

Pioneer Memorials Described As 1941 Pageant Approaches

1876, while carrying the mail on foot. The rural mail carriers of Oregon have placed this marker on the site of Craig's cabin. Craig helped build the first road up the McKenzie river. A pass in the Blue mountains which he helped discover is named for him. Still another marker at McKenzie Bridge, 50 miles or so from Eugene, is dedicated to those who blazed a trail over the pass.

In 1883, Captain Felix Scott and a group of 50-60 men hacked their way from a distance of four miles or so from Vida over the Pass to eastern Oregon. The task took all summer, but in the fall they were able to drive 900 cattle over the summit, and nine wagon loads of supplies.

Just south of the overhead crossing at Springfield junction on the Pacific highway is a marker which reads Coryell Pass, Oregon Trail, 1848.

Erected by the Lewis and Clark chapter, D.A.R., this marker was given by Mrs. Bruce Bogart of Eugene.

Coryell pass has a clear flowing spring and was used by the early pioneers for a camp site. No one lived there in 1848 when Elijah Bristow came through, but two years later when Mrs. Bristow, her grown children, T. G. Hendricks and others came through, they found the cabin of Abraham H. Coryell. A deer hung on the ridge pole.

From this spot, one may see the mingling of the Middle and the Coast forks of the Willamette river. From there one continues south to Goshen and up the Willamette highway to Pleasant Hill where the Bristow home was established. Four men, one of them Mr. Bristow, set out to find homesites in the spring of 1846.

On the high ground between the two forks of the river, Bristow is said to have exclaimed, "What a pleasant hill! This is my claim!" Here he built the first permanent dwelling in Lane county. Pleasant Hill can boast also the first school, the first church and the first cemetery in Lane county. For all these Mr. Bristow donated the land. Part of the chimney of the original cabin still stands and is appropriately marked.

Susannah Gebbert Bristow, Elizabeth's wife, was the daughter of a soldier of the American Revolution. She was the mother of 15 children. She and her husband lie side by side in the Pleasant Hill cemetery.

(This account leaves us at Goshen from where the trail will be taken up next week over the Pacific highway.)

old clothes and a sleeping bag or bedroll. Cameras, either still or movie, with lots of film are also advised. The registration fee is $3, to be paid at the Lakeview "water hole" or upon arriving at camp.

The three-day program includes hikes, sight-seeing, monies around a barbecue feed, ceremonies around the camp fire, and reunion with other "antelope" of Oregon. This annual trek to Hart mountain was started in 1932 and in the years since, more than 400 men have been initiated into the mystic order of the Antelope which asks no dues, requires no obligations and welcomes all who are seeking a life.

"Far away from my wife Where my tears and my woes fade away, Where in ornery ease, I can do as I please, And waste my existence in play. Home, Home on the Range, Which is not as the poets have sung. Where the sage ticks hold sway, And the rattlesnakes play, With the horse thieves that ought to be hung."

Among Eugeneans planning to make the trek are: Earl Kendall, Dr. C. D. Donahue, Phil Nee, J. E. Turnbull, Fred Brenne, W. M. Tugman.

American Place In New Lineup Major Puzzle

Russia would qualify for American lease-lend aid in the event she became the victim of aggression. Welles turned the question aside as hypothetical.

Extreme difficulties existed for the United States or Great Britain to get any aid to Russia. From this country, materials presumably would have to go via the Pacific to the Russian port of Vladivostok.

Japan's position in the new lineup thus became a matter of increased importance. Negotiations Carried On

The United States for several months carried on negotiations with Russia apparently intended to keep relations on as friendly a basis as possible.

These talks, largely concerned with trade problems, were suspended several weeks ago when the increasing demand for materials needed for national defense in this country led to a sharp curtailment of exports to Russia.

company, Coast-to-Coast stores, J. W. Quackenbush & Son, Marion Veatch, Peterson Bros. service station, Willamette post No. 293, V.F.W. The total contributions amount to $107.

The Veterans, in cooperation with Bobby Rowe and horsemen from California, Washington and Oregon, will hold a series of athletic events over the Fourth-of-July holidays.

The schedule calls for a downtown parade July 4, followed by running and harness racing at the fairgrounds in the afternoon, midget auto racing in the evening, and fireworks at night. The next day, Saturday, another horse-race meet will be held, and arrangements are being made for a baseball game at Civic Stadium on Sunday afternoon.

Here Is Text of Hitler's Declaration Against Russia:

TEXT REPORTED

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Here is the text of Hitler's proclamation as reported by the CBS:

It was a difficult step for me to send my minister to Moscow in order to attend to work against the policy of encirclement of Britain.

I hoped that at last it would be possible to put away tension.

