veloped between Berlin and Washington.

Germany charged the United States today with planning to seize the French island of Martinique, in the West Indies, as a result of French Chief of State Pétain's newly-announced policy of stronger collaboration with the Reich.

"Excuse"

Authorized quarters in Berlin declared bluntly that certain American groups which "for a long time have cast covetous eyes on Martinique" would use Pétain's speech yesterday as an excuse to "satisfy their lust" for the island.

In both Washington and London, serious repercussions arose over France's new attitude.

In Washington, the conviction was freely expressed that Pétain's pro-Nazi alignment held threats to American interests and territories, and the U. S. state department was reported negotiating for air base rights on the hump of Brazil close to Dakar, French West Africa take-off base nearest the Americas.

In London, authoritative quarters said Pétain planned to "subjugate the French people and force upon them a policy which they detest."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull withheld formal comment, but some senators and congressmen outspokenly urged that the American republics should take over France's colonies in the western hemisphere.

Several congressmen also advocated breaking off diplomatic relations with the Vichy government and recognizing Gen. Charles de Gaulle's free French regime.

British Minister of Supply Lord Beaverbrook's London Daily Express, referring to strong new powers granted to France's Vice Premier Admiral Jean Darlan, declared:

"Darlan has become France's fuhrer and Pétain his Hindenburg."

Pétain is 85, Germany's late president Paul von Hindenburg was 88 when he died, after yielding full powers to the rising satellite Adolf Hitler.

In Berlin the Nazi foreign office hailed Pétain's speech as important because powers outside the continent "which desire to establish guardianship over France were rebuffed" and because the aged Marshal had solidly allied himself with Hitler's "new order" for Europe.

On the Russo-German war front, Hitler's high command reported that Nazi troops were "pursuing the enemy" inflicting bloody losses on Soviet rearguards, and the British conceded that the Red army position in the Ukraine was very grave.

Port Caught

Nazi military dispatches asserted that the port of Odessa, main base of the Russian Black sea fleet, was caught in a gigantic "squeeze," with German columns storming toward the city from three sides.

German reports said a considerable Red army force was trapped along the Black sea coast between Odessa and Ochakov, 40 miles east, cut off from retreat by German and Rumanian troops knifing down the Bug river valley to the sea.

The Soviet high command, silent for the first time on key sectors in the 53-day old struggle, reported that Russian troops had routed a German elite division of 15,000 men and smashed another division, killing and wounding 7,800 men, in an unspecified sector of the 1,200-mile front.

"During the night of Aug. 12, nothing of importance took place on our front," the Red army's mid-day communique asserted.

Some Russians interpreted the communique as indicating that the new German smash toward Odessa and Leningrad had been stemmed, reducing the third big Nazi offensive of the war to minor local actions.

The Germans, however, reported that Hitler's invasion armies were crushing the last Soviet resistance in the western Ukraine. Berlin commentators predicted that Marshal Semyon Budenny, in use of his famous "cat" metaphor, would have to surrender the entire Dnieper river bend to swift-striking German and Rumanian troops.

Moscow dispatches reported that Red warplanes had destroyed a large bridge over the Danube river at Cerna-Voda, halting all military transport between Bucharest and Constanta.

Deserter Faces Larceny Charge

Bishop Wednesday, said he heard his car horn honk Tuesday evening. Rushing out from his residence he saw a man running down the alley.

Richardson gave chase and later found a brief case, which had been taken from his car. He called officers who took up the investigation.

They located Bishop at Fourth and Monroe, standing behind a tree with a blanket over his shoulder, looking through a billfold. When they attempted to question him he fled, casting aside his loot as he ran. They captured him and made the arrest after a stiff battle.

Bishop had in his possession two billfolds, a one-dollar check, a blanket, two cameras, cigarette lighter, jacket, pair of glasses and other items.

Chief Carl F. Bergman said a report that Bishop had deserted from Fort Lewis August 8 had been received some time ago from Captain Ronald Husk, personnel officer.

Bishop has a long record of misdemeanors here. He was one of the men involved in the "goon" activities here in 1937, Bergman said.

He will probably be brought up in justice court Wednesday afternoon.

109, too," yelled No. 2 rear gunner. Below I saw a parachute open. One of our victims had managed to bail out. Someone reported that one fighter had crashed on the ground.

Now we were doing violent evasive action. The Ack-Ack was coming at us. The target was desperately near. "Broomph! Broomph!" went a burst right beneath my face. I put on my parachute.

"You'll have to do a 90-degree turn left to make it," I told Maxie. "Quickly!" He wheeled her over and the formation followed. "Left, left," I called. "Steady." The target was coming down the drift wires.

