem quite sinister, as indeed they were—in purpose.

The picture will not have much in the way of a love theme, but there will be an opportunity for plenty of glamorous Mata Hari stuff in the story of Katherine Moog. The pretty girl-friend of one of the key spies, a Dr. Ignatz Griebl—she traveled with him to Berlin, met some government officials and had high times in the night clubs. There was some talk, she said, of establishing her in a salon in Washington, where it was presumed she could ply American officials with charm, champagne, and propaganda.

Not Funny to Fuehrer

This may sound like comedy material, but it will get no laughs from Hitler and his pals. The spy trial, Turrou told me, was the first such case in which the offending nation and involved officials were publicly identified, and Warners are determined not to pull any punches. It even has declared that it will have actors impersonating Hitler, Goering and Goebbels.

Stern official protests already have been made to the Hays Office, which passed them along to Warners without reply or comment. Warners haven't replied either. This studio does not sell any pictures to Germany, but it has conferred with executives of the studios which do sell there occasionally and has been assured that they don't care a hoot if all American films are banned by the Nazis. It's impossible to get money out of Germany, and Hollywood is tired of piling up useless credits there.

But "Confessions of a Nazi Spy" is sure to make Hitler tear at his drooping forelock. Goebbels is said to be screaming that the picture is being made at the insistence of Secretary Ickes!

Wake Up, America!

Says the ex-G-man: "The facts in this picture are something the American people ought to know. It will help to make us spy-conscious. We only scratched the surface in New York, and I believe there is not a single factory in the United States which could make war materials in which there is not a German agent. But we know the system now, and many of the spies are known."

Turrou, a pleasant, thin-haired man of middle age, half French and half Polish, first came to America in 1911. He enlisted with a Russian volunteer corps in France in 1916, was twice wounded, later joined the U. S. Marine Corps. He was a member of Hoover's Moscow Famine Mission until 1923.

For 10 years he was an operative of the F. B. I., and being fluent in seven languages, was the department's star linguist. Last June he resigned to write about his experiences, and in seven months has done three books and some magazine stories. His first book, "Nazi Spies in America," will be out soon—long before the picture is completed.

GO TO W. C. T. U. EVENT

HARRISBURG, Jan. 21.—(Special)—Several ladies from Harrisburg and Halsey attended a meeting of the W. C. T. U. at Brownsvill recently. Miss Maude Aldrich, state lecturer, was present and spoke in the morning on "Legislation" and in the afternoon she discussed the moving picture problem. It was voted to hold a county institute while Miss Aldrich was still in the county, and the date set was Friday, January 27, at Halsey. A potluck dinner will be served at noon. The meeting will begin at 10 a. m. Those going to Brownsville from Harrisburg were: Mesdames Peter Estergard, Amelia Grimes, Jane Curtis, Rilla Owen and Ina Hughes.

The Past Noble Grands club will hold its next meeting at the hall, Friday, January 27. The ladies are planning to begin quilting on the quilt which they have recently pieced. A potluck dinner will be served at noon with Mrs. Elizabeth Moody and Mrs. Tillie Gordon as hostesses.

IN DEERHORN

DEERHORN, Jan. 21—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Lester Thompson and children, Gordon, Arlene and Lavonne, of Corvallis, were recent visitors at the home of Chris Nelson and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thoreby. Gordon, three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson who are well known here, was recovering from an accident in which he was badly bruised when the rear door of the car in which the family was riding was opened.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Finley of Roseburg were guests several days this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Brown and family.

Mrs. Osmer Stacy and daughter, Ellen, plan to spend several days this week at Portland.
