

Japanese Menace Hongkong, Widen Philippine Hold

The Japanese landed, Penang is an important base for operations in the straits of Malacca.

Dutch Score Hits

The Dutch continued to supply encouraging news. A communique in Batavia said that Dutch airmen scored direct hits on two Japanese cruisers, a transport and another warship apparently being used as a plane carrier in an attack off Miri, Borneo.

Fighting Heavy

An official Manila announcement said that heavy fighting continued all day against the invaders at this point some 800 miles from Manila.

Station Blown Up

In their attempt to relieve pressure on Hongkong the Chinese said their troops blew up the Shumchun station on the Canton-Kowloon railway right at the mainland frontier of the Hongkong colony, and that heavy fighting subsequently developed about 20 miles north of that point.

War Council Considered

At the same time it was authoritatively reported that president Roosevelt was considering the creation of a supreme U. S. war council with powers greater than those of the cabinet. Such a body would have military, political and labor leaders as members in order to gain the maximum efficiency in prosecuting the war, it was said.

Two American Vessels Report Sub Activities

The tanker's crew put on their lifebelts during the attack and were still wearing them when their ship reached Santa Cruz. The vessel anchored offshore. No location was given for this action.

S.O.S. Relayed

The Emidio's SOS was picked up at 3:30 p.m. by the coast guard and relayed to the navy station at Eureka. A coast guardsman at Table Bluff, who reported the freighter was riding low in the water, said he was unable to determine if it had been struck by the torpedo. Indications, however, were the craft was disabled.

Lumber Aboard

The Olson, manned by 11 men, carried a load of lumber. It was the former Matson freighter Coquina, owned by Oliver J. Olson and Co., San Francisco.

President Roosevelt Announced

December 9 that an American vessel had been torpedoed "between San Francisco and Honolulu." This vessel, it developed, was the Olson. No report was ever made whether the ship's crew was saved or lost.

Special Mention

"Special mention," Harmon's letter said, "is made of the alertness and prompt action of the airplane commander and crew of an airplane squadron of this air force (second air force) in spotting immediately and attacking a submarine while in seaward reconnaissance."

All Shots Miss

It was learned an enemy submarine, described as "very big," surfaced 20 miles off Cypress point, near Santa Cruz, Cal., 80 miles south of San Francisco, and fired eight shots with its deck gun at an oil tanker proceeding from Los Angeles to San Francisco. All the shots missed.

Reports Confirmed

In mid-afternoon Admiral Greenlaid issued a statement saying the navy had confirmed that enemy submarines are operating off the California coast.

Wanted a Gun

In the attack on the tanker off Santa Cruz, it was learned that the ship successfully eluded the submarine and fled full speed into Santa Cruz harbor.

Put on Life Belts

It was understood the crewmen of the tanker put on their lifebelts during the attack and were wearing them when the ship made harbor.
