Death Of Pope Special Interest Eugene Printer

Death of Pope Pius XI was of special significance to John Nash, world renowned member of the University of Oregon faculty, since it is his most treasured possession—a copy of the papal blessing of a gift to the Vatican of his greatest work, "The Divine Comedy."

Pope Pius expressed his delight in a personal message to Nash, with the inscription, with the signature and his photograph on display in the lobby of the University of Oregon library. It is a part of Mr. Nash's collection of his numerous printed works, which includes one of the volumes of the Comedy.

The document, to which the signature and blessing is affixed, is a copy of the "Divine Comedy" by Dante Alighieri, written in 1308. It is a masterpiece of Italian literature, and is one of the greatest works of the human mind. It is a poem in three parts, the Inferno, the Purgatorio, and the Paradiso. Mr. Nash's copy is the first edition, printed in Florence of Dante Alighieri's birthplace in 1480.

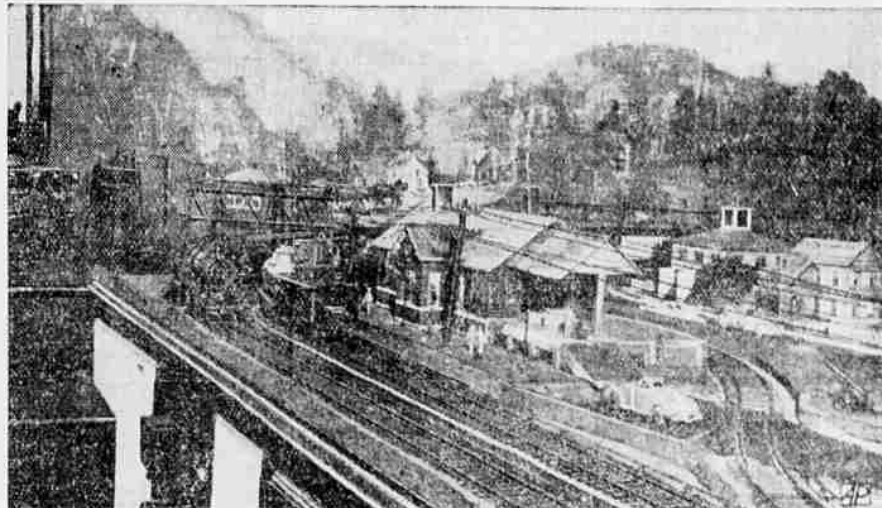

The fourteenth century poet and philosopher caused Florentine culture to not only throughout Italy but also to the neighboring nations. He was a great student of philosophy and theology. His prose, discussing politics and government, embody his idea of a new Italy in which the emperor would be recognized as the head temporal affairs and the pope supreme ruler in ecclesiastical matters.

"The Divine Comedy" is the epitome of medieval culture.

OREGON SMILING
 PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 21.—(Special)—J. Griffith, state WPA administrator, said today that Oregon is not seriously affected by the $150,000,000 cut in funds recently by congress.

THIS winding mountain road near Cerbere on the French-Spanish frontier is a traffic-jammed, one-way street as the endless train of trucks inches along, carrying Loyalist refugees to safety in France.

BUILT to scale, Howard Walters' "Railville" in Audubon, N. J. includes this village served by 3 electric engines and 15 freight cars running in and out the house foundations and around an outdoor garden over 400 feet of rails. Builder Walters is not a railroad man.

Mike Jacobs Introduces "Farm System" To Big League Boxing

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—(Special)—Branch Rickey didn't copyright the idea, anyway, so Uncle Mike Jacobs is bringing the farm system to the big league fight game.

There'll be talent scouting, minor league training and the promise of promotion to the big-time for the punch-tossers who produce in this "chain gang" system for the cauliflower industry.

In fact, it will be the same as the baseball set-up — except it won't have the eagle eye of Kenesaw M. Landis giving it the once-over lightly.

Uncle Mike, the "Yankees" of the fight game, will be the head man, of course. He announced the idea today and picked none other than your old pal Benny Leonard as his chief scout, minor league " czar" coach and general organization man.

BASKET SOCIAL HELD
 VIDA, Feb. 21.—(Special)—A basket social was held at the gymnasium last week to raise money to finance the hot lunch project for the remainder of the year. Proceeds amounted to more than $16. Special feature of the evening's entertainment was the showing of pictures by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Evans of Eugene. The pictures were taken in England, Scotland, and in the northern states, by Mr. and Mrs. Evans. Later in the evening music for dancing was furnished by Mrs. Dayton Thomson and Harley Hall.
