Reserves At Grove Meet

STAGE GROVE—The police reserves met Tuesday evening at the city hall. The meeting was in charge of Lieutenant Dalley. The resignation of Don Caton was accepted as he had been transferred to Eugene. A kit was presented to the police by Myron A. Perry to be used at all times in the prowling or for the first aid kit. Chief introduced Lieutenant Al...

Junction Legion Auxiliary Installs

JUNCTION CITY—The Legion auxiliary met in special session this week at the grange hall when installation of officers recently elected was conducted by Mrs. E. F. Mack, third district president, and her team, all of Eugene. Officers installed are: Gretchen Robbins, president; Cleone Green, first vice; Ethel Borggaard, second vice; Berna Ditto, secretary-treasurer; Sarah Carpenter, chaplain; Jean Mallette, sergeant at arms.

When Columns Are Late

When I'm late with columns, it's because I obey the scriptural injunction and let first things come first. Before I can sit down with paper and pencil in the morning, I have to skim old milk and feed it to the pigs, so I can have pans into which I will strain the new milk. And when I go to feed the Susies (pigs to you), I must stop long enough to scratch the back of the pink one, with a stick. Itchy pig backs come before literature, every time. Some of you will understand how this is, some won't. Some may even give a disdainful grunt, and it's just as well that I can't hear them, for those pigs have given me a pretty high standard in grunts. The grunts of a satisfied pig have something your dissatisfied ones would lack. I can't quite put my finger on it, but it's there. If you don't believe me, come on down to Hillside and we'll hold a grunting contest—either one of the Susies versus you. But my advice is to cede the pig as the better grunter, and so save your bus fare down. Part of this morning's interference with writing was that I bargained with the man that if he'd fix the gate to the chicken yard, I'd stack a load of wood lately delivered. This was not particularly virtuous on my part, since I like to stack wood. I enjoy lining up the tiers to the best advantage; saving out the pitchy pieces for kadding; putting the chunky blocks aside for the heater. Stacking wood should give me a back ache, but doesn't. Funny, how things we like to do never hurt or tire us.

IN "ALL-AMERICAN" RAID ON FRANCE; ONE BAGGED FIRST NAZI—To 21-year-old Sgt. Kent L. West, second from right, of West Brockton, Ala., "belly gunner" in a "flying fortress," went the honor of shooting down the first Nazi plane scored for American forces in Europe. He was riding his "Birmingham Blitzkrieg" when a German Focke Wulf 190 swooped down on the fortress. Kent's blazing .50 caliber guns quickly ended the Nazi's flight. With West in this photo cabled from England are his mates after their safe return to British soil after their raid on Rouen, France.

Funerals Reported

REEDSPORT—Funeral services for Frank William Boak, 65, who died Monday at Keizer hospital, North Bend, where he had been confined for the past six months, were held Thursday at the Unger Funeral home in Reedsport, with interment in Scottsburg cemetery. Rev. D. L. Roys, pastor of the Reedsport Assembly of God church, officiated. Mr. Boak was born in Champagne, Ill., and had resided at East Gardiner for many years prior to moving to Reedsport. He is survived by his wife, Mary Boak, and by a daughter, Mrs. Myron Wilkes, both of Reedsport. Funeral services for Mrs. Doria Eleanor Killian, 65, who died Tuesday at her home in Reedsport will be held Saturday at 2 p. m., at the Unger funeral home with interment in Reedsport Masonic cemetery. Mrs. Killian was born in Marshall county, Ind., and is survived by her husband, George Killian, and two daughters, Mrs. William T. Mahoney and Mrs. J. C. Krebs, of Reedsport, and by two sons who are serving with the U. S. armed forces. Rev. D. L. Roys also will officiate at the funeral of Mrs. Killian.

IN WALTERVILLE

WALTERVILLE—Janet Stacy of Redmond is staying awhile at the home of her aunt, Mrs. George William. John Kickbusch is making necessary repairs at the schoolhouse before opening of school, Sept. 14, and also is renovating the inside of the building. Ivory and cream paint is being applied to the ceiling and walls which will give more light to the school room. About twenty pupils will be enrolled. A. T. Easton was combining Tuesday for Charlie Smeed. The threshing season in this vicinity is drawing to a close and the men are getting in between season work preparatory to starting the fall plowing and seeding. Early hops start this week and a few days will elapse between them and the late hops. Most of the bean yards are reentering full crews. Bean picking was resumed Wednesday morning in the Endicott yard after Monday afternoon and Tuesday night-off. Howard Campbell was at home Saturday night and Sunday as part of a 48 hour leave. He is stationed in Washington in the marine reserves. Winnifred Kickbusch is at the present time working in Portland at the airplane factory. The Walterville Grange met Tuesday evening. The legislative chairman, George William, gave a report on war production and other topics of interest. The H. E. club had no report. C. F. Grant and L. D. Shrode both reported on the agriculture committee and several others spoke on topics they introduced. O. L. Clement and George William spoke on scrap metal conditions. Mrs. John Kickbusch gave a report on her relief committee having sent a card to A. W. Fraze since he has been ill. Mrs. George William presented contest guessing games in her lecturer's hour. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Alexander were dropped from the roll as they are leaving the community and asked to be dismissed.

Creswell Notes

CRESWELL—Due to the busy season there will be no games night at the grange hall this week. The next one will be Sept. 5. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Pratt and children left recently to visit relatives at Ainsworth, Neb. Mr. Pratt was injured in a mill accident several weeks ago and is making the trip during his convalescence. Cal Taylor is home on a furlough from navy service at San Diego, Cal. He enlisted shortly after graduating from high school this year. Company D of the Oregon state guard went on a scouting trip back of the Ralph Sears ranch Monday evening. The number now registered is over 70. Early varieties of locally grown peaches are now on the market and a good crop of other varieties is anticipated. A good prune crop is also predicted and C. S. Scarborough plans to operate his drier this year. The partial crop of recent years has been dried at plants in nearby vicinities. Dark paint retards the growth of animals, and those bred in light-colored cages grow rapidly, it is said.

FROM WENDLING

WENDLING—Mr. and Mrs. George Oberg with Mr. and Mrs. Marion Donovan and son, Donnie, of Scuyler, Nebraska, have been visiting the Victor Wiles and Myron Schlemmer homes. Sergeant Delbert Fisher of Everett, Washington and his brother Clyde Fisher of Dallas were Sunday guests at the home of their aunt, Mrs. James Simmons. Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Larson of Portland were week end guests of Grover Wilson. Mrs. Larson is a sister of Mrs. Wilson.
