NEW YORK—Most arresting of the current crop of fashion shows are posed against backgrounds typical of places where the clothes featured actually will be worn.
Fashions to wear on the beach are paraded beside swimming pools and beach clubs. Slim, sophisticated luncheon and cocktail hours in restaurants where smart women gather.
As a result—and a satisfying result it is—the potential customer doesn't have to sigh, "Yes, that swim suit is pretty in this soft light. But how would it look in sunlight on the beach?"
All within the past few weeks New Yorkers have been shown clothes for the races on models parading up and down the ramp of the special fashion terrace at Belmont Racing Park; luncheon ensembles for hot days during lunch hours at hotels and restaurants; beach clothes right at nearby beach clubs.
Extremely handsome were the beach fashions shown at the Huntington, Long Island, Crescent Club a couple of days ago.
A brief sunsuit of white gabardine, shown above, worn by CBS actress Virginia Dwyer, practically stopped the show. Pockets of the shorts and the bra top are appliqued with green leaves.
Chic spectators—members of the Huntington Crescent Club and their guests—applauded also the bathing suits at the right. The striped creation comes in emerald green and white. The flowered model is of white silk jersey with the South Sea Islands design in brilliant colors.

Penwomen Elect New Officers

THE Eugene Penwoman's club met at the home of Mrs. Paul J. Cauthorn Wednesday. The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. J. E. Brunton, re-elected president; Mrs. Jess Hayden, vice-president; Mrs. Minnie B. Conley, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. R. T. Gischler, reporter; Mrs. Paul J. Cauthorn, historian. Five new members were initiated.

The program consisted of readings from original writings by the members. Miss Marett Gischler played two accordion solos. Later in the afternoon, Mrs. Doris Smith, director of the Oregon Trail Pageant, appeared and gave an outline of the pageant. Mrs. Smith was dressed in a reproduction of an authentic Godey frock and bonnet in true pioneer style. Many of the members and guests were in pioneer costume. The hostess, Mrs. Cauthorn, wore a moss green satin dress and dolman worn by her grandmother eighty years ago. Mrs. J. P. Clements wore the black lace dress in which Mrs. Joseph N. Dolph was presented at the court of Queen Victoria. Mrs. Frank Burgett appeared in her own white wedding gown. Mrs. Emma Mills wore a colonial costume used in an earlier pageant. Mrs. Brunton wore a pioneer costume of blue sprigged lawn, a black feather boa, and carried a large black melon muff. Mrs. Fern Crow wore a colonial costume with pantalettes. Mrs. Hayden wore a black alpaca belonging to her great-grandmother. Mrs. Mary Brown. Mrs. Gischler wore a blue and white batiste, and Mrs. Ida Adams a rose satin. Miss Mabel Knowlton was dressed in a dark wine crepe. Mrs. A. J. Sauer wore the blue faille taffeta wedding dress worn by her grandmother, Annie Adkins Cherry, in 1863. Mrs. Orpha Backlund wore a black georgette embroidered in jets. Others present were: Mrs. George Saunders, Mrs. Minnie Conley, Mrs. Alta King, Mrs. Otto Selling, and Mrs. Grace Lamphire of Burns, Oregon.
At refreshment time, the guests retired to the inviting outdoor living room where tea was served from beautifully appointed tables. Mrs. Burgett and Mrs. Sauer assisted the hostess in pouring, using the antique silver service, heirlooms of the Cauthorn family.

next business meeting will be June 28.

PLAN PRACTICE