Germany never intended to occupy Lithuania. The defeat of Poland induced me to again address a peace offer to the Allies. This was declined because Britain was still hoping to bring about European coalition. That is why Cripps (Sir Stafford Cripps, British ambassador) was sent to Moscow. He was commissioned under all circumstances to come to an agreement with Moscow. Russia always put out the lying statement that she was protecting these countries (evidently Lithuania, Estonia, and Latvia, the Baltic states.)

The penetration of Russia into Rumania and the Greek Liaison with England threatened to place new, large areas into the war. Rumania, however, believed she was able to accede to Russia only if she received guarantees from Germany and Italy for the remainder of the country. With a heavy heart I did this, for if Germany gives guarantees, she will fulfill them.

We are neither Englishmen nor Jews. I asked Molotov (Vyacheslav Molotov, Soviet foreign commissar) to come to Berlin and he asked for a clarification of the situation. He asked:

"Is the guarantee for Rumania directed also against Russia?"

I replied: "Against everyone."

And Russia never informed us that she had even more far reaching intentions against Rumania.

Molotov asked further:

"Is Germany prepared not to assist Finland, who was again threatening Russia?"

My reply was that Germany has no political interests in Finland but another attack on Finland could not be tolerated. Especially as we do not believe that Finland is threatening Russia.

Molotov's third question was:

"Is Germany agreeable that Russia give guarantees to Bulgaria?"

My reply was that Bulgaria is a sovereign state and I did not know that Bulgaria needed guarantees. Molotov said Russia needed a passage through the Dardanelles and demanded bases in the Bosphorus.

A few days later she (Russia) concluded the well known friendship agreement which was to incite the Serbs against Germany. Moscow demanded the mobilization of the Serbian army. When I still was silent, the men in the Kremlin went one step further. Russia offered to deliver war material against Germany. This was at the same time that I advised Matsuoka (foreign minister of Japan) to bring about a lessening of the tension with Russia. Serb officers flew to Russia where they were received as Allies. Victory of the axis in the Balkans at first foiled the plan to involve Germany in a long war and then together with England and with the hope of American supplies to throttle Germany.

Now the moment has come when I can no longer look at this development. Waiting would be a crime against Germany. For weeks the Russians have been committing frontier violations. Russian planes have been crossing the frontier again and again to prove that they are the masters. On the night of June 17 and again on June 18 there was large patrol activity.

The march of the German armies has no precedent. Together with the Finns we stand from Narvik to the Carpathians. At the Danube and on the shores of the Black sea under Antonescu (Rumanian chief of state) German and Rumanian soldiers are united. The task is to safeguard Europe and thus save all.

I have therefore today decided to give the fate of the German people and The Reich and of Europe again into the hands of our soldiers.

Long Awaited Test Of Red Army Arrives

tomarily are given training.

But actually the effective manpower of that army was stated in Moscow in 1938 to be 2,000,000 men, counting the regular army, and the cadres of reserves and territorial forces.

Fully mobilized, the Soviet might amass an army of 5,000,000 men or more.

But upon the controversial question of Soviet production depends whether they would be equipped with the modern implements of war so they would be effective.

Moreover, upon the Soviet state of preparedness, depends whether they have been mobilized and moved into approximate position to meet the onslaught.

Owing to the poor state of Russian railways and motor roads, some authorities believe it would take 60 to 90 days for the Soviet really to mobilize.

Fed for years on the propaganda of the Soviet state of preparedness the world was puzzled, then amazed when the little Finnish army stood off the Red army for many weeks in the winter of 1939-40.

Since then, Joseph Stalin has seen to it that the Red army was given a thorough overhauling. Real discipline was introduced. The political commissars, previously stationed with each unit to see that the military commander did not double cross the communist party, were practically abolished, and the generals were given command of their units. Generals and other officers' ranks replaced the old system of commanders.

The salute was introduced, soldiers and sailors no longer enjoyed the privilege of appealing over the heads of their commanders. Guard house punishments for infractions of discipline were made more severe, decorations were awarded for merit.

More rigid training, with an eye to actual field conditions, was introduced and realistic maneuvers carried out.

U. S. Prepares To Put Warlike Clamp on Aliens

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(AP)

—The administration tonight prepared to exercise wartime control over the movements of aliens in the United States as relations with the axis progressively worsened.

Only the thin thread of restricted diplomatic representation remained between Washington, Berlin and Rome after a week of intense international activity. The United States got in the final thrusts today—one aimed at Italy and the other at Germany.

Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles handed Don Ascanio Del Principi Colonna, the Italian ambassador, a note requesting the closing of all Italian consulates in the United States by July 15 and the expulsion of all persons of Italian nationality connected with those offices. Welles also announced that he had transmitted to Hans Thomsen, the German charge d'affaire, a note calling Germany's attention to President Roosevelt's message to congress on the sinking of the Robin Moor.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED

WENDLING, June 21.—(Special)—The men at the Booth-Kelly were called to a roof fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Roach this week. It was soon extinguished with no damage done.

Mrs. Beryl Crow entertained the Welfare club this week.
