

Lane Nut Growers Hear Specialists

Nut growers of Lane county met at the Four-H club building on the fairgrounds Tuesday afternoon to listen to specialists from the Oregon State college discuss problems in connection with the production of filberts and walnuts. The meeting was called by the Lane County Horticultural society, cooperating with O. S. Fletcher, county agent.

Thursday the annual meeting of the horticultural society will be held at the same place at 10 a. m.

At Tuesday afternoon's meeting C. E. Schuster, horticulturist and nut specialist, spoke on problems such as soil types for nuts, irrigation, maintaining soil fertility and care of trees as they increase in age. Dr. Paul W. Miller, plant pathologist, discussed the control of diseases of filberts and walnuts such as blight. There was also a discussion on control of insects that attack filberts.

In connection with the meeting of the horticultural society at 10 a. m. Thursday there will be an educational program for fruit growers. The annual business session of the society will be held in the afternoon.

JOAN BLONDELL, above, Hollywood film actress, has introduced her own line of cosmetics in Eugene. They are being handled at Miller's.

Mrs. O. L. Stacy, Mrs. Will Knox, Mrs. C. A. Jensen, Mrs. A. T. Easton and Mrs. Burt Partridge. Mrs. Guy Hills had charge of presenting the gifts which were found by the bride-elect whenever an alarm clock sounded and she hunted for her gifts. At the refreshment hour Mrs. O. L. Stacy and Mrs. Charles Jensen cut the cakes and Mrs. Will Knox the loaves. The girls assisting in serving were Carolyn Stacy, Betty Alexander, Constance Stang, Lilah Wearin, Doris Kirkpatrick, Bernice Brake, Kathryn Partridge, Janet Stacy. Mrs. Willis Glenn assisted about the rooms. Ladies attending for the afternoon were Laurel Edith Willman, Mrs. George Willman, Mrs. Guy Hills and daughter Alice who are here visiting from Vallejo, Calif., Mrs. Frank Alexander, Betty Alexander, Mrs. O. L. Stacy, Carolyn Stacy, Janet Stacy, Ellen Stacy, Constance Stang, Mrs. M. J. Wearin, Mrs. Clarence Potter, Mrs. Seth Byers of Wendling, Mrs. Everett Wearin, Lilah Wearin, Mrs. L. D. Koozer, Mrs. Grover Allison, Mrs. Elizabeth Robson, Mrs. Paul Meize.

Joan Blondell Cosmetics Here

Hollywood enters into the realm of cosmetics for women this week, with the announcement that screen star Joan Blondell has financed a cosmetics firm, complete with her own laboratories, for the purpose of marketing her personal beauty aids on a national basis. This is one of the few times that a cinema actress has started her own company for such a purpose, most stars ordinarily going no further than the endorsement of existing brands already on sale.

Miller's department store has been appointed exclusive distributor for the new Joan Blondell line, having just received their first shipment. The new line comprises 18 items, attractively packaged, ranging from skin creams to facial lotions. All these are the personal blends and formulas of Joan Blondell herself. Miss Blondell has been experimenting for some time, with a staff of cosmeticians, prior to putting them on the market, and they are now prepared under her personal supervision.

One of the most remarkable factors in Miss Blondell's presentation of her new venture to the public is the introductory offer by which she hopes to reach potential customers. Being the atre-mindful due to her long association in Hollywood, she determined to enlist theaters in her introductory campaign. And being thoroughly convinced of the excellence of her cosmetics, Miss Blondell decided to get them into the hands of her customers in the speediest manner possible, regardless of cost to herself.

The Heilig theater has been selected for that purpose in Eugene. For the next 16 weeks, one each of the 16 items in the Joan Blondell line will be given free to each lady patron attending the Heilig on Thursday evenings. There is no additional charge, either at the theater, or for the cosmetics. The Joan Blondell cosmetics which are given away at the Heilig each Thursday are the full sized packages, as now being sold by Miller's, and are not samples, as is customary.

