SHOOT OWL

OAKRIDGE, Jan. 20.—(Special)—The accurate shooting ability of Mrs. C. B. McFarland brought to end the escapades of a chicken-thieving owl at her home at the Flat Creek ranger station recently. Her attention was called to the fact that something was bothering her chickens. With her gun in hand, she raced to the chicken yard but her coming scared away the culprit. However, it landed in the timber nearby. As it was just dusk, only the profile of the bird was visible against the sky. Raising her gun, she banged away without any thought of hitting the owl, but it fell to the ground. Upon investigation she found that it was a large owl with a wing spread of 4 1/2 feet. Its body measured 18 inches in height.
