Concert Series Will Be Varied Every major field of musical interest—voice, piano and violin—are represented by the world's finest available talent on the University of Oregon's 1941-42 "Greater Artist" series, Dean Theodore Kratt of the University's School of Music pointed out this week. Dean Kratt, who as a member of the educational activities board was instrumental in signing the outstanding artists to appear this season, consider the 1941-42 series as "the best yet." He points out that lovers of vocal music will hear two of the world's outstanding singers, Grace Moore and Nino Martin; pianists will hear and see the incomparable Josef Hofmann; while the violin will be played by Yehudi Menuhin, one of the greatest virtuosos. Climaxing this well balanced series will be a full orchestra, with all musical instruments, in the Seattle Symphony, directed by Sir Thomas Beecham, one of the world's outstanding orchestra conductors. The widespread acclaim of the coming concert series has been reflected in an unprecedented demand for season tickets, it was reported by Dick Williams, educational activities manager. Season tickets, affording a saving of 25 percent over individual admission, are now on sale with Phi Beta, national women's music and drama honorary, in charge again this year. Season tickets may be obtained from any member of Phi Beta, by telephoning 3663, at the Phi Beta booth in Miller's department store, or at the A.S.U.O. ticket office in McArthur court. Opening the series this season will be Miss Moore on October 10, followed by Menuhin on December 1, Hofmann on January 7, Sir Thomas Beecham and the Seattle Symphony on February 23, and Martin on April 8. All concerts will be presented at McArthur court on the campus. Mrs. Leeper Plans For Nursery School Mrs. Robert Leeper announces the opening on October 1 of a small nursery school for three- and four-year-olds at her home each morning from 9:30 to 11:30 o'clock. The number of children will be limited to six or seven. In addition, the facilities of the school will be available to a few "visitors" or children whose mothers would like to send them just occasionally. In order to minimize the spread of colds, etc., a special refund will be arranged for absences. The objectives of the school will be to supplement the home training of the preschool child with a bit of social life among his equals in a supervised situation. The program will be very informal. A series of interesting activities will be afforded, such as drawing, painting, carpentry, actor-work, outdoor play, stories, and just plain play; and typical nursery-school procedures will be used. Arrangements have been made with Mrs. John E. Stafford, who has had special training in nursery-school work at Yale University, to serve as substitute on occasion. For further information, phone 1288-M or call at 2760 Agate street.

Fire Truck Overdue—Last One Was Wrecked on Train City firemen wondered Saturday if history was going to repeat itself. Casting worried glances at the calendar, they noted the date was September 20, and that the new fire truck was already one day overdue. Old-timers in the department recalled that the last time the city got a new fire truck (it was back about 1929) the vehicle was damaged in a train wreck, en route to Eugene. The delivery, of course, was delayed until the machine could be returned to the factory and damage from the wreck repaired.