Crone Lumber Company To Build New Mill

VENETA, Jan. 21.—(Special)—A new mill will be built by the Crone Lumber company in the near future on Dogwood Creek near Alma on the Siuslaw river. The road is under construction and when complete will be a mile and a quarter long. The county will surface the road after the grading is completed. A new dock is also being built at the Veneta mill with several extra men employed. Mr. and Mrs. John Crone of Seattle, Wash., visited in Veneta the past week.

The Veneta Community club met for its social meeting recently with three tables of pinocchle in play. Refreshments were served. The next regular meeting will be the evening of February 3. Plans for a play to be given in the near future will be discussed.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Crone were hosts at a dinner party given at their home the past week. Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Vern Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Bryant and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jorgenson. Prizes were won during the evening by Mrs. Caldwell, Mr. Bryant, Mrs. Jorgenson and Mr. Caldwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jorgenson entertained in honor of Mr. and Mrs. G. McEwan and Mrs. Peter Vignetto of Los Angeles, California and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Van Lehn. Mr. and Mrs. McEwan are the parents of Mrs. Van Lehn.

Japan Fears War With America

tremely regret such an attitude of the United States for the sake of Japanese-American friendship, for the sake of peace in the Pacific and also for the sake of peace in the world in general.

"It is my earnest hope that that great nation, exerting the influence that the United States legitimately enjoys, will realize her hope for the maintenance of peace, will reflect deeply on her attitude with God-fearing duty, and will bend her utmost efforts to avert the impending crisis of civilization."

Matsuoka said that aside from China and Manchukuo, Japan did its principal trading with the United States and Britain, but that America had put embargoes on article after article and Britain had persistently interfered with Japan's shipping.

As the result, he said, Japan "must go forward with perfecting herself as a state highly organized for national defense, not only in order to meet this pressure but also to secure her economic life on a basis of self supply and self sufficiency within the region of greater East Asia."

Lane County Speech Group Will Meet Here Saturday

Designed to regulate and promote interest in inter-scholastic speech activities, the newly organized high school speech league of Lane county will meet Saturday morning in Gerlinger hall on the campus, it is announced by W. A. Dahlberg, professor of speech. The organization includes all the "B" league high schools of Lane county as members.

Schools that will send delegates are: Florence, Crow, Creswell, Lowell, Mapleton, Elmira, Coburg, Oakridge, Pleasant Hill, McKenzie, St. Mary's, Triangle Lake, Lorane, Thurston and Mohawk.

Members of the university speech department will give a demonstration panel discussion program during the meeting on the question, "Are We Placing too much Emphasis upon Inter-Scholastic Athletics?" Presiding officer will be Elva Jane South, Aurora. Panel members are Earl Holmer, Eugene; Jane Hooker, Medford; Leonard Clark, Portland, and Darlene Warren, Clifton.

The league is planned to off-set in part the emphasis that is now placed on inter-scholastic athletic programs. It will provide for regular inter-scholastic speech programs and will experiment in inter-scholastic speech activities with the newer speech forms such as student congresses, panel discussions, extempore speaking contests, parliamentary procedure demonstrations, and radio speaking. In addition to fostering all forms of speech activities several inter-scholastic speech conferences will be scheduled each year.

At noon there will be a business meeting of the league members at which time the president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and committee chairmen will be elected.

Future meetings will be held in the different high schools and communities in which the member schools are located. Other high schools may be admitted to membership if they so desire, by a unanimous vote of the members of the association.

Mr. Dahlberg, who has been largely instrumental in organizing and giving impetus to the work, will be in charge of the meeting. Those wishing information on the speech league may obtain it by writing to him in care of the University of Oregon speech department.

Kennedy Cites Ship Need Of British

could understand why they permitted a British army of 300,000, to escape at Dunkirk, when they had a chance to wipe out the real strength of Britain."

"Mr. Kennedy," asked Fish, "do you know the war aims of the British government?"

"I certainly don't," said Kennedy.

