LANE COUNTY'S HOME NEWSPAPER
EUGENE, OREGON, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1940

ON STREETS 2c; NEWS STANDS 5c NO. 144

King Thanks U. S., Pledges Freedom Fight

DRUM STICKS, BEFORE COOKING. While Eugene, the county, the state and the nation—all but 16 states—were downing lots of turkey Thursday to the accompaniment of berries, chestnut dressing, celery and olives, some luckier birds were still gobbling over freedom. This flock, ready for Christmas tables, perhaps, is on a ranch near Loveland, where Forrest Benson and his dog must keep a vigilant watch for coyotes.

Eugene's Thanksgiving Day One of Quiet, Peacefulness

By MARIAN LOWRY
Thanksgiving day in Eugene was a quiet occasion, in many respects, "just another Thursday," except for the fact all business establishments and offices were closed. As usual, the holiday offered a hodgepodge of activities, suiting individual tastes, and presented the customary mixed situations and conditions were people to ponder them—in many homes, happy gatherings of relatives and friends for a day of feasting, in other homes, worries over lack of fuel for warmth, inadequate clothing, and not even a dime to buy a bowl of soup.

Icy Highway Ditches Cars

Five cars were in the ditch at one time along a stretch of the Willamette highway west of the tunnel Wednesday, due to the icy surface of the roadway, according to state police officers. A truck patrolled the highway at regular intervals to assist drivers who have such accidents.

Mayor Langlie Claims Election As Governor

SEATTLE, Nov. 21.—(AP)—Republican Mayor Arthur B. Langlie broke his silence in the heated gubernatorial election ballot contest today in a Thanksgiving day statement, urging "all loyal Washingtonians" to work together in the common interest under him as governor.