"Dropping, dropping, go," I hollered and the bombs sailed out. On the last turn No. 3 had sithered above us and his bombs near hit us as they fell. "Bombs gone," I shouted. "Good show," said Maxie. "Now let's get out of here."

At that moment I knew that we had missed the Gneisenau because I had felt a slight skid as we came out of the last sharp turn and straightened out. As we divined and turned, I saw

Enemy transports entered the harbor soon afterwards. At 6:30 a. m., the telephone operator at Raymond, Wash., in the same area, reported "enemy troops entering city—" but before she could give the strength of the army or other details, the line went dead.

Services Take Four Lane County Men

Three men were enlisted in the navy and one called to army duty from Lane county Tuesday, according to officials here.

John R. Ramsey, Wendling, Walter J. Cochran and Harry E. Spence, both of Eugene, were enlisted in the navy. They left for San Diego naval training station Tuesday.

Samuel K. McGaughy, Eugene, a first lieutenant in the infantry reserve, was ordered to report for active duty August 22. He will go to Moffett Field, Calif.

Northwest Troops Battle Fiercely As 'Invaders' Land

Even the highest army officers did not know when the mythical enemy would strike; only the umpires held the secrets. All this was planned in order to hold the war games under close to actual war conditions.

For the past two days, there had been reports from up and down the west coast of mythical feints by the make-believe attacker.

This kept officers in a state of harassment and uncertainty. Only yesterday the enemy fleet was reported to have bombed points in the Los Angeles area and retired into a dense fog off the coast. Officers said this feint was made by only a few ships of the mythical fleet in order to throw the concentration of soldiers at Fort Lewis off guard.

The fleet had been reported heading south, but instead the main body of ships had been steaming north in the fog to make the attack this morning.

First word of the make-believe attack came at 2:45 a. m., when a coast guard station at Port Angeles, Wash., on the north tip of the Olympic peninsula at the gateway to Puget Sound sighted naval vessels and transports.

About an hour later the guns of Fort Worden opened fire on the fleet.

Dive bombers took off from enemy aircraft carriers and headed eastward.

In 16 minutes Fort Worden was destroyed.

About dawn the McChord base underwent a mythical terrific bombing attack, putting that field out of commission.

At 5:15 a. m., large motor boats, accompanied by mine sweepers, entered the harbor at Aberdeen, Wash., and the Aberdeen chief of police reported several hundred parachute troops were dropped from transport planes near city wharfs. The police force was unable to cope with the situation.

Enemy transports entered the harbor soon afterwards. At 6:30 a. m., the telephone operator at Raymond, Wash., in the same area, reported "enemy troops entering city—" but before she could give the strength of the army or other details, the line went dead.

Walter J. Holland, one of the Lane commissioners, is a member of the executive committee.

Three Loggers Hurt in Accidents

Three men, employees of three different logging companies, were admitted to the Eugene hospital Wednesday noon, with injuries received while on duty.

Darrell McKibben, 18, of Cottage Grove, an employee of the Robert Beech logging company suffered a pelvic injury when he fell between two logs. His condition is reported not serious.

Lester Walker, 36, of Harrisburg, Route 1, was reported as having a fractured pelvis, which injury he also received when he fell between two logs while working for the Potter Brothers Lumber company, at Harrisburg.

Ralph J. Clarkson, 59, of Walton, employed by the Austa Lumber company, was badly bruised in a mill accident.

Salvation Army Asks Help On Project

In order to finish the Salvation Army basement, it has been found that, due to increased costs of material and labor, the local corps will need the services of two painters and two carpenters, to work part of the day and during the evening donating part of their time to this project.

When the project is finished there will be bathing facilities to be made available to men or families passing through the city. "Many have contributed something to make this possible, and with a little additional help in funds and labor we will be able to complete this needful project," Major C. Ford, local officer in charge, stated today.

and Lou of "Three's The Charm" fame on Noble's various programs. From England

Noble, who enjoys one of the best reputations of any dance orchestra leader in the country, had a considerable music "name" even before he came to America from England.

About eight years ago, Morton Downey came back with a tune which he used as a theme song, "Good Night Sweetheart." It quickly skyrocketed to fame as the No. 1 tune in America, just as it was in England. That was only the first of a succession of tunes and best-selling records which were eventually to bring composer-conductor Ray Noble himself to the United States.

Since then he has written a long parade of hits, being his own lyricist, just as Irving Berlin is. Company Director at 26

By the time Noble was 26, he was general musical director of H. M. V., biggest British recording company, and since then he has been tremendously successful as a band leader.

His Portland appearance several weeks ago was hailed as one of the most successful appearances of any recent dance orchestra.