The retiring ambassador also said he never gave the British the idea that the United States would help them conquer Europe.

"The British people feel we are helping them," Kennedy said. "Some of the people at the top feel they are not getting the help to which they are entitled."

"Is England rapidly going socialist?" asked Fish.

"If you mean is labor or the socialist party becoming more effective in the government, that is so," Kennedy said.

Asked about the possibility of British defeat of the axis, Kennedy said:

"Entirely from numbers, I don't see how 1,500,000 men can drive 6,000,000 men, armed to the teeth, from any place unless there is a revolution in those countries."

"Do you favor a limitation to prevent the executive giving away the navy?" asked Fish.

"I can't for the life of me believe that there is anybody in the United States who would give away the navy," Kennedy replied. "I just can't believe it."

The retiring ambassador said the world situation "very definitely" makes it necessary for congress to surrender some of its powers, but not to the extent proposed in the administration's British aid bill.

Kennedy said the surrender of congressional authority is required to some degree to permit the United States to "catch up" on preparedness.

He said it was up to congress to decide where the line in delegation of power should be drawn; at another point he suggested a time limit on the bill and creation of a small congressional committee to share with the president the administration of British aid.

Leavitt O. Wright Wins Honor Spot

Dr. Leavitt O. Wright, professor of Romance languages at the University of Oregon, has been elected chairman of the nominating committee of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish, he has announced here after returning from the association's 24th annual convention at Albuquerque, New Mexico.

The nominating committee will not only nominate officers for 1942, but will recommend a new editor for the national magazine.

Peace Is Chant Of Galleries

who comes from the 28th district, said of Pettus, the 27th district representative:

"If Pettus made such a speech as that in the 27th district during the campaign he wouldn't be here today. This is an assumptive resolution. It assumes we are at war. We are not at war."

Rep. Edward F. Riley (D-King) then moved for a vote on the resolution and demands by Pettus and Rep. William Pennick (D-King) for a roll call failed to muster sufficient support.

At that time members suddenly craned their necks to the north gallery where the delegation of about 15 women stood up and displayed black cards with white writing on them, such as "we want peace," "no broken homes."

Mrs. Camozzi led the choir-like chant: "we want peace."

Speaker Edward J. Reilly (D-Spokane) warned that the galleries would be cleared if there was any further demonstration. He called for a voice on Pettus' resolution. It drew a few scattered "ayes" and a thunder of "noes."

Then Mrs. Camozzi stood up again and cried down to the representatives:

"We want peace. You didn't give them a chance to talk on this."

Speaker Reilly's gavel cut her off again, and he repeated his warning to clear the gallery. The demonstration subsided and the house returned to a routine reading of bill introductions, until the second war aid resolution hit the floor, when the final demonstration occurred.

Eugene's little wave of burglary and larceny continued Monday evening and Tuesday, when five more such crimes were reported to the city police.

E. S. Dunbar reported brief cases and papers taken from his car parked at 807 Olive street.

Dr. F. A. Elliott reported someone had entered his office through a window leading from a roof and had taken $10 in bills.

Jane Morrison, Route 4, Eugene, reported theft of a bicycle.

Bob Harris, 2121 Harris street, said several accessories were stolen from his bicycle.

Someone entered the B. & E. Grocery, 444 Lincoln street, and took $3 in pennies and five cartons of cigarettes.

Other cases on the police docket: Martin V. Endicott, who gave his address at 1728 Ferry street, was arrested on a charge of drunken driving at Fourteenth and Willamette.

Doors were left open at two service stations Monday night: A. E. John service station, Third and High; Wyatt service station tire room.

Campus Freshman Wins Writing Honor

National recognition for his talent in creative writing came this week to George Hart, freshman at the University of Oregon from Santa Ana, Cal., when he received notice that his short story, "Johnny on the Spot," has been awarded third place in a contest sponsored by The Open Road for Boys, boy's monthly magazine.

The story, which Hart wrote while attending high school at Santa Ana, will be published in
